Chicken Thieves.
A "wandering Willie" was seen standing near the Cottage Hotel on Monday evening of this week, and upon investigation it was seen that he had his eye on Mrs. Evans' white leghorn chickens. He was seen to grab one as it was trying to get through the fence, and Mr. Lindsey took after him. The stranger with the chicken under his arm ran down "C" Street with Lindsey in hot pursuit, but Lindsey was not as swift as the chicken "fancier", lost out in the race, and the last seen of "William" he was still running with the prize under his arm. The boarders at the Cottage are now bemoaning the fact that they were cheated out of the yellow legged chicken.

One of the most delightful Halloween parties ever given in this city was that at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Knight, Monday night, the hostesses of the evening being Mrs. M. J. Lee, Mrs. Ed. Bradt, Mrs. W. H. Bair. The unique invitations sent out by these ladies read as follows: Mesdames Bradt, Bair Lee. Kindly request you to come and see Where the ghosts and goblins all will be.

At the end of the lane near the walnut tree, At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Knight.

Be prepared to see a horrible sight; Come at the fatal hour of eight. And let the witches read your fate. Reveal to none this secret plot. Or woe—not luck—will be your lot. Monday, October Thirty. First.

Upon the arrival of the guests they were met beneath the walnut trees in the front yard by "ghosts" and at the door they were escorted into the reception hall. At the top of the stairway were more ghosts. After the guests had repaired to the parlors they were taken eight in number to the basement, the "spookiest" room in the Knight home.

Ghosts, black cats and owls were to be seen everywhere among fir boughs and wicker sounds that would make the blood chill in the veins of any one of Canby's young men.

The parlors of the Knight home were artistic and attracted no little attention by the many guests. Festoons of yellow and black crepe paper, jack-o'-lanterns, autumn leaves and cut flowers were used in profusion. Among the features of the evening's programme were the recitations by Mrs. Stonewall Vaughan, Miss Ora Lee and the vocal solo by Loraine Lee, all who responded to hearty echoes.

Every minute of the evening was enjoyed by the guests in games and fortune telling and ghost stories. Mrs. Briggs, dressed as a gypsy, told many fortunes and her camp was fairly thronged by those wishing to have their future foretold. The camp fire with its large kettle had the appearance of a real fortune teller's camp. Mrs. Briggs proved herself to be scientific in this art. Fred Roth received first prize, a witch doll, in a guessing contest. Mrs. Coleman and Miss Florence Stoddard received ed prizes for pinning the eyes on the pumpkin, the prizes of which were "ghostly". Refreshments consisting of pumpkin pie, doughnuts, coffee, candies and fruit was served.

Among the guests were the following: Mr. and Mrs. J. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Eckerson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Paddock, Mr. and Mrs. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bradt, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bair, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Knight, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Macle, Mrs. S. T. Fisher, Mrs. L. A. Bair, Mrs. W. R. Porter, Mrs. Briggs, Mrs. Stonewall Vaughan, Mrs. D. Clark, of Roseburg, Miss Weeks, Miss Stoddard, Miss Verna Porter, Miss Alma Knight, Miss Josie Knight, Miss Ora Lee, Miss Ethel Bradt, Misses Love of Pittsburgh, Pa., Loraine Lee; Messrs. Roy Lee, Ruby Schmidt, Fred Roth and Dr. H. A. Dedman.

Miss Grace Pfeister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Pfeister, died at the family home on Second street on Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock, after an illness of about one year. Miss Pfeister was about 16 years of age, and was well known in this city, where she has resided for some time.

The funeral took place on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and the interment was in the Zion cemetery. Many friends of the family attended the services to pay their last respects to the young lady, who was held in the highest esteem by all.
