To the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Clara Ringo, the bridal party entered the church at 2:30 o'clock, the bride and bridegroom being attended by Miss Miller, Miss Evelyn Harding, Paul Hopp and William Kraxker. The bride was beautifully attired in Helen pink crepe de chine, and carried a showy bouquet of white roses. Her long tulle veil was caught in place by a wreath of white roses. LAST TRIBUTE PAID TO R. M. JOHNSON

BODY OF WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN OF ST. JOHNS IS BURIED IN MOUNTAIN VIEW.

The funeral services of Robert M. Johnson, who died at his home at St. Johns on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, were held on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at the family residence at St. Johns, and the interment was in the Mountain View cemetery in this city, the remains being interred in the family lot, beside those of Mrs. Johnson's parents, who died about one year ago.

Many friends of the deceased attended the funeral. The services at the grave were conducted by the Masonic Order, Mr. Johnson being instrumental in establishing the order at St. Johns. The floral pieces were beautiful, among them being offerings from the Order of Owls, Masons, City Hall of St. Johns, Eastern Star.

Robert Johnson was born on November 22, 1854, in Santa Rosa, Sonoma county, Cal., and with his parents moved to Oregon in 1878, settling at Lone Rock, Or., where he engaged in the stock business. In 1886 he moved to St. Johns, where he and his wife have since resided. He was married at Lone Rock to Miss Nellie Holcomb on November 7, 1880, who survives him.

Mr. Johnson was a member of the St. Johns police force, but about six weeks ago, owing to illness, was compelled to give up his duties. He underwent a serious surgical operation for liver trouble at the St. Vincent's hospital, but he rapidly grew worse. He was familiarly known at St. Johns as the "probi" patrolman, and had many friends who mourn his death.

The deceased is survived by the following sisters, Mrs. Bell Nell, of Cottage Grove; Mrs. Laura Brown, of Astoria, Or.; Mrs. Jennie Noble, of Hollister, Cal. He was a nephew of Mrs. R. D. Wilson, of this city.

BIDS FOR COURTHOUSE WORK ARE REJECTED

JUDGE BEATIE TO HAVE FORCE EXCAVATE FOR ROCK FOUNDATION.

The County Court Commissioners at a meeting Saturday rejected all bids for remodeling the courthouse. The bids were: Clarence Simmons, of bidders there, William LaSalle & Son, of Gladstone, and P. Chapelle Brown, of Portland. The commissioners, decided after an architect had made a report on the specifications, that they were not satisfactory. The specifications of Mr. Simmons were nearer what the commissioners wanted than those of the other bidders. He failed, however, to provide for quite enough vault room.

County Judge Beattie said that he would start a force of men excavating Monday in the rear of the courthouse, where it is proposed to build an addition, for a solid foundation. An iron rod driven several feet in the ground did not strike rock, and it is feared that the cost of making the foundation will be much more than was figured on at first. The commissioners spent two days examining the bids and specifications.

GERMANS HAVE FINE OUTING

Dancing on Ground, However, Makes Sore Muscles.

The picnic given at the Macksburg Park by the Macksburg German Society on last Sunday was attended by about 600 persons from Canby, Aurora, Oregon City, Macksburg and many other sections of the county. Dancing was one of the features, but owing to there being no platform for this those wishing to dance had to do so on the ground, and many from this city who attended are feeling the effects. The music was furnished by the "Hungry Seven" band of Portland, and all of the German airs were greatly appreciated by the Germans attending. Refreshments were served.

CLOSING OF LOCKS TO CUT OFF TOWNS

Points on the Upper Willamette above Oregon City, extending through the territory bounded on the south by Corvallis, will be isolated from water transportation from the latter part of July or about August 1 until October 1. Officials of the Oregon City Transportation Company, operating the fleet known as the Yellow Stack Line, announced that the service would be discontinued for that period, closing of the Oregon City locks to deepen the channel, compelling discontinuance of traffic.

Pressed by unusual demands because the movement of freight has been heavier than heretofore, the company continued the steamer Pomona between Portland and Corvallis longer than usual this season, the water above Salem being too low as a rule after June 6, but the Pomona has made her last trip until October.

Vessel Being Repaired.

The vessel will be laid up at Portland for a few days to be repaired and undergo a few repairs. About Tuesday she will go on the Portland-Oregon City run, making two round trips daily, leaving Portland at 8 and 2 o'clock and leaving Oregon City at 11 and 5 o'clock. Sundays she will make three round trips.

The steamer Oregon will remain on the Portland-Salem route until the locks are closed, unless the river falls more rapidly than expected, the service then being three round trips a week. As the company has no adequate means of transferring freight around the locks the Salem service will cease when the basin is blocked.

Without taking into consideration the loss to the company, growers along the river will suffer, as the blockage will be felt at a time when hop-picking is at its height and the movement of pickers is heavy. Annually they will have to go south by rail and either walk or be driven to the river sections remote from transportation.

Work on Locks Delayed.

It is impossible that news will be received from Washington dealing with the stand the government will take on the Oregon City locks situation until the return of Major McIndoe, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., who is expected back next week. A report covering a special survey made and a lower figure asked by the Light & Power Company for the locks was forwarded recently, but the engineers favor the construction of new locks rather than the purchase of the present system.

The closing of the locks was not made known definitely until after the War Department had granted permission to shut off navigation and with that sanction at hand the shipowners are powerless to prevent the move.

W. M. TAYLOR AND MISS FRENCH WED

PRETTY CEREMONY SOLEMNIZED AT HOME OF BRIDE'S PARENTS.

A very pretty marriage was solemnized on Sunday afternoon at the home of Lee French, of Parkplace, when his sister, Miss Avis French, became the wife of Walter M. Taylor, son of I. D. Taylor, of this city. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. J. R. Landsborough, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Miss Fay French, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while W. E. Taylor, brother of the bridegroom was the best man. The ceremony was performed beneath a canopy of white roses and ferns, making a very pretty effect. The decorations of the rooms also were of roses. The bride was beautifully attired in white, and the bridemaid in white over pink. They carried white roses.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served, after which the bride and bridegroom left for Portland, and from there will leave on their honeymoon to Omaha. Before returning by way of the Canadian Pacific they will visit at Chicago and St. Paul. The young couple will make their home in Portland.

The bride is one of Parkplace's popular young women, and has many friends there where she has made her home most of her life. The bridegroom was formerly of this city, and is well known here. He is secretary of the Assistant General Manager Stock of the Harriman lines of the Northwest. The young couple received many handsome presents.

BLAST VICTIM RISKED LIFE TO SAVE GIRL

L. P. DAVIS, ROADWORKER, DIES SOON AFTER BEING INJURED.

L. P. Davis, the roadworker, who died in St. Vincent's Hospital, Portland, as a result of injuries received while blasting stumps near Eagle Creek, it was learned Saturday, probably risked danger himself to save a little girl, Davis, who was working with A. D. Bennett, the road supervisor, had placed the charge of powder and lighted the fuse.

It was the custom for one of the men to run in one direction on the road and the other to run in the opposite direction in order to warn persons, who might be approaching, of danger. In this instance, however, Davis became confused and started in the same direction that Bennett had taken. Bennett called his attention to the mistake, and, although Davis had gone more than 100 yards, he turned around and, it is thought, saw the little girl approaching from the direction he should have taken. Without hesitation, he retraced his steps, and passed the stump. He had got about seventy yards from the blast when it exploded and he was knocked down by a part of the stump. The little girl was not far away. Davis' left leg was broken and his side was badly torn. Dr. Adix, of Estacada, was summoned, and after an examination, he ordered the man taken to the hospital in Portland as soon as possible. Dr. Sommer, with an ambulance, met the party with the injured man at the station and he was hurried to the hospital, where he died soon afterward.

Mr. Bennett warned Davis of his danger, and several persons who witnessed the accident declare that the supervisor did all that was possible to save his fellow worker.

The thing to consider in purchasing a sound-reproducing instrument is the fidelity with which it reproduces the human voice in songs or speeches and the musical notes of instruments. Until you have heard the Edison Phonograph you cannot appreciate how far Mr. Edison has carried his invention in this respect. Every note of music and every syllable of a speech is not only clear and distinct, but also a perfect reproduction of the singer, band, orchestra or speaker who made the original Record.
