MOUNTAIN VIEW.

Miss Josie Curran is in the Home Telephone office as hello girl this week.

J. W. Linn is working on an automobile, which he is constructing for hauling heavy timber to the sawmill. Mr. Shannon, the evangelist, held services at the Mountain View church last week, Tuesday. A large audience greeted him. We hope to have him here again next week to talk to those who can't go down town.

Walter Waldorf, of Oswego, was calling in this burg on Wednesday of last week. He was on his way to Multnomah to secure a location for blacksmithing.

Mrs. McDonald and family have moved again. They have gone to Seattle this time.

W. O. Dickerson, of Maple Lane, was in this burg Tuesday telling of his trip to the mountains on the west fork of the Molalla. He and Mr. Mayville, of Canemah, shot one of the largest deer that has been killed in that vicinity. It weighed over 250 pounds when dressed. We sampled some of the meat.

Mrs. Skinner lost a book somewhere on the Molalla road Monday, while coming into town. Any one who finds it will confer a great favor by returning the same to the owner or to Everhart's store.

Ed Gottberg spent Sunday evening at Oswego with his sister and family, Mrs. Nellie Ball.

Misses Winnie Jackson and Mabel Francis are at home from their schools this week to attend the teachers' institute.

The Mountain View Bible Study Class will meet next week Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mabel Orman on Molalla avenue.

Tummy and Joe Gerber, who have positions in Portland and are also attending night school, were at home one day this week.

Gus Gottberg, who has been up in the mountains, is at home again this week.

Miss Meda Hubbard, of Portland, was visiting with her sister, Josie, over Sunday.

Chester Corbett's little boy was taken quite sick again Tuesday evening.

P. D. Curran is in town again this week. He came in to cast his vote for President. Mr. Curran is quite feeble.

STAFFORD.

The gentle Oregon mist falls upon the just and the other kind, off and on for the last week, and therefore spout digging and apple picking is somewhat spasmodic.

Mr. May was sent to St. Vincent's hospital last week. He has been ill a long time and lately became flighty and hard to control by the family, and they decided to send him to the hospital, in hopes the change might benefit him. All hope he will return restored to health. Perry Sharp and Gus Gerhardt accompanied him, and reported he stood the journey well.

Mr. Wachite preached in English to an attentive audience on Sunday evening.

Hallowe'en passed off rather quietly. A few unburied ghosts flitted about, rattling upon unshaded wind-bells, disturbing house-dogs, etc., and turning home Saturday.

Miss Miller, principal of the school, and Miss Helen R. Hahk drove to Oregon City Saturday.

The seedling family spent Sunday at Fred Ellegren's.

Miss Gertrude Ellegren goes to Oregon City every Monday to take a music lesson.

Fred Kulemeyer, who has been illing for some time with a complication of diseases, but had seemed in better health of late, was taken suddenly worse Monday evening, and Central was called for a long time, but as they could get no answer, they started to take him to Oregon City, but he grew rapidly worse and when they got him to Mr. Powell's they were obliged to ask shelter there, which was freely given, while a messenger proceeded to Oregon City and brought out a physician, who decided he would have to be taken to a hospital.

Election day dawned clear and bright, which may be taken as a good omen and a sign that the country will stand the strenuous life it has been leading for the past months, and come out of the turmoil solid for the fight.

One of the farmers who had a raise in the price of sheep, he knows, as all the papers in the country will have to purchase it by the barrel to kill the poll-dicks.

Later: We hear that a party of goblins from the mountain road did quite a little damage, took one man's sheep, and put another plow up a tree, and a good many depredations are doubtless laid to their door of which they are not guilty.
