EXPERIMENTAL ROAD.

Details of One That Has Given the Best of Satisfaction.

Samuel R. Jones of Clinton, Wis., furnished the following details of construction of an experimental road built for educational purposes under the direction of the office of public roads, with George L. Cooley in charge: "This road was constructed in the town of Clinton, Rock county, Wis., one mile east of the village of Clinton. In the construction of this road all the machinery was furnished by the government at no expense to the town. The town, on its part, furnished all the labor and material.

"This road commenced at the top of a clay hill and extended down the side and across a black creek gully. Thus we had the advantage of observing the construction of and finishing under the different soil conditions. The road was first graded to a width of thirty-six feet from gutter to gutter. The trench for receiving the crushed rock of which the road was constructed was twelve feet wide. This trench was shouldered evenly at the edges. The bed of the trench or roadbed was brought to a perfect grade, having a crown of three-fourths inch to the foot from the center of crown to the side shoulders.

"When the roadbed was in proper shape for the superstructure cross drains were put in at intervals of 100 feet. These drains, which were from eight to ten inches deep and one foot wide, were filled with coarse crushed stone and extended to the outside gutter, thereby insuring perfect drainage for the road when finished.

"The superstructure was built of limestone, the first layer being crushed to a size which would pass through a three inch ring. This layer was then rolled thoroughly and covered with a fine grade of stone and again rolled. This method of placing on layers and rolling was continued until fourteen inches of the loose material had been rolled to a solid bed eight inches thick. During the rolling process water was sprinkled on the different layers of stone to help cement the stone together and thereby make a perfect surface for traffic. When the road was completed as far as the cover stone and rolling were concerned a layer of siftings from the crusher was spread evenly over the surface of the road and alternately rolled and sprinkled until no more could be worked into the roadbed either by sprinkling or rolling. The surface of the road reached that point of perfection in building where neither siftings nor water could be forced into it. The finishing of the earth shoulders, which are six feet wide on each side of the stone driveway, with just enough slant to carry off all surface water and leave a good earth road on either side made the road complete and gives us a twenty-four foot road of earth and stone.

"It was built under very expensive conditions, our shortest haul for stone being four miles. Labor cost from $3 to $4 per day, team and man from $5 to $7 per day, and even at these prices we could procure but half enough teams to keep the machinery running, thereby increasing greatly the expense. This road is giving the best of satisfaction and is fast gaining friends."

PRIZES FOR GOOD ROADS.
Fund Established by Spokane Magistrate to Encourage Farmers.

Building of good roads by the farmers in Spokane and Whitman counties, Wash., and Latah county, Ida., is being materially boosted by Jay P. Graves, president of the Spokane and Inland Empire Electric railway system, who announces he will give prizes amounting to $3,000 in three yearly installments for the best mile of constructed highway in 1909, 1910 and 1911.

The offer is made by Mr. Graves as a private citizen, the primary purpose being to encourage the ranchers in the Palouse wheat district, south of Spokane, in the building of permanent roads with such materials as are at hand, though the use of concrete, macadam, oil or other substance will not disqualify competitors.

Japan's Good Roads.
Japan is peculiarly well off in respect of good highways. The Tokaido, which runs from Kyoto to Tokyo, is over 300 miles in length and is admirably constructed. There is also the Nakasendo, which is even longer and passes through some of the finest scenery in the world. The reason of Japan's excellence in the matter of roads is that in the old days—not so very long ago—the daimios, or territorial nobles, had to journey to Tokyo once a year in order to pay their respects to the sovereign. They traveled by road, with great retinues, and if the highways were not in perfect condition feudal justice was meted out to the delinquents.

Intense Colicky Pains Relieved.
"For some years I suffered with intense colicky pains which would come on at times and from which I could find no relief," says I. S. Mason, of Beaver Dam, Ky. "Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended to me by a friend. After taking a few doses of the remedy I was entirely relieved. That was four years ago and there has been no return of the symptoms since that time." This remedy is for sale by Huntley Bros. Co.
