CLACKAMAS WINS FIFTH

PRIZE FOR EXHIBIT IS $100 AND FIRST ATTEMPT IS GREAT SUCCESS.

SOUVENIRS GIVEN AWAY

Hundreds of People Go to State Fair at Salem and Inspect The Booth Containing County Products.

J. Gary, who has charge of the Clackamas county exhibit at the State Fair, states Clackamas county received fourth prize on its exhibit, which amounted to $100. This is the first time that this county has ever made an attempt to have an exhibit at the fair grounds, and it was through the efforts of O. E. Freytag, who has charge of the agricultural and horticultural department of the fair, and T. J. Gary, that an exhibit was taken there. The booth has been visited by hundreds of people, and souvenirs will be distributed. Over three thousand souvenirs have been printed. It is probable that Clackamas county will work for the first prize next year, when the farmers will take more interest and bring in their produce. Benton county won first prize at the fair this year, Douglas, second; Polk, third; Clackamas, fourth; Columbia, fifth and Clatsop, sixth.

Clackamas has for the first time in the history of the State Fair an exhibit that will attract no little attention. The Oregon City Manufacturing Company donated a number of its handsome Indian robes that attracted attention of all the visitors on Sunday while they were being placed among the exhibits. The blankets are some of the mill's finest make and form a handsome background. The paper dolls have also loaned several large rolls of paper that have been placed in a conspicuous place. S. E. Gregory, the teasel grower of Carns, has among the Clackamas county exhibit some teasels that were raised on his farm, and these are artistically arranged in a glass covered box. A. C. Newell of near Gresham, displays several varieties of walnuts. There is a fine display of squashes, pumpkins, potatoes, onions and other vegetables, besides apples, pears, quinces and grain. The background of black, with its grain arranged in artistic bunches and hop decorations, gives the visitor an idea of what Clackamas county can raise.

George DeBok, one of the prominent farmers of Clackamas county, has sent to the State Fair at Salem this week, two crates of tomatoes, besides peaches and pop corn to be placed among the Clackamas county exhibit. Mr. DeBok will have a display at the coming county fair to be held at Canby September 29, and will compete for the prize for the best exhibit of farm and household products from one farm. Mr. DeBok was awarded the prize at the first fair held in Clackamas county. His farm is located near Willamette.

Don't waste your money buying plasters when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for twenty cents. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment is superior to any plaster for lame back, pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. Sold by all dealers.

HARVESTING PAST IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY

FIRST SHIPMENT OF OREGON HOPS IS MADE BY H. L. HART OF PORTLAND.

Harvesting is a thing of the past in Clackamas County, and from the reports the field was good in a very every section of the county. The markets are kept well supplied with vegetables to meet the large demand. There is also a large supply of fruit being received. Saw- way peaches are beginning to arrive in small lots, but in sufficient quantities for the present demand. The Early Crawford peaches are gone, and there was an unusually large crop of this variety. One variety of peaches is retelling for 75 cents per box. Apples are beginning to move, the sales of which range from 50 cents and up. There is a good demand for the Gravensteins.

Grapes are coming into the market. California grapes have been in the market for several weeks and are of good flavor. The poultry market is weak. Eggs are bringing a wholesale price of 35 cents per dozen; ranch butter, 70 cents, while the creamery is 85 cents.

The hop picking season is over in Clackamas county. The hops are in excellent condition, there being no rains to cause the vines to become infected with hop lice.

The first shipment of 1910 Oregon hops was made Thursday by H. L. Hart of Portland. The lot, which was a small one, was sent East. No new business was reported in the market. Dealers have orders from the East at 13 1/2 cents, but growers are in no hurry to sell.

About 250 crops have been sampled to date by the Portland trade. The great majority of them are strictly choice and none so far runs below prime in quality.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.
The political outlook now is such that I cheerfully withdraw as a candidate for the legislature and hereby pledge my hearty support in behalf of the anti-assembly candidates.
E. D. OLDS.
(Paid adv.)

Real Modesty.
"An actor should be modest, and most actors are," said a prominent one at a luncheon in Pittsburg. "But I know a young actor who at the beginning of his career carried modesty almost too far."
"This young man inserted in all the dramatic papers a want advertisement that said:
"Engagement wanted--small part, such as dead body or outside shouts preferred."

Preferences.
"I think I'll spend my vacation on the lynx," said the first flea. "I'm fond of gold."
"The giraffe for mine," declared the second flea. "I need the highest altitude I can find."--Washington Herald.

Sensible.
Mrs. X.--The flat above us is unoccupied right now. Why don't you come and live there? Mrs. Y.--Oh, my dear, we've been such good friends, and I hate to start quarreling with you!--Exchange.

AFRAID OF MOONLIGHT.
The Reason Porto Ricans Carry Umbrellas at Night.
"The majority of Porto Ricans have inherited from their earliest fathers a superstitious dread of the full moon's rays," said a business man who has just returned from that country.
"It is a curious sight to the American visitor to note men and women going along the streets and highways of the island with umbrellas raised over their heads in the low stretches of the night, and the more brilliantly the moon is shining the greater will be the number of people who are thus protecting themselves from her beams. Out in the sequestered rural districts a gay mounted cavalier will be met at midnight, his bridle rein in one hand and an upraised umbrella in the other. It looks weird and also ridiculous, but the natives do it for a peculiar reason. They are possessed of the conviction that Luna's full light striking upon mortals is almost sure to make them mentally unsound--that is to say, lunatics--and that is why they interpose a shield between them and her dazzling brightness."
"To sleep where the moon could shine full upon one is, in the view of a Porto Rican, to tempt fate, and it would be a daring one who could be hired to do it for any consideration."--Baltimore American.

STRENUOUS LIVING.
A Long Day in the Life of an English Lady in 1791.
As for industrious idleness, which is held to blame for the wrecking of our nervous systems, it was not unknown to an earlier generation. Mme. le Brun assures us that in her youth pleasure loving people would leave Brussels early in the morning, travel all day to Paris to hear the opera and travel all night home. "That," she observes--as well she may--"was considered being fond of the opera."
A paragraph in one of Horace Walpole's letters gives us the record of a day and a night in the life of an English lady--sixteen hours of "strain" which would put New York to the blush. "I heard the Duchess of Gordon's journal of last Monday," he writes to Miss Berry in the spring of 1791. "She first went to hear Handel's music in the abbey; she then clambered over the benches and went to Hastings' trial in the hall, after dinner to the play, then to Lady Lucean's assembly, after that to Ranelagh and returned to Mrs. Robert's faro table; gave a ball herself in the evening of that morning, into which she must have got a good way, and set out for Scotland the next day. Hercules could not have accomplished a quarter of her labors in the same space of time."--Atlantic Monthly.
