We are surprised to see Old Jack The hoppickers have returned from the hop yards. They did not have a long stay this year. A large crowd from here attended the Buffalo Bill show at Portland Friday and Saturday.

Like the rest of the world we had mon for Stafford. For three nights in succession mercury fell to below freezing point and corn, potatoes, vines and garden truck of all kinds, including grapes, turned black in the face as a general thing, though some places were exempt. In some places a part of a field or garden were nipped and the rest left untouched. Veg-etation being so full of sap, and tender from the long period of warm weather was illfitted to resist such a sudden and cold snap. However we trust each of us has enough left to keep us from starving, and if it is any Mr. Nussbaum has apples gathered to make cider. The paper hangers are about through at Mr. Powell's and George Saum is painting on the outside, white, trimmed with cream, and slate colored roof. Mr. and Mrs. Scott and two little boys went home Tuesday. Mrs. Scott is a sister of Mrs. Powell, and she and her husband came to help them out while building. Mr. Scott also built a new platform for the scales. Mrs. Brink called upon Mrs. Gage Monday afternoon.

Hop picking is over, and in most cases the money put in circulation A few from this vicinity took in the big show at Portland. Quite an amount of clover seed has been threshed, turning out less than some years, as the first blooms were binsted by a few hot days, but more than really expected under the circumstances. Hens are laying off their Summer garb and preparing for new, therefore eggs are scarce,

The potatoes on the Hayes place, Mr. Thomas's, a part of Weddle's, Nussbaum's and some others, are looking pretty well, as the freeze did not injure them.
