

When You Think

Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well, and gives them freedom from pain. It establishes regularity, subdues inflammation, heals ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private and absolutely confidential. Write without fear and without fee to World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

If you want a book that tells all about women's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps.

EASTERN CLACKAMAS

SANDY.
Another fire started last Thursday west of town at Kelo, by a strong east wind. It gained fearful headway, burning off some logged off land, destroying some buildings for Joe Hillard and also 1000 cords of wood for the Japs. Mr. Peterson, Joe Abel, and Mr. Beckford had to fight like heroes to save their buildings; also Kleider's had a narrow escape from getting their barn burned.

The people in the recently burned district are getting some aid, which is a long way from enough, but is most thankfully received by the unfortunate ones. Those having lost their homes and entire contents are Joe Wall, Mr. Paschall, Mr. Courie, Mr. King, Frank Sestro.

Joe Abel had a narrow escape with his life while sawing down a snag. A piece of bark fell and struck on his shoulders rendering him unconscious and injuring his back, which has laid him up for the past week.

Johnnie Haley was taken suddenly sick and sprang from his bed at 10:00 o'clock p. m. without his clothes, on last Thursday night and escaped in the darkness a raving maniac. And immediately a search was made for him, but no trace could be found. Friday all day a large crowd kept up excessive search but no trace could be found of the missing boy. Friday night it was very cold and it was feared the boy had perished. Saturday a phone message was sent to Oregon City for the sheriff and some blood hounds to find him, also an army of men was organized to start a new search when word came that the boy had come to a neighbor, J. Phalen, who notified him and took him home. A doctor was called and medical aid given, and with proper care it is hoped he will soon be well. He is yet quite delirious and some times desires to escape again. The doctor claims he is effected with typhoid fever.

Sandy Grange Fair and Picnic will be a grand success from all indications. Over $110 in cash prizes will be given by the Grange, citizens and business men of Sandy. The Mt. Hood Fruit Growers will give a special prize of $25 on fruit. All exhibits winning prizes at the Sandy fair will be taken to Gresham fair of eastern Multnomah and to the Clackamas County fair there to compete for the Grange prize.

Charles Krebs has finished threshing and will at once start his brick yard in full blast.

Rev. Doubleday and wife who have been visiting relatives in Wisconsin, have returned home.

T. H. Fisher has the lumber on the ground for an addition to his home.

Herman Fischer is building a big cellar and granary.

Max Winchle is building a big residence. Looks like Max is going to married the way he is fixing up around his fine little farm.

Max Dupuis is busy as ever digging wells. He is quite successful finding good supplies of water, and a good many wells he has dug this season.

A LONG WASH DAY.

It Lasted a Week, but Came Only Four Times a Year.

Every one has heard of the German and Dutch method of accumulating soiled clothes and of having a wash day only two or three times a year. Not every one realizes, perhaps, that the custom was brought over to this country from Holland and that the Dutch settlers long continued its practice. In these days of the ever ready laundry it is strange to read of the laborious period which came to our New Amsterdam ancestors four times a year. Heien Everison Smith tells about it in "Colonial Days and Ways."

The custom of quarterly washings was maintained notwithstanding our summer heats and the immense quantities of clothes necessary to keep up the state of cleanliness required by Dutch customs. A New Englander who had married a citizen of New York writes in 1700 of this practice, which was undoubtedly strange to her.

"Grandmother Blum is so deep in her quarterly wash this week that she has time only to read her love."

The washing was done in an out-house called the hieckereken, where the water was boiled in immense kettles and all the other processes of the laundry work carried on. The work required not less than a week, frequently two weeks.

During the time preceding this cruel hard labor the soiled clothes were accumulating in very large hamper of open basketwork. This custom originated the necessity for the great stores of linen with which every bride was provided.

Victor Berg had some straw baled last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Howlett entertained Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Huntington, Mrs. Huntington and Mrs. Emma E. Pease, mother and sister of Mr. Huntington, and Mrs. Dick Gibson, at dinner last Thursday. Mr. Huntington's pig thought he would like to dine out, so he followed along after them just like a dog. Mr. Huntington tried several times to make him go back home but the pig wouldn't obey. When he got to Mr. Jones' he turned him into the orchard and left him until his return.

Miss Bertha Struck and Miss Katie Moxley of Firwood, called on Miss Bina Douglas Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Udell were down to Miss Gibson's Monday afternoon.

Mrs. H. G. Huntington and Mrs. Emma E. Pease called on Mrs. Dick Gibson Monday afternoon. They also called on Mrs. Viola Douglas.

J. P. Woodie was visiting at the old home place Sunday.

Wesley Douglas does not seem to improve. Dr. Adx called to see him Monday afternoon.

H. G. and Ed Huntington were Portland visitors the first of the week.

RIGHT HAND RULE.

The Way It is Applied in Driving and in Navigation.

London's drivers, sitting on the right side of the driver's seat, turn to the left. Why? In order that looking down at the right side of the vehicle they may gauge to a fraction of an inch the hubs of a vehicle meeting them. In the United States the driver still preserves the right side of the seat and in turning to the right of the roadway has the best knowledge of where his hubs may be in passing.

But in international navigation the right hand rules always obtain. It is the narrow channel winding into a port where the extremest of emphasis is laid upon the vessel keeping to starboard, no matter how many crooks and turns and loops the channel may make.

This was illustrated in a collision on the Whangpoo river, in China, when the Pekin and the Normandie collided. The Normandie was descending the stream, keeping to starboard. The Pekin was ascending the channel, keeping to its starboard. At a sharp turn in the channel the two boats collided. The Pekin's master declared that owing to the sharp bend in the river it was a "crossing" case, in which the Normandie was to blame.

In the house of lords, however, it was held that the right of any channel of any degree of sinuosity lay at the right of the channel's center; that, therefore, when the Pekin failed to observe the rule in the sharp bend and "crossed" it became an offender against the law and must pay damages.—Chicago Tribune.

The Picture It Brought From Out a Dark Cavern.

Dr. Francis Clark told an interesting story of a youth living in Maine who was out in the woods one day taking photographs of attractive bits of scenery. He came upon the mouth of a little cavern between the rocks, and he said to himself, "I will see what sort of picture I can get out of that cave," and as it was a dark day he decided to take a "time exposure" instead of a "snapshot." Steadying the camera upon his knee as well as he could at the edge of the cave, he gave the sensitive plate a long, deliberate look at the semidarkness within. Then he continued his tramp through the woods and after a few hours returned to his camp.

Several weeks afterward, when developing his plates, you can imagine his astonishment to see in the picture, in the very center of the cavern, with arched back and bristling fur and within springing distance of the spot where he had balanced his camera, a huge Canada lynx that might easily have destroyed his life. And yet he came and went and saw no signs of danger.—Christian Herald.

Proving a Statement.
A certain minister, who is an emphatic preacher, is at times at a loss to give his utterances proper weight. For instance, he'll say: "This statement is as true as the night which will follow day," or "as true as that the trees will bud in spring."

Sometimes it happens that the doctor has more statements than he has illustrations to give their weight. On one such occasion he remarked, "This is as true as the"—Here the doctor halted. He paused a few moments, and then his face illumined—"as true as the statement that some member is yet on his or her way to church."

A few moments later a lady entered the office and swept grandly up in aisle. "The doctor's face assumed an 'I told you so' appearance. The congratulation began to smile, then the laughter, sympathy for the embarrassed lady, however, soon subdued the apparently uncontrollable mirth.

The Parrots of Mexico.
What the wild pigeon was in point of numbers to the United States the parrot of varying shades of color and all sizes, is to old Mexico. Flocks of these birds frequently darken the midday sun in the hot country, and they become so tame around the camps of engineers that the birds are given individual names and soon become regular pets. Whenever the parrots desert the forest and alight on the ground in the open spaces of the jungle the natives recognize their actions as sure warning of an impending earthquake. American engineers endorse this belief and assert that serious accidents which might have been averted have resulted when the warning of the birds was noted, but unheeded.

A Line on Mother.
"I don't see how I'm ever to get a chance again with this boy around," wailed the little widow with the small son. "The other day a man I like awfully well asked me how old the town was that we came from. The boy spoke up without giving me a chance to put in a word: "I don't know just how old it is," he said, "but it must be pretty old because mamma was born in it."—New York Press.

great storm that so nearly destroyed the Texas city. Bolivar is seventy-five miles from Beaumont, which was the point of the train's destination. Before the train had traveled far on its journey it was caught in the storm. Thirty miles of the track were washed away, and the train was left stranded on a sandy waste. Many persons who lived on Bolivar peninsula were saved from death by taking refuge in the train. After the storm subsided they walked to Bolivar with the passengers, but the abandoned train was left on the prairie.

The storm bankrupted the railway, and so effort to rescue the engine and cars was made until 1903. Had not the road suffered so seriously in that storm the property would have proved of great value a few months later, when oil was struck at Beaumont. In 1903, however, the road underwent repairs, when the train was drawn into Beaumont, where it was greeted by a cheering crowd.—New York Press.
