STAFFORD.

Fields of growing grain are taking on a beautiful green, and one begins to feel like getting out and digging when the sun occasionally shines.

Mr. and Mrs. Nussbaum have been digging and resetting plants and sowing lawn grass in their yard about the house.

Mrs. Jack Ellingsen's baby girl who was quite sick last week is better.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carpenter are rejoicing over the advent of a baby boy, and Oscar Larson and wife, the former being a brother of Mrs. Carpenter, also have a son. Their youngest attends school, while this is the first in the household of the Carpenters.

The school is preparing a program for a basket social on the evening of the 12th, the proceeds to go towards the purchasing of an organ for the school. A worthy object. All come and help on the good work.

We hear that a party of young bloods who are in the habit of meeting at Mark Baker's bachelor abode to play cards, got into a knock down argument one evening recently just because there appeared to be five queens in one pack.

The teachers and Miss Helen Rabk, at whose home they board, returned from Oregon City Sunday afternoon.

Frog Pond Grange, known as Tuahlin Grange, is taking a number out of Stafford to join the order. There will be a special meeting on the afternoon of the 20th to give six of this neighborhood the first and second degrees, then will give a class of eight the other degrees on the regular meeting day, the last Saturday in March. They will be prepared to attend Pomona, which meets with them in April.

George Saum purchased a harness of Mrs. Brink last week.

Mr. Nussbaum found Portland full of chicken when he went down with 2 1/2 dozen on Friday. A dealer told him Tuesday was the best day to sell.

Jake Schatz is cutting the year's wood for the home folks with his gasoline engine.

Lame Shoulder.

This is a common form of muscular rheumatism. No internal treatment is needed. Apply Chamberlain's Liniment freely three times a day and a quick cure is certain. This liniment has proven especially valuable for muscular and chronic rheumatism. Huntley Bros. Co.

CLARKES.

A number from here took in the basket social and dance at Paine's school house and hop house and report a very good time.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Wallace called on Mr. Sager's folks Sunday afternoon. Tom and George Sager have left for Klondike. May good luck go with them.

Dix Bros., have brought out three town "guys" to work as most of their old hands have quit and are moving away.

There is to be a dance at H. Wallace's Saturday evening, March 6. All turn out and have a good time.

Mr. Beck was a caller at the Wallace home last week.

SIMPLE MIXTURE SAID TO RELIEVE VICTIM

MIX THIS SIMPLE, HELPFUL RECIPE AT HOME AND TRY IT, ANYWAY.

Get from any prescription pharmacist the following: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered as the most certain prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble, Weak Bladder and all forms of Urinary difficulties. This mixture acts promptly on the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, enabling them to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Some persons who suffer with the afflictions may not feel inclined to place much confidence in this simple mixture, yet those who have tried it say the results are simply surprising, the relief being effected without the slightest injury to the stomach or other organs.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent authority, whose entire reputation, it is said was established by it.

A druggist here at home, when asked, stated that he could either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription for our readers, also recommends it as harmless.

Pileal Piles! Piles! Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles. It absorbs the tumors, allays itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. AN AFRICAN TITBIT.

Hippopotamus Meat Has a Strong Odor and Flavor of Musk.

To the African traveler the hippopotamus is a species of game particularly desirable for its ivory and its hide are both valuable, while the not inconsiderable danger involved in its pursuit provides the delicious emotion without which every kind of hunting is tame and unalloyed.

Moreover, the obligation under which the leader of the expedition lies to feed his servants and carriers adequately makes one of these enormous beasts twelve feet long or so and disproportionately wide, a perfect godsend. Not only does the hippopotamus furnish a formidable amount of meat, but that meat has the inestimable merit of keeping fresh much longer than any other, principally owing to the fact that it does not seem to have an insurmountable odor of it.

I must admit that for a long time I thoroughly sympathized with the flies. Alive, the hippopotamus has a peculiar odor, somewhat resembling musk, which discloses the presence of the animal from afar when he happens to be to windward of one. In the flesh of the dead animal this odor—or the taste of it, rather—persists and is much appreciated by the natives, though foragers take a long time to get accustomed to it; some are never able to support it.—Wide World Magazine.

FIVE SENSES NOT ENOUGH.

Our Limited Scale of Consciousness Shuts Out Many Vibrations.

Between the vibrations that we call electricity and the vibrations that we call heat we imagine there must be other vibrations filling up the gap, but we do not know, simply because we have no senses that can comprehend them. The spectrum is just such a little scale. Below the darkest red at the lower end we cannot see; at the other end as the vibrations get faster and faster through the orange, the blue and the violet is another unknown gap—that is, we cannot see it. But surely the vibrations are there. Some of them, for instance, that we have never seen and never can see mark their presence on a photographic plate. And this same spectrum may be used as an analogy to describe spiritualistic phenomena. Just as there are limits at either end of the scale of vibrations beyond which our own senses can tell us nothing so may there be psychic forces at work beyond the limits of our consciousness. These are seemingly supernatural to us when we witness their effect, but they really are no more supernatural than the X-ray that pierces the solid body or the invisible ultra violet ray that marks the photographic plate.—From "Are the Dead Alive?" by Fremont Rider in Delimitator.

CHOOSING A VOCATION.

Follow Common Sense and Conscience and Do Your Best.

It is very certain that no man is fit for everything, but it is almost as certain, too, that there is scarce any one man who is not fit for something, which something nature plainly points out to him by giving him a tendency and propensity to it.

I look upon common sense to be to the mind what conscience is to the heart—the faithful and constant monitor of what is right or wrong. And I am convinced that no man commences either a crime or a folly but against the manifest and sensible representations of the one or the other.

Every man finds in himself, either from nature or education—for they are hard to distinguish—a peculiar bent and disposition to some particular character, and his struggling against it is the fruitless and endless labor of Sisyphus. Let him follow and cultivate that vocation; he will succeed in it and be considerable in one way at least, whereas if he departs from it he will at best be inconsiderable, probably ridiculous.—Lord Chesterfield.

The Oyster Crab.

Some of the most remarkable crabs to the world live at the expense of other animals. They are crustacean tramps and have no shame in sustaining existence at other animals' cost. One of these marine tramps is a little fellow that makes its home with the living oyster. In fact, it dwells in the oyster's shell and feeds on whatever is left over from the mollusk's dinners. Oddly enough, however, it is only the female that has this habit of "boarding out." The male crab has no permanent home, but spends his time swimming about at the surface of the water. Oyster crabs sometimes are big enough to have an arm stretch of an inch. Epicurus considered them very good to eat. Sometimes they are cooked separately, and occasionally they are pickled. Crabs of nearly allied species, somewhat bigger, are found in the shells of mussels and scallops. In this case, again, only the female is a parasite.

Scottish Caution.

Certainly the cautious Scot sprang the opinions of the Scottish architect who was called upon to erect a building in England upon the long lease system so common with Anglican proprietors, but quite new to our friend. When he found the proposal was to build upon the tenure of 999 years he quietly suggested: "Could ye no mak it a thousand? Nine hundred and ninety-nine years 'll be slipplin' awa'."

But of all the cautious and careful answers we ever heard of was one given by a carpenter to an old lady in Glasgow, for whom he was working, and the anecdote is well authenticated. She had offered him a dram and asked him whether he would have it then or wait till his work was done. "Indeed, ma'am," he said, "there's been sic a power o' sudden deaths lately that I'll just tak' it now."—"Reminiscences of Dean Ramsay."

Gallantry.

At a school in Aberdeen a teacher was examining her class on the Bible, the lesson being a part of Genesis. The teacher asked her class, "Why did the serpent tempt Eve instead of Adam?"

For some time there was silence, but at length a little boy held up his hand and replied, "Please, ma'am, 'cause it's ladies first."—Tit-Bits.

The Real Thing.

"How do youb possum taste, sub?" asked the solicitous waiter. "Well," responded the patron who had ordered the article, "it tastes pretty good, but it isn't possum."

"No, sub," rejoined the waiter, "an' dat's a stran' it's genuine. De genuine possum is a great pretender, sub; yess, sub."—Philadelphia Ledger.

LONG FELT WANT.

A Pica For a Graduated Standard of Misconduct.

What is really wanted at the present time is a standard of misconduct. We are constantly doing things to doubt, as if we hadn't a right to do them.

The confusion caused by people doing things which in their circumstances we had no right to expect is the principal cause of our troubles. It ought to be definitely settled, for example, that any millionaire who has, say, over a hundred millions will there-after lead an honest life. If he has only fifty millions his life should be semi-honest, and if he has only a paltry ten millions then it ought to be conceded that he can loot a few railroads or so until he gets on his feet.

Up to, say, ten thousand a year no man can afford to be dishonest. He ought to get in the cars and give his seat to women under thirty-five at least, and of course he will not take the chance of robbing any safe. From ten thousand up to a hundred thousand he can engage in little dishonest deals by making one of a pool or putting through a land deal or so for variety.

When he gets fifty millions or more together, however, every man ought to ask himself plainly the question whether from now on he ought not to be a philanthropist. Doesn't he owe this to his fellow men?—Life.

ESTACADA.

Born, to the wife of Earl Day, an eleven pound boy on Monday, March 1st.

Garfield Grange met Saturday with 26 members present. Eleven officers were present. T. W. Parker was installed in the third and fourth degrees, and Mr. Stokes and Mr. Wooster were initiated in the first and second degrees. Suitable memorial resolutions were passed. One application was received. Mrs. Mary N. Holder was appointed matron of the Juvenile Grange and Mary Edgerton assistant matron. The following committees were appointed by the master: Finance, W. W. Davis, L. J. Palmateer and Mrs. E. J. Yocum; visiting committee, Mrs. M. K. Irvin, Mrs. Mary N. Holder and T. W. Parker; kitchen committee, Mrs. Sarah Palmateer, Mrs. Mary N. Holder, C. A. Looney, P. M. Wagner and L. J. Palmateer were elected members of the executive committee. F. M. Gill and W. H. Holder are ex-officio members of this committee.

Mrs. Holder called a meeting of the Juvenile Grange for next Saturday at 2 P. M.

DAMASCUS AND ROCK CREEK.

Some of the parents of the school children are planning on having a plank walk laid to the school house which is needed very badly. It will be all done by donation. Why don't all the schools make a move to have good walks for the children, it would prevent bad colds and would be an improvement to the districts.

T. U. Pirtle has moved his family in the Rodion house and has lately bought 12 acres from Mr. Rodion. Sunday school has commenced in the Dunkard church. All are invited to attend.

Mrs. Mike Apelanip is sick and Dr. Hickman, from Portland was called, but she is now improving.
