FLAMES KILL MRS. RASTALL

WELL KNOWN MOLALLA WOMAN IS BURNED TO DEATH ON DICKEY PRAIRIE.

FIRE CATCHES CLOTHES

House and Contents Entirely Destroyed by Fire That Originates From Defective Flue.

Mrs. James Rastall, of Molalla, was fatally burned Saturday and died at 5 o'clock Sunday morning. She was preparing dinner at noon Saturday for herself and her husband at their home on Dickey's Prairie, four miles East of Molalla Corners, when their house caught fire from a defective flue. The dry timber burned rapidly and while Mr. Rastall was making a futile but frantic effort to extinguish the flames, his wife attempted to save some of their personal effects, and while engaged in this effort her clothes caught fire. Her screams brought her husband to her side and he smothered the fire from her clothing, but not until she was painfully burned. Mrs. Rastall lingered until 5 o'clock Sunday morning and was conscious up to five minutes before her death, and notwithstanding her terrible burns, she suffered very little pain. A physician from Molalla attended her, but the contents of her house were entirely destroyed. Mrs. Rastall had lived in the Molalla county for many years. She was about 45 years of age and is survived by her husband and five children: Harry, of Molalla; George and Samuel, of Portland; Charles, of Oakland, Cal.; and Mrs. Maude Brown, of Vancouver, Wash. The funeral services took place Monday at Molalla.

Cox, who gave a scream that scared them out. This aroused the family and the robbers made a hurry get out. Since that happened everybody has a loaded gun and some burglar may die with the gun sickness.

EAGLE CREEK.

The farmers are busy cutting grain. Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Douglass, of Dufur, were visiting with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Douglass one day last week. A couple of Portland butchers were out buying up cattle in this vicinity last week. Some of the Woodles called on Mr. and Mrs. Murphy Sunday afternoon. Leander Bartlemay's sister and her husband made him a visit Sunday. The Eagle Creek site played with the Sellwood team Sunday afternoon and I am sorry to relate were defeated by the Sellwoodites by a score of 9 to 3. The Sellwoodites chartered three cars and quite a number of the residents of Sellwood came out to witness the game. Next Sunday Eagle Creek expects to go to Sellwood and play with them again. Do your best, boys, and win this time. Dave Hoffmuller made a trip to Sandy last Thursday. James Gibson visited with his daughter, Mrs. John Reid, of Springfield, Saturday and Sunday. Roy Douglass, assisted by his brother, Carl, butchered a beef last Wednesday evening. Wesley Douglass, accompanied by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Will Douglas, made a business trip to Estacada last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Palfrey attended the ball game at Eagle Creek Sunday afternoon.

SANDY.

Haying is done, crop not so good as expected, but price is better than for many years, so we farmers have no kick coming. Grain is falling fine and a good crop is assured. The past week many prominent people visited Sandy, among whom were doctors, lawyers, business men, tourists and many home seekers; also Mr. Meyers and Mr. Crandall, president and cashier of the Gresham State Bank; Messrs. Roberts and Conley, real estate men; and Mr. and Mrs. Sandy an ideal residence place and bound to become a city of importance. Sandy is fast becoming one of the leading lumbering centers of Clackamas County, with its many saw mills, logging and wood camps keep things on the boom. Not only is Sandy a lumber, fruit, and farming center, but soon mining interests will center on Sandy. A new mine just lately discovered, with some of the richest quartz yet discovered in the foothills of Sandy is being developed by the Lost Creek Mining Co. Fourteen miles are now on the tunnel work, but soon is developed the greater the gold excitement. Valuable coal mines were lately discovered in the Sandy foothills, some fine specimens are on exhibition in town, while on Shiny Creek are a large number of mines opening ready to ship ore as soon as the road will come near enough to get it out; no wonder so many investors come to Sandy. Sandy is building right along. Parrott's new business building is almost completed which will be occupied by J. W. Wirtz as a barber shop and furniture store. L. E. Hoffman purchased a lot in Junker's addition and will soon build a modern meat market thereon. In Valley View addition considerable building is going on by George Grant, and is preparing a large new building and H. E. Klack has the lumber on the ground for a handsome residence. H. Koch will also erect a new house. Mrs. S. new church, a handsome structure, is most complete, and will be dedicated August 29th, when a grand time is expected, the like of which was never seen in Sandy before. Many prominent speakers, Geo. C. Brownell, C. W. Hawley, Dr. Rowland and several other prominent speakers, will be present on this occasion. The past two weeks has been one of a few accidents: Miss Wanta Hoffman, who after recovering from a bad fall from a street car, took a buggy ride and the horse upset the rig, badly bruising her, but she is now well again. Mike McCormack was kicked by a horse on the hand, seriously cutting it. Mr. Davis, while cutting wood, cut his leg and blood poison set in, being necessary to doctor it considerably. Ed Burns had his hand punctured by a hay fork, laying him up for a few days. Milton Nelson had his ankle badly hurt in a logging camp, it being necessary to use crutches for some time. Rev. J. W. Exon lost one of his horses by another kicking it on the head, killing it dead as a door nail. The round of accidents finally wound up by Mrs. Douglass having her hat burned on her head; caught fire by leaning over a lamp, but succeeded in removing it in time to save herself from injury. Sandy is getting to be a sporty place. A wrestling match is slated to take place August 14th, and a foot race. Horse races are common things now-a-days. Sandy people enjoyed a free show by Ed Burns, who came down from the mountains with his jack horse loaded with one of the finest and largest buck deer ever seen in Sandy, a five-prong buck. Several young couple of Sandy will soon be landed in married life, among whom are: Red Russell and Mary McCormack, who will be married August 10. Sandy Grange will have a grand time about October 1st, when a grand harvest festival and grange fair will take place. A committee of five was appointed; J. G. DeShazer, Ed Burns, W. Bell, Joe Albel, Bert Jonsrud, on the arrangements, and Mrs. Y. Fensberg was appointed head of the ladies' department. A fund will be raised to give cash prizes on fruit, grain, grasses, vegetables, dairy products
