SUCCESSFUL CO-OPERATION.

An Example Showing What Farmers Can Do by Pulling Together.

In Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and other central western states the co-operation idea has a strong hold on the farmers in many sections. It has worked out into practical and successful results through the granges and farmers' clubs. Here is one illustration; there are scores and scores of others. The Fruit Growers' association of Sparta, Wis., was incorporated in 1896 with a capital stock of $6,000, divided into 3,000 shares of $2 each. In 1908 this association did over $30,000 worth of business. Some days it shipped as many as 4,000 cases of strawberries. During the shipping season the association keeps a representative in South Dakota and also one in Minneapolis and St. Paul. Through the efforts of these men they are able to watch the markets and ship just enough berries to take care of the demand, thus avoiding overstocking the markets and bringing down prices. The cost of running the business has not exceeded 4 per cent and sometimes has been as low as 2½ per cent. Last year the association paid a 7 per cent dividend on capital stock. Ten per cent of all money received from sales is held by the association until the end of the year, when the books are closed and the balance due each seller is paid to him.

In addition to selling fruit the association makes its own boxes and crates. The net profit saved on these boxes by making them themselves is from $800 to $900 per year. This profit is returned to the farmers according to the produce each brings for sale.

When will farmers everywhere learn that only by combining their efforts and uniting their interests can they secure best results? There is no more important work for the grange to do on its financial side than to promulgate the idea of a hearty co-operation among its members both in buying and selling. Illustrations like the above should set grangers to thinking.

A Matter of Age.
Gentlemen (gallantly)—Madam, if you continue so ardent a sufragette you will be president in another year.

Suffragette (angrily)—Sir!
And it wasn't until some time afterward, when reading the constitution of the United States, that he discovered the cause of her anger.—Judge.

A Careless Clause.
"Your wife seems vexed with you."

"Yes," replied Mr. Meekton. "It's all my fault. Henrietta was reading one of her speeches to me. I grew impatient and broke in with laughter where the manuscript called for applause."—Washington Star.

Making Him Think.
"But what shall we do," he asked doubtfully. "If your father refuses to give his consent?"

"Oh," she replied cheerily, "you needn't worry about that. Father will be glad enough to get rid of me."—Somerville Journal.

The Question of the Hour.
The lean professor opened the book. A long, deep breath he slowly took. Then loudly cleared his foggy throat and over his own forehead to groat. But ere the stinging theme was aped a late arrival showed his head.

The prof looked up and darkly scowled. And at the tardy student howled. "Before you dare to close that door." He hoarsely shouted, "what's the score?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

RAINS HELP ALL GARDENS

FRESH VEGETABLES ARE BEING
RUSHED INTO OREGON
CITY MARKET

BERRIES GETTING RIPE

Mill Feed Remains Steady With
Light Offerings and Hay is
In Fair Demand at Old Prices

The recent rains have been a great benefit to the gardens of Clackamas County, and there is every indication that vegetables will now arrive into the local markets in an abundance. The asparagus that is being received in the markets is mostly from Canby and the southern part of the county, and there is a steady demand for this. Lettuce, radishes, onions, spinach, turnips are among the other vegetables that are now carried by the local merchants. There is always a big demand for vegetables here, and the dealers are meeting this supply.

With a few more days of sunshine the strawberry crop will commence to be harvested. There were a few of the berries, it is stated by some of the growers, nipped by the frosts, but the crop will be a large one from all indications. Many of the berries are now beginning to turn. Canby berries made their appearance in the markets this week. These berries are famous for their flavor. The berry growers in Clackamas and vicinity are also looking for a good crop. Gooseberries are now in the market and retailing at 10 cents per quart. There is a big crop of these and the berries are large.

Trade continues exceedingly quiet in all of the departments of the local market. The mill feed market is quoted fairly steady with offerings not as heavy as some time ago. There is a fair demand for hay at the old prices.

Most of the cattle have been from California and were of good quality and the prices at which they were sold indicate that the lower prices looked for at this time did not apply. The run of grass cattle has not started and while the packers undoubtedly expect to get lower priced cattle the supply, both in quantity and quality, has not warranted a reduction.

The sheep market has been well supplied throughout the week. Prices indicate a steady market. There were all sorts of sheep offered and the lowest priced quoted in the sales which follow brought all they were worth.

The hog market is slowly following the lead of the river markets and while prices at Portland are $150 per hundred, higher than at other points the market is 10c lower than last week.

The Grange Institute.
As a popularizer of grange work and an excellent way to impress upon the community that a grange is a strong factor in improving local farming conditions, says State Lecturer Taber of Ohio, a grange or independent institute supported by the grange will prove effective. Where there is no regular institute in the community the grange officials, by the expenditure of a little effort and money, can arrange a program that will interest and instruct. By securing some outside talent to represent the grange the result will usually be strengthening the membership by bringing in seven applicants. A grange that holds two or three one day open meetings or institutes each year reports growth in interest and membership. An open meeting or two with a program of general agricultural interest will always prove worthy of that by any grange.

A New Hampshire Grange.
McClary grange, New Hampshire, recently celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary. The records show that this grange has had 262 members, 500 meetings and an average attendance of 25. There are now 176 members. Twenty-five copies have been mailed from this grange, 50 have died, 30 have moved out of the state, and 20 of the 23 charter members are still living.

Echoes from Des Moines indicate that the question of representation isn't settled satisfactorily to all yet, says the National Stockman.

Apocryphal question, a master can hold that office until his successor is installed; otherwise he has no right to it.

COAL TAR IN ROADMAKING.

Similar to Asphalt Pavement, but of a More Resilient Character.

Revolution in highway construction is predicted by many road engineers, but many others believe the successful macadam method modified will be the only innovation. In that event the tar macadam method will surely be considered. A properly tarred road is similar to an asphalt pavement, but of a more resilient character. The stone is all bound together by the tar into a smooth, firm surface, which can be swept and washed in much the same manner as an asphalt pavement.

The main agencies which cause deterioration of tarred or oil roads are heavy rain, frost and the decaying organic matter which accumulates on the surface of the road. So far as can be determined, one kind of road withstands the action of these agencies as well as the other. Water gas tar is used in connection with coal tar, but not to any great extent by itself. It has a greater power of penetration, and less of it is required, but it is not so lasting. It really is in a class by itself and occupies an intermediate position between the temporary and the permanent binders.

In some cases where a limited amount of money is available or where

USING ROLLER ON COAL TAR ROAD.

(From Good Roads Magazine, New York.)
For climatic reasons it is available to treat the road with the idea of its lasting only through one season water gas tar is expected to prove a valuable dust layer, and any extension of its use is thought to lie in this direction. The value of coal tar in the preservation of macadam roads and as a dust preventive is proved by the fact that in the majority of cases the life of a treated road has been materially lengthened, and by applying tar the complete rebuilding of many roads at an enormous expense has been avoided.

A great drawback in the standardization of securing a uniform supply of coal tar. Coal tar is purely a by-product, and the processes by which it is derived are never run with reference to the quality of tar produced, but solely to obtain maximum yields of gas or coke.

START DRILLING FOR OIL.

Machinery Taken Across Baker's Bridge on Wednesday.

The first oil well drilling machinery ever taken into Clackamas County crossed Baker's Bridge Wednesday and will be placed in operation as soon as possible on the South Side of the Clackamas river, one mile west of the bridge on the old Hess place. Tests have been recently made there and there are indications of oil. Several weeks ago a company was formed and drilling operations were decided upon. The people of that section are deeply interested in the project. Theerrick is in place and no time will be lost in commencing work.

SLAUGHTER OF GROCERYMEN.

Printers Take Them Into Camp By a Wonderful Score.

There was an awful slaughter Sunday morning on Gladstone field when the printers carried off the honors in a base ball game with the Grocers, to the tune of 25 to 17. Everybody was handy with the stick. Beard, the regular pitcher for the Printers, was on another firing line at the Clackamas rifle range and Riches, Dottle and Braendle were the twirlers. They were hit freely and in the ninth the Grocers had a tremendous batting rally that for a time threatened to exhaust them. The lineup follows:
Printers Position Grocers
Schram SS..... Peasart
Riches, Dottle
and Braendle LF..... Fosberg
Mortality IB..... Stokes
Lewis King CF..... D. Melvin
Sherwood, Lewis 2B..... S. Melvin
Kenner 3B..... Hunt

OREGON CITY HIGH WINS.

Takes Game From Third Presbyterian, of Portland.

By a score of 12 to 5, the baseball team representing the Third Presbyterian church of Portland met its first defeat of the season at the hands of the Oregon City high school nine on Canemah Park diamond Saturday. During the first three innings, the churchmen and students played first class baseball, but in the fourth Ashworth, the visiting twirler, started things and the locals added 10 runs to their score before the inning closed. Ashworth was replaced by Smith in the fifth, who allowed no hits in the last two innings. For the locals Hart pitched a splendid game and held the Presbyterians down to four scattered hits and struck out eight. Following is the lineup:
Third Presbyterian
Mulkey..... C..... Toebes
Hart..... P..... Ashworth
Sheahan..... 1B..... Doegan
Baker..... 2B..... Smith
Hargreaves..... 3B..... Ashworth

LOGAN, 5; SHUBEL, 4.

Battling Rally in Ninth Makes Three Runs and Wins Game for Logan.

Last Sunday the Shubel and Logan base ball teams crossed bats on the Logan field, in the best game of the season, in which Logan took a fall out of the swift aggregation from Shubel to the tune of 5 to 4. It was an exciting game in which both teams played good ball, but Shubel couldn't hold the Logan hitters down when they started after Hart in the ninth, while Frederick and Anderson kept the hits scattered. In the ninth with the score 4 to 2 in favor of Shubel, Logan pounded Hart all over the lot and piled up three runs and won the game. During this inning Shubel was always where the ball wasn't, or the score might have been different. Hart struck out fifteen, Frederick fanned seven, and Anderson made three hit the wind. Frederick found Hart for a triple, a double and a single. E. M. Gerber tore the cover off with the ball with two singles and a double. The lineup was as follows:
Logan Shubel
Frederick and Anderson..... P..... Hart
Benson..... C..... Sager
E. C. Gerber..... 1B..... Green
E. M. Gerber..... 2B..... Staben
H. Kohl..... 3B..... Sherwood
H. Kirchman..... SS..... Herman
Anderson and Frederick..... LF..... Vanderabe
L. Kohl..... CF..... Thomas
W. Kirchman..... RF..... Shelley
H. Swales, umpire.

Final Game Goes to Molalla.

The final game of baseball was played in the Clackamas School League last Saturday afternoon, between Gladstone and Molalla and resulted in a score of 8 to 3 in favor of Molalla. This leaves that team in the lead in the first division of the league, and McLoughlin in the lead in the second division, so the championship game will be played again with Molalla as one of the teams. Molalla displayed at this game the championship pennant won last year and the boys attribute their victory to the prestige it showed.

The lineup:
Gladstone—David, Smith, Peters, Williams, Hughes, Burdon, Taylor, Gault, shaver.
Molalla—Shalver, Adam, Vick, Fredrick, McNulty, Seinger, Autler, Powell, Marsh.
