Milwaukee and Northwestern Clackamas

Those who have news for the Milwaukee department of the Enterprise should either mail it to the Milwaukee Editor of the Enterprise at Oregon City or leave it at the real estate and insurance office of A. H. Dowling in Milwaukee, or with Justice of the Peace Kelo.

MILWAUKIE.

A. H. Dowling, the real estate man, was in Oregon City on business Saturday.

The oil that was recently placed on the main street is giving satisfaction in laying the dust.

The Milwaukee Band has received its new uniforms, and the band boys, who made their first appearance in them on the Fourth of July at Gladstone, made a good showing. The music furnished by the band at the celebration on that day gave excellent satisfaction, and the band is to be congratulated in its work. Upon the return trip from Gladstone, one of the members of the band, the only one wearing a beard, was charged extra by the conductor. The other boys in the band had "laugh on him," and he has decided to have a clean shave the next time they take a trip when the fare is to be paid.

Ray Wallace, an employee of the O. W. P. Company, met with an accident a few days ago, while handling mail by having a nail penetrate his hand, so that he is now compelled to carry his arm in a sling. He is receiving treatment in this city by Dr. Towley, and the injured hand is improving.

Charles Maple, who has been confined in the hospital at Portland, where he recently underwent a surgical operation for appendicitis, is improving, and will be brought to his home in a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cole, of Washington, who have been visiting with the latter's cousin, Mrs. A. H. Dowling, left this week. Mr. and Mrs. Cole are looking for a location, but have not decided upon one. They are very much impressed with Oregon, and it is probable that they will make their home in this state.

Mr. and Mrs. Vogner, of Ontario, arrived in Milwaukee this week, and are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Patsch. They will remain here during the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Vogner have come to Milwaukee to see their new grand daughter, which arrived here last week.

Postmaster Miller, of Oak Grove, was a business visitor in this city on Wednesday.

William Wetzler, who was called here by the death of his mother, Mrs. Anna Gertrude Wetzler, which occurred July 3, has returned to his home at Santa Cruz, California.

Miss Hazel Whitcomb, of Portland, who has been the guest of Mrs. J. G. Bonnett, has returned to her home.

During the week Deputy Marshal Large has been kept busy running in the cattle that have been running at large on the streets of Milwaukee. Over 20 cows have been placed in the city pound within the past week, but the owners paid the sum of $2 per head to get them out.

The work on the Wichita school building is nearing completion. The building will have four rooms and of two stories in height. J. H. Snyder was awarded the contract of erecting the building, and Oscar Wissinger was awarded the contract for furnishing the doors, windows, window frames, nails, etc.

The baseball game between the Milwaukee team and the Clackamas team was witnessed by a large crowd on last Sunday afternoon. A good game was put up by both teams, the score was 7 to 5 in favor of Clackamas. The Milwaukee baseball team, which was organized this spring, is doing good work. The baseball grounds, which are near the Southern Pacific crossing, will be graded and put in shape for the games that are to be played here during the summer. They expect to have one of the best diamonds in the county. The boys have started out with a subscription list, and all who are interested in this sport should help the boys along. The team recently purchased attractive uniforms. The team is composed of some of the best players in the county. The Milwaukee band, with W. Wetzler as leader, will furnish the music for the next game, Sunday afternoon, when the home team will play a Portland team. The leader of the Milwaukee team is E. T. Elmer. The team is composed of the following: Ernest and Herb Oliver, Adam Keck, Edgar Allen, Phil Wessel, Chas. Maple, Chas. Maple, "Dutch" Hart, Howard Webster, G. B. McConnell.

Howard Gracie, while employed at the berry box factory on Saturday, met with an accident, which nearly cost him the loss of his eyesight. Mr. Gracie was working near the dynamo, when a flame of electricity burst out, and his face was badly burned, his eyelashes and eyebrows scorched, and the inner coating of his eye injured. It was at first feared that his sight was injured, but he is improving from the effects of the accident, and his eyesight will be as good as ever.

The first quarterly meeting of the conference year of the Evangelical Association begins at the Evangelical church in this city on Friday evening. Rev. Theodore Showers, presiding elder of Portland, will conduct the services on Friday and Sunday evenings. All are invited to these services.

Services will be held as usual at the Evangelical Church on Sunday at the following hours: Morning prayer and sermon 10 o'clock; Sunday school, 11 o'clock; Young People's Alliance, 7 o'clock; evening service, 8 o'clock. The topic for Sunday morning's service will be the fourth sermon on "Church Prosperity," by the Pastor, Rev. N. Shupp.

A. H. Dowling on Wednesday sold six lots on Milwaukee Heights to Geo. E. Nolan, electrical engineer, of Portland. The land is situated in a slightly elevated location and adjoins that of Captain J. P. Shaw's home. The site commands an excellent view of the surrounding country, and Mr. Nolan will soon erect a beautiful residence to make this place their home.

Rev. and Mrs. N. Shupp are preparing to camp at the camping of the Oregon Conference of the Evangelical Association which begins at Jennings Lodge Camp ground July 27 to August 1 inclusive. An excellent programme has been prepared for the session, and it is probable that there will be a large attendance this year. The new tabernacle has been completed, which will seat over 1000 people. The grounds where the camp-meetings are held are ideal for a summer outing. Rev. F. C. Berger, of Cleveland, Ohio, who is field secretary of the Young People's Alliance and of Sunday School, will be in attendance, and is on the programme for several lectures and sermons. Mrs. Roberts, of this city, is on the programme.

The installation of the officers of the W. O. W. lodge was held Wednesday evening in the new hall recently completed. The following officers were installed: John Gibson, commandant; W. Lehman, advisor lieutenant; George Hively, escort; W. A. Garner, manager. The Women of Woodcraft also attended the installation, and served ice cream and cake, followed by a reception. Several members of Prospect Camp, of Portland attended.

William Finley, of Jennings Lodge, a great lover of birds, who is president of the Audubon Society, was in Milwaukee this week visiting with his old schoolmate, A. H. Dowling. Mr. Finley and Mr. Dowling when school boys together, enjoyed hunting for birds' nests, and Mr. Finley while in this city expressed his desire to walk over the old stamming grounds that he and Mr. Dowling took years ago. A trip has been planned by the two men.

Sam Pearson, who is proprietor and owner of the Milwaukee Wood Scouring & Batting Mill, has recently installed a gasoline engine, eight-horse power. The plant has been operated by water power from the stream that passes the building, and also by electricity, but Mr. Pearson thinks that by using the gasoline engine it will be more satisfactory. The business of the plant has grown within the past year, and first-class goods are turned out. Mr. Pearson recently purchased at Gresham 1100 pounds of Shropshire wool, of fine quality.

Let Dowling sell your property.

Court Has Busy Week.

During the past week Constable W. E. Kelo has been kept busy. On Friday evening six messenger boys of Portland, bent on having a good time, arrived in Milwaukee, and started to take in the town at a rapid rate until they were spied by Constable Kelo, who took the young men in tow. Five of them appeared the following day and paid their fines, the costs amounting to $1.60 each, and one forfeited his bail. They promised that hereafter on visiting Milwaukee, they would be on their good behavior.

George Morse, of Jennings Lodge, who was accused of illegal voting, was discharged.

H. R. Smith, on complaint of M. Rose, was arrested for assault and battery, but the matter was settled out of court, and the case dismissed.

Lawrence Myers, of Sunnyside, was arrested by Constable W. E. Kelo on the charge of threatening to commit murder. The preliminary hearing was set for Thursday, July 22, at 10 o'clock in Justice of the Peace J. R. Kelo's court.

Joseph Meindl was arrested on complaint issued by Addict J. A. Dowling, for using the street as a place for piling wood. Meindl was given 30 days in which to remove the wood from the street.

Kodre attempted to throw on a heavy belt with his foot and paid the penalty for his rash act. He was instantly caught in the shaft and whirled around several times before the machinery could be stopped, and though one leg, an arm and his back were broken, he lived about four hours after the accident, which occurred about 7:30 o'clock. Kodre is a single man, and was a member of the Austrian colony here. The body was taken to the morgue.

COST OF POOR ROADS

Waste of Labor in Hauling Crops to Market.

WHAT THE MUD TAX FIGURES.

Six Hundred Million Dollars is the Price We Pay Annually For Our Impassable Highways—What is Being Done to Improve Them.

It cost a little over a billion dollars to haul the farm crops of America to market last year. With good roads, roads such as are to be found in some parts of America and in all parts of France, the marketing of the crops would have cost $400,000,000. Six hundred million dollars per year, then, is the price we pay in this land of the free for having impassable roads, says a writer in the St. Louis Times. Did ever a nation spend so much for so doubtful a luxury before? With American roads lying open and fathomless before the eyes of our foreign critics, what monstrous injustice it is to talk of American dollar worship!

Most men of middle age can recall the annual picnic known as mending the roads. Just why it got that name no one has ever explained, for in practically every case the picnic left the roads in worse condition than before. The law in many states prescribed that each resident of a rural district must pay a certain road tax in labor each year. The payment of this tax was done under the supervision of a local officer, known as the pathmaster. The customary time of payment was in the early summer, just before haying time, when there wasn't much else for the men and teams to do. The neighborhood turned out with horses and plows and harrows, ripped up diverse sections of highways which the year's travel had packed to a more or less navigable condition, rounded them up nicely in the middle and scratched them up smooth with the harrows. You were never expected to work very hard at these festive occasions, and the pathmaster who insisted on real work soon found himself unpopular. It was just as well, for since nobody had any knowledge of road-making, the more work the worse results.

What some of these results were and are we have vivid testimony. Across Iowa last winter the "tracing" autos had to take to the railroad tracks because the common roads were simply impassable. Last March some misguided creatures began an automobile race from New York to Savannah, Ga. It was just at the opening of navigation on the country roads of the middle south, the time when the roads are too thin for wheels and too thick for boots. Across Virginia each racing automobile had an escort of six mules to pull it out of extra deep mudholes and to haul its emergency rations of gasoline. Usually this was enough, but when an auto was so thoughtless as to step in the mudhole all night the mule teams had to be doubled and all the negroes of the neighborhood commended to service before that particular contestant could proceed. The racers averaged four miles per hour across the Old Dominion—a perfectly stunning rate of speed, all things considered.

And yet the roads of America are vastly better than they once were, and the improvement is going on apace. The United States government is lending a hand by setting its spare scientists to work by searching the people of different regions how to make the best roads at the least cost. The states are doing vastly more. New York in 1905 voted to spend $50,000,000 on her highways, and, while no other state is investing in roads at that rate, all are doing something.

Cities are finding it good business to improve the roads leading out into the farming region, the farmers are beginning to tax themselves in a rational fashion for highway improvement, and many philanthropists have passed by the conventional college and library donation to spend their surplus funds on good roads. Historic mudholes are being slowly filled up, stone and concrete are replacing the crazy wooden bridges, and a hundred inventions have been made to help get the best results for the lowest expense.

Some of the last deserve attention. Macadam roads have long been accepted as the standard of highway construction. But macadam roads of the old pattern, with crushed stone eight inches thick, cost from $6,000 to $10,000 per mile. Now it has been found that three or four inches will do quite as well, and the cost is cut nearly in two. In some parts of the central states, where crushed stone is rare, it has been found that the very clay which makes the roads almost impassable is the best trackmaking material when burned. In yet other regions the farmers have discovered how to make good roads by the simple expedient of rolling or dragging them after each rain, and in yet other places a mixture of sand and clay, costing $20 or $40 a mile, is found almost as good as the best macadam.

It is well that the roadmaking materials are abundant and varied, for there are roads enough in the United States to reach eighty-six times around the earth at the equator, and nearly all those roads are bad. The advocates of good highways will find ample room for their missionary enterprise for a generation to come.

The Auto a Road Builder.

Good country roads are already in sight. Every prosperous farmer either owns an automobile or is making inquiries as to the price of one.

CARRIES GUN AT ESTACADA

ATTORNEY E. W. BARTLETT IS ARRESTED FOR HAVING A CONCEALED WEAPON.

HEARING ON JULY 23

Draws Revolver to Protect Himself From John Ashburn, Who is Said to Have Insulted Helyman's Attorney.

E. W. Bartlett, an attorney of Estacada, who is allied with the Helyman faction there, was arrested Saturday on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon and the hearing was set before Justice of the Peace Samson on July 23. Mr. Bartlett was represented by Attorney C. D. Latourette. The charge was made by H. V. Ashburn, who states that Bartlett drew a gun on his son, John Ashburn. According to reports received from Estacada young Ashburn had been drinking freely on the Friday preceding July 4 and insulted Bartlett while the latter was walking on the streets of Estacada in company with his wife. Bartlett knocked him down and the young man, who is 22 years of age, vowed vengeance and when the two met on the following Sunday near the pavilion Ashburn pulled his coat and Bartlett drew his revolver and warned him to keep away. The feeling is a result of the feud between the Reed and Helyman factions at Estacada. Mr. Bartlett came to Estacada from La Grande, where he was formerly receiver of the United States land office.
