BAKER STOCK COMPANY.

Under Southern Skies, by Author of Way Down East, to be Next Week's Offering.

The first Stock production of Lottie Blair Parker's beautiful play, "Under Southern Skies," ever given here will be by the Baker Stock Company for the week opening next Sunday Matinee. It is a play that touches close to the heart strings of everyone, and has for many years been one of the most successful on the road. Like her other big success, "Way Down East."

WILLIAM DILLS, Stage Director Baker Stock Company, appearing in "Under Southern Skies," week of May 22, 1910.

It is noted for its clever character creations. Its simple atmosphere, bright comedy and strong dramatic situations. The scenes are laid in Louisiana, about 1875, and the plot revolves around Lella Crofton, a girl just budding into womanhood, who lives with her father, her mother having disappeared from her life while Lella was but a baby. The secret of her mother's going away she has never learned, and one of her ardent suitors leads her to by several of the colored and intimidates Lella into promising to marry him, by threatening to expose her blood, which would completely ostracize her and be the ruin of her whole life. Many intense scenes between her and this false lover, as well as between them and the manly young Burleigh Mavor, whom she truly loves, are cleverly brightened by comedy furnished by the other and happier love affairs woven into the story, as well as by several colored servants. The superstitions of the South are charmingly portrayed at the Halloween Party, which also gives opportunity for some clever songs and specialties. All in all "Under Southern Skies" should prove to be one of the most entertaining bills of the Summer season. Remember the Wednesday Bargain Matinee.

Why Pay More? Is the contention of the cut rate houses, who do a small oriel business from our great cities. They ask an honest question and we repeat it, "Why Pay More?" That is the whole story in a nut shell. Why should you pay them more than is asked for equally low grade goods by our town merchants. We have the same low grade of goods offered to us every time the manufacturer's salesman comes around, but we wouldn't have the nerve to buy and offer them to you. If we did, our price would be lower than is charged by the mail order houses, for we would buy in quantity and get best prices and discounts. And we, too, ask "Why Pay More?" Why Simply and solely to get goods of better quality—unadulterated goods. But the question is—do we ask more for better goods? We think not. Come and compare our prices.

There's No Secret to the Success of CHAMPION HARVESTING MACHINES

The reasons for Champion Success stand out all over and never wears off a Champion Machine. It is apparent in its correctness of construction and mechanical perfection. In short, Champion machines are built right in the factory and work right in the field. That is what counts most and why Champion owners smile with satisfaction every time you mention the name, "CHAMPION". They know they have machines they can depend upon and that will do the right kind of work all the time, this is what YOU want and ought to get in harvesting machinery—it's what you will get if you buy Champions.

A common and very true saying among Champion owners is: "If I could not get another Champion I would not sell mine for many times what I paid for it."
