Witness Sought and When Found Will Add Testimony.

The suit of Mrs. J. E. M. Black against Clackamas county to prevent the opening of an old road running through her property was not concluded in Circuit Court Monday.

In the absence of one of the witnesses, as soon as this person is heard, the testimony will all be in and Judge Campbell will announce his decision. Mrs. Black contends that the way was never laid out or ever opened as a road, and was never created by user or prescription.

She brought suit when the county court and supervisor threatened to open this way over her land after she had fenced it, and enjoined the county from opening the road. The County Court contends that the road is one created by user or prescription.

TWO COWS ELECTROCUTED. Animals Come Into Contact With Live Barb Wire Fence at Gladstone.

Two cows were electrocuted Sunday at Gladstone by coming into contact with a barb wire fence, that had been connected with the trolley wire of the Portland Railway Light & Power Company's line on the spur running into Gladstone Park.

One of the animals belonged to F. E. Baker and the other to Mrs. T. M. Davis. Investigation proved that the animals were killed through carelessness on the part of the company, which will make good the loss of the cows to their owners. The fence is a three-wire and it has been the custom of some of the neighborhood children to crawl through on their way to and from school. It is remarkable that more serious fatalities did not result.

WILL BUILD SIDEWALK. Residents in Clermont School District Decide to Make Improvement.

The people living in Clermont school district are tired of walking in the mud and have decided to take the bull by the horns and eliminate mud so far as the east side of Molalla avenue, beyond the city limits, is concerned.

At a recent gathering of school patrons the question was brought up for consideration, and in a short time it was decided to build and nearly the total expense subscribed on the evening in question. The improvement will be built by popular subscription, and enough has been subscribed to build the full length of the district. This walk will run past Clermont avenue, which will be past the road to the public within a short time.

Hon. Walter A. Dimick, who is State Senator from this county, arrived home from Salem yesterday evening. He will remain at home during the recess, which lasts until Monday. Mr. Dimick is pleased with the outcome of the organization, believing that in the defeat of certain leaders, people have elected to the rear certain men who represent interests that were planning to ask for many things to which they are not entitled.

The real business of the winter session has not yet opened up. Mr. Dimick has introduced one bill, however, the proposed law providing for the keeping open of the polls all day at primary elections, same as in regular elections. SHERIFF MASS GRABS GUN. Throws a Scare into Treasurer Tufts That Calls for Explanation.

Sheriff Mass threw a scare into County Treasurer Tufts Friday that both parties will remember for some time. In the treasurer's office there is a contrivance designed for the detection of hold-up men, and it was connected up a few days ago without the knowledge of Mr. Tufts, who became treasurer of Clackamas only last Monday. Unless one knows the "ropes" a step here and a touch there will set a bell peeling vigorously in the sheriff's office. Mr. Mass was at his telephone when the jingle started him, and dropping the receiver with a bang, he grabbed his trusty six-shooter and made a bee-line across the corridor to the treasurer's office and drew a fine bead on the head of the astonished Mr. Tufts. Mutual explanations followed.
