ONE MAN AND HIS SUCCESS.

About twenty-five or thirty years ago a young man in the State of New York went in debt for a farm, as thousands of other young men have done. The farm was hilly, the soil impoverished, improvements were dilapidated, and there was little about it to invite hope or ambition. But this young man had a purpose in view, a plan for a life, and this purpose and plan became the parents of the twins, Hope and Ambition; and with them ever in his heart and mind he studied that stony, hilly, run-down farm and bent all his energies to the work of making it fit into his plan and help fulfill his purpose. I may as well tell you at once that it was this young man's ambition to become a successful farmer in a businesslike manner. He believed there were advantages to be secured by running a farm as a banker runs a bank or a manufacturer runs a factory—on business principles of expense and income—to lessen the one and increase the other by taking care of the little things. This young man conceived the idea that if he could buy one farm, and pay for it single-handed, he and his paid-for farm could buy and pay for another easier and quicker; and then he and his two farms could easily buy and pay for the third, and so on. And he also believed that by learning how to conduct a farm on a paying basis he could direct the successful operation of several farms, and by the time he was old enough to retire from active life he might have several farms to support him in his declining years, and to leave his children at his death. With this purpose firmly fixed in his mind, he had no hesitancy in shouldering a $3,000 debt for a farm in which he saw possibilities worth working and waiting for. I cannot undertake to describe his struggles during the early years. He had the ordinary "run of luck" to contend with, but he stood steadfast in his purpose. He fought for gains, and none were too small to receive the utmost care, and every gain he made he held to tenaciously. Today Sam W. Allerton is a success as a farmer far beyond his wildest dreams. He owns and directs the operations of farms aggregating over 80,000 acres of the richest agricultural lands in Michigan, Indiana and Illinois, which he superintends from his offices in one of the largest skyscraping office buildings in Chicago. These farms are conducted on a system, the same as a chain of stores is conducted. Mr. Allerton is a millionaire, busy and happy, the living example of the value of a purpose in life.—J. R. Marden, in Model Magazine.

It is said that ex-Vice President Fairbanks may succeed Ambassador Reid at the British court. It will require a man with a purse equal to that of Fairbanks to keep the pace set by Mr. Reid, the wealthiest and most prodigal of all American Ambassadors. There are very few candidates now for ambassadorial positions—at least few in comparison with the number that were in the habit of applying fifteen or twenty years ago. The reason given is that the rich men who formerly applied for and secured these positions have been hard hit by the panic and that the cost of living abroad in ambassadorial style has greatly increased. Mr. Fairbanks is well equipped in manners, means and men for the place so long held by Mr. Reid. He has not had ambassadorial experience in Paris as Mr. Reid has and does not speak French; but he speaks the most widely used

American College Students Have Too Much Liberty.

By Colonel HUGH L. SCOTT, Superintendent of the United States Military Academy.

COLLEGE students in this country have too much liberty. The system is based largely on the German, WITHOUT REGARD FOR THE MORAL TRAINING of the student. This is going too far in the direction of liberality. The German student, as a rule, has had a military training earlier. There is no such training here. The freedom of the German system is for the man whose habits and character already have been formed.

The American boy, who has not had such formative training, should have the character FORMED FOR HIM and not left to his individual caprice.

THE NATION GREATLY NEEDS LARGER LEAVEN OF MILITARY DISCIPLINE, SUCH AS WEST POINT GIVES, TO INCREASE THE RESPECT FOR LAW AND FOR THE DUTIES OF CITIZENSHIP, AND THE COLLEGES OUGHT TO FURNISH IT.

Fleet's Cruise Has Given Us a Better Navy.

By Rear Admiral CHARLES S. SPERRY, Commander of the Atlantic Fleet.

THE cruise of the fleet around the world marks an epoch in our naval annals, for the FLEET HAS FOUND ITSELF—BEEN WELDED INTO A UNITY.

AN AGGREGATION OF BATTLESHIPS, IRRESPECTIVE OF THE POWER AND EFFICIENCY OF THE INDIVIDUAL UNITS, IS NOT A FLEET IN THE HIGHEST SENSE OF THE TERM UNTIL BY LONG, FAITHFUL AND HARMONIOUS WORK ON THE PART OF THE PERSONNEL THE SPIRIT OF THE FLEET HAS BEEN DEVELOPED. THAT NOW HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED.

The American people have come to appreciate the importance of sea power as ONE OF THE MOST POTENT FACTORS IN THE PRESERVATION OF A JUST PEACE, and they should appreciate what it means to have a fleet like this one, which has made so extraordinary a trip.

Oyster Bay, Seth Bullock and Rough Riders have a chance now to see themselves in small print. When Roosevelt has conquered Africa will be set down like Alexander and weep because there are no more continents to reform?

The loving cup presented to Mr. Foraker by his colored sympathizers in the Brownsville case must seem a poor compensation for all he lost by his advocacy of that case.

The new president has for the last four or five days, shaken hands with ten or twelve thousand of his countrymen and countrywomen, finding golf as an exercise quite unnecessary. To hear the Rockefeller at Sunday school begging for money, and passing the plate for contributions, sounds paradoxical, but perhaps even Standard Oil will not lubricate the juggernauts of the salvation car and make it a mere joy wagon.

Mr. George Bruce Cortright who has risen from a Government stenographer to a Cabinet position will now devote his attention to making money as a Corporation lawyer, this reversing the usual order which rules that a man shall become rich first and distinguished afterward.

The Honey Crop. In one year the bees set to market a crop of honey worth nearly as much as the barley crop; three times as much as the buckwheat crop; $6,000,000 greater than the rye crop, and nearly $9,000,000 greater than the rice crop. All of the rice and buckwheat grown on an aggregate area of 2126 square miles, did not reach to the value of the honey by $151,259.

Stiff Neck. Stiff neck is caused by rheumatism of the muscles of the neck. It is usually confined to one side, or the back of the neck and one side. While it is often quite painful, quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. Not one case of rheumatism in ten requires internal treatment. When there is no fever and no swelling as in muscular and chronic rheumatism, Chamberlain's Liniment will accomplish more than any internal treatment. For sale by Huntley Bros. Company.

Wayside Trees. Some horticultural societies are discussing the question of fruit trees for the roadside. The idea is increasing in favor, and all the objections urged come from the fact that as a people we are not yet fully civilized. Let fruit trees take the place of the sorts usually planted and they will furnish not only shade and ornament, but often a good profit in fruit. Never mind if the public takes some of it. Fruit ought to be so plentiful that everybody will be welcome to take a wayside apple. We are far behind Europe in this utilization of the highways. It is very desirable that we have at this time legal encouragement for those who are inclined to such wise, far-sighted planting.—Fruitman and Gardner.

SOCIETY

One of the prettiest home weddings of the season was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Walker, corner of Seventh and Washington streets, on Sunday evening, when Miss Edith Blanche Todd was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Henry Jones, of this city. Promptly at 6:30 o'clock the bride entered the living room, and was preceded by Pearce and Marie Walker, each bearing a white satin pillow, and they were followed by Miss Ivy Roake, who was the maid of honor. The bride was met by the groom, who was attended by the former's brother, Dorrin Todd, of Hubbard, and they took their places beneath a beautiful floral arch made of violets and ivy, where Rev. T. F. Bowen, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, was stationed in the bay window, where the impressive marriage ceremony of the Episcopal church was read. After the marriage ceremony was performed Mrs. Walker served a luncheon. The bride, who was becomingly attired in pearl gray satin, wore a veil that was worn by her mother on her wedding day 35 years ago, and this was held in place by the orange blossoms worn by her great-grandmother on her wedding day. The maid of honor, Miss Ivy Roake, wore cream colored nun's veiling. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were the recipients of many beautiful wedding gifts. Before the departure of the bride and groom on their wedding trip to British Columbia, the bride threw her bouquet which was caught by her sister, Miss Nellie Todd. The Walker home was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The reception hall was in red and green, trailing moss being used among the decorations; the parlor was in green and yellow; the living room, where the ceremony was performed, was in violets, daffodils and Oregon grape and ivy, while the dining room was a bower of beauty, the prevailing colors being green and pink. Festoons of Eklorn moss intermingled with smilax and pink carnations were used with artistic effect. The festoons of moss extended from the corners of the room, making the whole a bower of beauty. The bride is well known in this city, and is the daughter of Mrs. Andrew Todd, of Hubbard, and the groom is a prominent young contractor of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Jones upon their return will make their home in this city.

CELEBRATE WOODEN WEDDING.

Rev. and Mrs. Linden Are Presented With Purse by Church Members. Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Linden were taken by pleasant surprise at the Baptist church Monday night, the occasion being the fifth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Linden had been invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loder early in the evening about 8 o'clock they were summoned home, and upon their arrival found that the church parlors were filled with many of the church members and friends, about 250 being present. The early part of the evening was taken up with the following program: Piano solo, Leo Burden; vocal solo, Victor Gault; reading, Miss Ova Marrs; humorous quartette, A. F. Parker, John W. Loder, Mrs. John W. Loder and Mrs. C. A. Nash. This was followed by a wedding march played by Leo Burden, and the ring bearer, Mrs. T. E. Davis, the trustees and deacons and their wives, were invited into the primary room, where a "wedding" supper awaited them. This room and table were prettily decorated with violets and ivy, and the assembly room where the guests ate, was in daffodils, Oregon grape and ferns. The affair was one of the most enjoyable ever given in the church parlors.
