Our people are improving in health. There has been more sickness and deaths here this winter than usual. It has been the doctors' harvest.

Mr. Tucker, who lives at Hood River, formerly of Peorla, Ill., was here on the 26th of February looking for a farm to purchase. He owns 10 acres of Hood River land, but he thinks that it takes too long to raise apples before getting returns in ready cash, and land at Hood River is very high in price. After living in old Clackamas County for 26 years, your scribe says that Clackamas County can raise as nice fruit as Hood River and as large size. Pears that weigh from one pound up to two and onehalf pounds. It is hard to do better than this any where else than in Clackamas County. And when you
