

OREGON CITY ENTERPRISE

FORTY-THIRD YEAR—NO. 37.

OREGON CITY, OREGON, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1909.

ESTABLISHED 1866.

McLOUGHLIN IS HONORED

HISTORIC HOME OF FATHER OF OREGON DEDICATED WITH CEREMONY.

WEATHER IS AUSPICIOUS

Scores of Prominent Pioneers Come to Honor the Noble Character of the Savior of the Northwest.

In the presence of nearly 500 people the home of Dr. John McLoughlin, erected by the Father of Oregon in 1844 and occupied as his residence until his death in 1857, was dedicated Sunday. The dedicatory ceremonies took place in the public square in a slightly spot at the edge of the bluff overlooking the business section of the city and a gentle breeze tempered the heat and made the affair one of pleasure to the distinguished company of pioneers who had come from Portland and Willamette Valley points to honor to the memory of the man whose innumerable acts of kindness and consideration are still fresh in the minds of those who are living who benefited therefrom.

The historic home, a mansion in early days, where hospitality was offered freely, was erected out bravely in the national colors, and in front of the open doorway was constructed a temporary platform which served as a speaker's stand and a resting place for prominent visitors. Grouped about the house on the broad lawn of the city park was an audience of several hundred people, who listened attentively to addresses from Frederick V. Holman, president of the State Historical Society; P. H. D'Arcy, of Salem, vice-president of the Oregon Pioneer Association; Rev. Father Sherman, a son of the distinguished General of Civil War fame, and Mrs. Eva Emery Dye, author of the old doctor's life, "McLoughlin and Old Oregon."

Dr. W. E. Carl, mayor of Oregon City, presided over the ceremonies, and his introductory remarks were happily chosen. The Oregon City Concert Band rendered patriotic selections.

Down in the church yard of St. John's, only a few hundred feet away, the marble slabs of the graves of Dr. John McLoughlin and his wife, shown brilliantly in the afternoon sun, while above them rang out eloquent words of eulogy and reverence for the memory of the man whose noble deeds in behalf of the Oregon Country will live for countless generations.

Referring to the last 13 years of the life of Dr. McLoughlin spent in Oregon City in the house that was dedicated Sunday afternoon, Frederick V. Holman, the biographer of McLoughlin, spoke feelingly of the acts of injustice that embittered the declining years of the old doctor's life. Mr. Holman had his subject at the fingers' ends and while his address was brief, it teemed with historical statements that were of intense interest.

The speech of Father Sherman was humorous at first, but the reverend gentleman paid his respects to those whose ignorance and bigotry have been conspicuous in a futile attempt to prevent the restoration of the McLoughlin Home on the spot where it now stands. Mrs. Dye's bright talk was warmly applauded and it remained for Mr. D'Arcy to close the programme with a scholarly address. He said in part: "All that is mortal of Dr. McLoughlin lies buried in the Catholic cemetery in your midst, on the high land within view of the beautiful Willamette River. While this river is not so lordly or grand as the Columbia, yet from the point where it flows into the Columbia north of Portland to its headwaters, it appeals to the aesthetic in one's mind. It attracts the pathetic side of our being. It is one of nature's great conceptions. It has been immortalized by the brilliant pioneer poet of Oregon, Samuel L. Simpson.

"When Peter, the Hermit, appealed to Europe to rescue the Holy Sepulchre from the hands of the Saracens, they again participated in the battle of Lepanto, and saved Europe to Christian civilization.

WINS PRIZE FOR STORY.

William Fletcher, a pressman in a local newspaper office, has just received a check for $15 from the Curtis Publishing Company of Philadelphia, for his story about Edmond Bollack, the Saturday Evening Post boy at Oregon City, Me. Fletcher has been asked to send the Curtis Publishing Co. a photograph of young Bollack, and his story, which is called "Buying a Curiosity," will appear in one of the forthcoming issues of "Our Boys," a publication circulated among the dispensers of the "Over a million a week" periodical.

Clifton May, of Beaver Creek, sentenced to jail for brutal conduct.

After drinking heavily he strikes wife, felling her to sidewalk, and becomes candidate for whipping post.

Striking his wife in the face with a stone that she was felled to the sidewalk, Clifton May, of Beaver Creek, created considerable excitement Thursday afternoon on Main street. The man had been drinking heavily and was in an ugly mood, making an attempt to drag his child out of a buggy, when his wife intervened and pleaded with May to go home with her. Replying angrily, the man raised his fist and struck her vicious blow at his wife, who evaded it, but the next blow struck her full in the face. A crowd gathered quickly and May was seized and hustled to the city jail by Constable F. A. Miles and Chief of Police Burns. On his way to the jail he fell flat on his face to the sidewalk and had to be almost carried into the jail, where he was left to sober up and ponder over his misconduct. May had his hearing in the office of City Recorder Dimick Friday afternoon. The charge brought against him was for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Recorder Dimick severely reprimanded his prisoner, and afterwards sentenced him to 60 days in the county jail, but ordered his release as May's family required his labor for their support. May promised to stay out of town.

Boy Sent to Reform School. Albert Lamp, aged 12 years, of Park place, was committed to the state reformatory at Clatsop County, Ore. The boy acknowledged that he had thrown bolts on the rails of the Southern Pacific tracks and threw stones at the car windows, striking a woman passenger in the face. He cried bitterly when his sentence was pronounced.

Block of Witness Tree. McLoughlin Negotiated Treaty With Indians Under Its Branches.

E. G. Caulfield, president of the McLoughlin Memorial Association, has just received from E. Bolton, of Vancouver, Wash., a section of the old witness tree that fell down last July and was carried away by relic hunters. The block measures 2 1/2 feet across and bears the following inscription: "The tree stood on the bank of the Columbia River at the foot of Main street, in Vancouver, Wash., and was commonly called the witness tree, being a monument marking the first survey of the Hudson Bay Company made under the direction of Dr. John McLoughlin, who established the first station of the Hudson Bay Company where the barracks now stand. The first treaty of peace and trade was made with the Indians under this tree by Dr. McLoughlin. The tree stood 60 years. Mr. Caulfield will have the block taken to the McLoughlin Home for preservation.

DR. McLOUGHLIN'S HOSPITALITY. Daughter of Pioneer Missionary Respects His Memory.

George Emmerson has filed a suit against W. P. Lewis and Will E. Purdy, asking for judgment for $133.42. Emmerson, who is represented by Attorney O. D. Eby, alleges that Lewis is engaged in the business of cutting piling and on July 7, 1909, he was employed by Lewis to perform labor in dragging piling and earned $129.82, of which amount $39.40 has been paid. Emmerson filed a lien, and since then Lewis has delivered to Purdy a bill of sale for the piling. Emmerson asks that Lewis and Purdy be restrained from moving the piling and for judgment for the amount due.

STOCK YARDS AT PORTLAND

NEW ERA IN THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY OF PACIFIC NORTHWEST.

OPEN NEXT WEDNESDAY

Great Packing Plant on Peninsula Is Prepared to Handle Large Amount of Cattle Sheep and Hogs.

The new Union Stock Yards of Portland will open for business Wednesday, September 15, and at the same time a new era in the livestock industry of the Pacific Northwest will begin. The Swifts have completed their great packing plant on the Peninsula and are prepared to handle great numbers of hogs, sheep and cattle daily. Heretofore the market stock of Oregon has been principally drawn from the grass fattened stuff of the ranges, but the shortage of pasture that is becoming yearly more pronounced is making this industry not so profitable as in past years. A good live stock market at home where any quantity can be handled, gives the farmer of Oregon opportunities never before enjoyed. No country is better adapted to intense or diversified farming than is ours and no man is more independent of the farmer than at all times of the year has something to sell. Swine, goats, sheep, horses, cattle and chickens with the garden and orchard all come into money constantly. All these crops can be turned into beef or pork at far greater profit to the producer than by any other method. Oregon must supply this great market now open or the stockers and feeders of the corn states will reap the benefit of our markets while we sleep. Can you afford to let your brush pastures grow up with weeds while it would support a nice bunch of sheep or goats? Can you afford to sell your clover or vetch at low price instead of feeding it to your own stock? The stockers and feeders of the Middle West have grown rich in buying our grass fattened cattle and adding to their weight feeding corn, alfalfa or meal.

Bleek hogs this season brought higher prices in Portland than any other market in the United States and the immense sum thus put into circulation this year is only a drop in the bucket in comparison to the livestock industry that we can build up right at home.

COMMERCIAL CLUB SAVES MUCH MONEY

INSURANCE UNION PROMISES TO REDUCE FIRE PREMIUM RATES IN THIS CITY.

The Commercial Club has probably saved thousands of dollars to the property owners and business men of Oregon City by initiating a movement to bring about a reduction in the rates for fire insurance in this territory. Last week Judge T. F. Ryan, president of the club, appointed a committee to look into the matter with Llewellyn Adams as chairman, and Mr. Adams went to Portland and saw the representatives of what is known as the Insurance Union, which has the Board of Underwriters of the Pacific. Nearly all of the companies doing business in the Northwest are in this union and they all charge whatever rate is agreed upon.

Mr. Adams has secured a definite promise from the Union to send its representatives here sometime this week to re-rate the whole city. This will probably mean that there will be a general reduction all along the line. With the recent improvements in the local water system and the excellent facilities for fighting fires, there is every reason for the expected reduction.

Grout Seriously Injured. Former Real Estate Man Gets Bad Fall at North Bend.

J. W. Grout, formerly in the real estate business in this city, was seriously injured Monday morning as a result of an accident at the South Inlet Ferry near Marshfield, Coos County. Mr. Grout lives at North Bend and is road supervisor of that city. He was on a scaffolding for a new approach to the Inlet Ferry when it gave way and threw him 20 feet below. His leg was broken in two places and his head cut open. Mr. Grout was taken to the North Bend hospital. He will recover.

MARTHA PARKER MARRIED.

Pretty Ceremony Solemnized in St. Paul's Church Wednesday.

A pretty wedding took place Wednesday at high noon at the St. Paul's Episcopal church, the contracting parties being Miss Martha Martina Parker, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parker, of this city, and Mr. Joseph Trambly, a young business man of Vancouver, Wash. The impressive ceremony of the Episcopal church was performed by Rev. T. F. Mortimer Cockrell and Gaylord Godfrey.

Promptly at 12 o'clock to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, rendered by Miss Veda Williams, the bride, on the arm of her father, pre-ceeded by the bridesmaid, Miss Bess Reddick, and the best man, Mr. Eben D. Pierce, of Vancouver, Wash., were met at the altar by the groom. After the ceremony the friends and relatives went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parker where a reception was held, and a wedding breakfast served.

The bride wore an empire gown of white net over white silk, trimmed with cluny lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white Chinese asters and white prayer book, one of her wedding gifts. The bridesmaid wore a very pretty gown of pink silk organdie, her flowers being pink Chinese asters.

Upon the arrival of the bride at her parents' home, she threw her bouquet which was caught by Miss Bess Kelly. The ring in the bride's cake was captured by Miss Veda Williams, rimmed with cluny lace. The presents of the young couple were beautiful and consisted of Haviland china, cutlery, cut glass and silverware.

Mr. and Mrs. Trambly left on the evening train for Vancouver, where the groom has a furnished cottage for the reception of his bride, who is well known in this city, having been born and raised here. The groom has been a resident of Vancouver for the last six years and is in business there. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. Trambly and Mr. Eben D. Pierce, of Vancouver, and Mrs. Eliza Dickenson and son, John, of Boring. There were about 40 guests who witnessed the ceremony and attended the reception.

COMMISSION HOUSE HERE

ESTABLISHMENT IS SECURED AFTER MANY YEARS OF ENDEAVOR.

LOCAL MEN INTERESTED

Project Is Headed By T. F. Rourke, Who Has Had Many Years of Experience and Capital Is $15,000.

After a vain struggle of more than ten years to secure a commission house for Oregon City, the dream end has at last been accomplished, and there was organized Tuesday night the Oregon City Commission Company, with a capital stock of $15,000, more than half of which has been paid in. Articles of Incorporation were filed Tuesday morning.

Some of the best known business and professional men in the city are identified with the project, the stockholders being Dr. A. L. Beattie, R. B. Beattie, Dr. E. A. Sommer, Judge Thomas F. Ryan, Judge Grant B. Dimick, State Senator J. E. Hedges, Attorney O. D. Eby, Wm. A. Huntley, George A. Harding, Attorney John W. Loder and Llewellyn Adams.

The following directors were elected Tuesday night: T. F. Rourke, E. A. Sommer, J. E. Hedges, W. A. Huntley and A. L. Beattie. The officers are: A. L. Beattie, president; E. A. Sommer, vice-president; T. F. Rourke, secretary and manager.

Heading the proposition is T. F. Rourke, who has been in the commission business in Oregon for the last 20 years, 20 years in Bendleton and the rest of the time at Portland. Mr. Rourke's long experience is backed by the money and judgment of more than half a score of local men.

It is the primary purpose of the concern to make money, but in addition to this the object of the stockholders is to build up Oregon City and to increase its general trade by establishing a market for everything the Clackamas County farmers have to sell. For many years there has been a sound disposition among the farming community to complain that they cannot sell their products in this city and this complaint has been well founded.

The result has been that a vast amount of trade has been utterly lost to Oregon City and has been divided between Portland and Willamette Valley points.

The actual site for the new business has not yet been definitely determined, but the location of the commission house will be chosen from two sites that are now under consideration, one on the Southern Pacific Railroad, both located in the central business district of the city. It is intended to commence operations immediately and the prospects are very bright for the success of the new enterprise.

SHE USED DIRTY DISHES.

So George A. Clarke Brings Action For Decree of Divorce.

Suit was instituted Wednesday by George A. Clarke against Katie C. Clarke for a decree of divorce. They were married at Clackamas, October 8, 1905, and Clarke complains of cruel and inhuman treatment, stating that his wife has subjected herself to household duties, having neglected to cook his meals properly. Clarke says his wife would not remove the dirt and filth from the dishes and has cooked in dirty dishes. When he remonstrated she told him he could get some one else and she would pack her trunks and get out. The husband says his better half has been under her mother's control. George C. Brownell is his attorney.

SPECIAL TERM OF COURT.

Judge Campbell to Hold Jury Term For One Week.

Tuesday was a busy day at the courthouse, which had been closed for two days previously, and attorneys were in evidence with papers and requests for decrees, defaults and motions of various kinds. Judge Campbell called an adjourned term of the Circuit Court Tuesday and announced that on September 20, which falls on a week from next Monday, he would open Court for a term of one week, and that he would call a jury. The case of Linn vs. Morrow was set for trial on September 20. Judge Campbell left Tuesday for Hillsboro, where he will hold court for a few days.

Wheat Seed For Distribution.

J. A. Zimmerman, who has a dairy near Milwaukie, has received samples of Russian Chivaller wheat from a quest to contribute several pounds among the farmers of Clackamas County, who may secure this wheat for experimental purposes from Mr. Zimmerman. The wheat is highly recommended by Dr. James Withycombe, director of the experiment station of the Oregon Agricultural College.
