MICHIGAN GRANGE WORK.

A Splendid Organization Accomplishing Notable Results.

Michigan takes pride in its grand grange organization. Not only does this pride exist because of its 750 subordinate and its 100 Pomona granges, but more especially because of the progressive and commendable work being done. Our granges are quite generally incorporated under the laws of the state as business bodies and can thus legally own real estate, such as building lots and grange halls, and can conduct various lines of pecuniary business.

The grange organization in Michigan is progressive and strong, popular with farmers and a recognized leader in the advocacy of practical education, social improvement, financial equity and as well a potent creator of commanding public sentiment for or against public questions as they would seem to affect the public welfare. Our granges, as a rule, hold meetings every two weeks, and ritualistic forms are so rendered as to make their beautiful lessons understood and appreciated.

We have in successful operation at the present time about twenty-five county and district and one state fire insurance companies. In this connection it may be of interest to state that in Michigan our chief competition in fire insurance is not with stock companies, but instead with well organized and well managed farmers' mutual companies, which had driven stock companies away from farm properties before the grange companies were organized. The competition between the grange and the farmers' mutual companies has been keen and has demonstrated that because of superior advantages offered through local granges to act as inexpensive and practical agencies the grange companies have proved their superiority. While the farmers' mutual companies average a cost rate of about $2.50 per annum for each $1,000 insured, the grange companies will not average over $1.50 per thousand. The single county company of Lenawee, having an existence of twelve years, has carried the risks of its members at an average of $1.30 per thousand.—State Master Horton.

NEW YORK GRANGE

Last Year's Record is Likened Broken in 1908

On Oct. 1, 1907, the number of the New York state grange round numbers 75,000 in 25 subordinate granges, having added 11 new granges during the year. The amount of money in the treasury on Jan. 1, 1908, was $205,549. It fell into the national grand treasury $3,618.76 for dues. There were forty-five Pomona granges, two having been organized during the year. There were seven juvenile granges in the state. On Jan. 1, 1908, the total number of granges in the state was 673, and fifty-two counties in the state had grange organizations. In the 673 granges there are 77,851 members. There has been a very considerable gain in members since Jan. 1, 1908.

Fire insurance is a strong factor in helping to maintain the organization and has proved itself to be of immense value to the members in providing a safe and reliable insurance on their real and personal property. The Farmers' Fire Insurance association in this state represent nearly $100,000,000 of risks, and while the co-operative associations together representing about $370,000,000, with average cost per $1,000 for the year 1907 of $2.07, the average cost for strictly grange associations was only $1.98 thus proving the value of grange associations.

BASED ON MEMBERSHIP.

A Movement to Secure a Change in National Representation.

At the last meeting of the New York state grange its executive committee was instructed to co-operate with the executive committee of the Michigan state grange with a view to securing more just representation in the national grange. It is argued that these two great grange states should have greater voting power in the national grange than states with merely nominal membership. New York state has 77,000 members and Michigan nearly 50,000. New York paid into the national grange treasury last year $2,618 and Michigan $2,231, and yet these two states have no greater voting strength in the national grange than Minnesota, which paid into the national grange $194.50 and Iowa, which paid $10.23. It would seem that there was a decided injustice in such method of representation, and the question of changing the method, basing representation upon membership, is likely to be an important one at the next meeting of the national grange.

A Thriving Pomona.

Hillsborough county Pomona of New Hampshire had over 400 Patrons at the observance of its twenty-fifth anniversary. It was the largest assemblage of members ever present at a closed session in New Hampshire. This Pomona grange was the first ever organized. It has held more meetings and had more members, according to Secretary Drake of New Hampshire state grange, than any other superior grange in the world. It has now 740 members, the largest in the state. At the recent anniversary twenty-two charter members were present and thirteen of the twenty-five masters alive.

ENTERPRISE READERS ARE INVITED TO CONTRIBUTE AGRICULTURAL, HORTICULTURAL, LIVESTOCK, POULTRY, DAIRY OR "BIG CROP" ITEMS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT.

Put the lid on that peck of trouble. Whisky straight makes a man crooked. As the mind is bent, so is the tongue inclined. Some people never run into debt; they jump into it. Don't expect to find your field of labor full of shade trees. Many a man's dog can give him more fidelity and integrity. He who abandons the farm will find too late that good fortune has abandoned him. A girl who can manage to get three engagements rings must have a circus of her own. Some women never put checks to their purchases. They leave that for their husbands. Why is a pig in a parlor like a house on fire? Because the sooner it is put out the better. Landlady: "What's the matter with the pig?" Boarder: "It isn't fit for a pig, and I'm not going to eat it." It is a waste of effort to try to heat one's house with hot air. A little less talk and a little more time at the wood pile. A naughty man says that a woman has about the same feeling for logic in an argument as for cockroaches in the kitchen. Yes, Abram, one can readily afford to get married on an income of $12 a week, if he will agree to turn it over to his wife every week. The man who sits down to wait for fortune, too late finds that the fickle creature went around the other way with a more masterful man. Don't give your boy a knife unless he will first promise not to swap. Swapping leads to cheating, and that is bad for the boy and worse for him when he grows up. Teacher: "You have named all domestic animals save one. It has bristly hair, it is grimy, likes dirt and is fond of mud. Well, Tom? Tommy (shamefacedly): "That's me."

see in the horse blanket, get out the needle and thread and darn the place before it gets to be much larger. We observe that some of our exchanges are telling "how the farmer's wife can earn money" just as though she was not every day earning a great deal more than she gets. Don't expect your wife to know where all the things are which you leave lying about. Remember, she does not possess second sight, though there are many times when she needs it. Dabbling in stocks and leaving the farm to run itself is not a good way to do business. It is the surest way to trouble and loss. Money out of pocket every time for the man who follows it. The first lesson in fence breaking may come from a little neglect on the part of the farmer to keep the boards or rails all whole. One board off and the mischief has been commenced. Look out for the beginning of such things. Underdrainage is a good thing but is expensive. Oftentimes it is cheaper and quite as effective to overdrain, using grass waterways for this purpose. This is what we do: These overdrains are from six to twelve inches deep in the center, and from ten to twelve feet wide, tapering in depth from the center to the sides. We sow to grass, using timothy and clover for quick growth; with some herd's grass and Kentucky blue for permanency. This makes a lasting and that will carry off the water and never wash the load bit. Of course the drain is never at forward plowed. A whole field may be drained in this way. August is a good time to do the work, but April is better.

Close up the leaks in the roof and all crevices in the poultry house before cold weather sets in. It will prevent discomfort and sickness. Profitable winter eggs can be secured from old hens. Such hens are apt to be profitable in the Spring and Summer. Rely upon pullets only for Winter eggs. Never allow any one with soiled hands to gather eggs, for a very little disease or oil on the shell of an egg will make it worthless so far as hatching is concerned. The pullets have no doubt been on wide range this Summer. If hatched in April or May, they should be put into their Winter quarters by the first of November at the latest. No matter how you feed and care for them hen two years old or over, will not begin to lay until late in the Winter, and then not enough to pay the expense of keeping them. Brown-shelled eggs will command two cents a dozen more in the markets than the pale or white-shelled ones, but the farmer generally leaves that to the commission man to find out. Wash poultry houses two or three times a year, with a little carbolic acid and coal oil in the wash will destroy mites and lice. Use the wash hot and thin, and put it into all cracks with a little brush. The idea that all brown-shelled eggs are more rich in nutritive qualities and white-shelled ones poor, is an old notion, and not supported by actual facts. The eggs of the White Leghorn have good substance and flavor. Eggs will keep for some time in a dry atmosphere—hens' eggs for about ten days; ducks' eggs for one week; turkeys' and geese eggs for twenty days. Nevertheless, for hatching purposes, they should be as fresh as possible. Carelessness in leaving old water dishes standing about where the hens can have access to filthy, stagnant water, and allowing the fowls to eat decayed animal matter, cause great amount of trouble in the shape of bowel diseases and limberneck. Too many farmers consider the location, construction and condition of the poultry house of little importance. These same people growl about the amount of feed the fowls consume and find fault with the hens because they cease to lay when eggs are high in price. Now is the time to crowd the late chicks if you want to get them into market before the price falls. I have found curd, made from sour milk seasoned with salt and pepper and a few spoonfuls of blood meal and ground bone mixed in, a great appetizer; it makes chicks grow rapidly. Do not be deceived by thinking that if your fowls get the roupe the can be easily cured. Genuine roupe, when seated, is a very difficult disease to eradicate, but it is a very easy matter to avoid it. Keep the hen house dry by allowing free ventilation and avoid allowing the hens to roost in a draft. The ad-reader gets more for a dollar than other folks—practically always.

HOME-MADE MIXTURE CURES RHEUMATISM

SAYS MANY PERSONS HERE CAN BE MADE HAPPY AGAIN BY USING IT.

There is so much Rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces of Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who will fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only rheumatism but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after a while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.
