Parents of the children attending he Evergreen school and others, met at that school house one day last week, the ladies with well filled lunch baskets and the men and boys with stump puller and other necessary tools and proceeded to clean up the chool yard, which was very much needed. They had a big bonfire and came near having a larger one, as some sparks set fire to the roof of the school house, but was discovered before any damage was done. They had a good time and did lots of work, so now they have a nice clean yard to begin their school with.
