HUSBAND SAYS WIFE CALLED HIM "SISSY". MARK P. RYCRRAFT, IN SUIT. ALLEGES SPOUSE DESERTED HIM.

Mark P. Rycraft has sued Helena P. Rycraft for a divorce. They were married at Baker, January 9, 1909. Rycraft alleges that his wife has developed a high and ungovernable disposition, and has taken a strong dislike for him. He says that when living at Madras she furnished him with a cost of $1,500, but she did not appreciate it. She has called him "a fool," "a sissy," he says, and once asserted that he could not "make a living for a sick cat." The plaintiff further declares that his wife has worked in restaurants against his wishes, as he was able to provide for her and on January 1, 1911, she informed him that she was going to Idaho to visit a son by a former marriage. She was to remain three weeks, but instead remained there three months, and only came back when he went after her. It was at that time she told him she loved him no longer, and soon left him. Rycraft is represented by Attorney J. F. Yates.

TEACHERS' CORPS FILLED BY BOARD.

MISSES L. E. KUNS AND G. E. TODD ELECTED TO HIGH SCHOOL POSITIONS.

SEPTEMBER 18 DAY SET FOR OPENING.

Suit Filed Against Contractors Who Failed to Complete High School Building—Surety Company Also Defendant.

With the election of two high school teachers, the board of directors of the city schools Thursday night completed the corps of instructors for the coming year. The directors also fixed the date for the opening of the fall term, and discussed matters relative to the furnishings of the new High School building, which will be completed within a fortnight.

Miss Lola E. Kuns, of Portland, and Miss G. Evelyn Todd, of Cleveland, O., were chosen as instructors in the High School. Miss Kuns holds a Bachelor of Science degree from McMinnville College, where she was graduated in 1907. Her teaching experience covers 31 months, of which the last 13 months has been in the Silverton High School. She has taught bookkeeping, has had a complete course in commercial work and is capable of handling science or mathematics in the High School. Graduate of Otterbein.

Miss Todd was graduated from Otterbein University at Westerville, O., in 1907, with a degree of Bachelor of Arts. She has taught two years in high school and was employed last year in Seaside, Or. She speaks German and French and will be assigned to languages. Miss Todd has also specialized in mathematics, embracing algebra, geometry and trigonometry. The city schools will open on Monday, September 18. Assignments of teachers will be announced July 11.

The directors Thursday night concluded to lay a concrete floor in the basement of the Eastham building, with the exception of the wood room. The basement, in that building is used as a winter playground for the students and the dirt floor has made it very unpleasant and unsanitary. Cement walks around the high school building will not be constructed this year. The grounds will be given a chance to settle thoroughly and in the meantime temporary wooden walks will be laid. It is planned, however, to eventually have cement walks leading to the building from all sides of the block.

Contractors Are Sued. Suit was filed in Portland yesterday in behalf of the school district against Kelly & Mahoney and the American Surety Company, for more than $2,000, as it has cost the district about this sum over and above the contract price to complete the building. Kelly & Mahoney were the original contractors, and after realizing that they would probably lose money on their contract, they stopped work, and the directors were compelled to proceed with the construction. The American Surety Company bonded the contractors for $7,000 and the directors now propose to force either the contractor or the bonding company, or both, to disgorge.

WIRE VICTIM GIVEN $100 AND EXPENSES.

HAROLD HENRICKSEN, HURT ON BRIDGE WILL NOT FILE SUIT.

Harold Henriksen, the young painter who, while painting the suspension bridge several days ago, received injuries from an electric wire and fell to the bridge about 30 feet below, was allowed $100 by the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, and Earl A. Clark, the contractor for whom he was working. The young man's medical and hospital bills will be paid by Mr. Clark and the Power Company. Henriksen, being only nineteen years of age, H. L. Hull was appointed his guardian, and Gordon E. Hayes was the attorney.

Henriksen, it is said, had been warned of the live wires, and it was while he was working over these that he came in contact with one wire charged with 3,000 volts. The accident was witnessed by two men at the rear of the bridge, the contractor, who was working near and Mrs. Don Meldrum, of this city. Mrs. Meldrum was nearer to the man than anyone on the bridge. She started forward to summon help, but had come but a short distance when the man fell at her feet. He struck heavily on his back, and had narrowly escaped going over the edge of the bridge into the river. The man was carried to the office of Drs. Carl and Meisner, where he was soon revived and later taken to the Wildwood Hospital.

BENEFIT PLANNED FOR SCHOOL.

The cast for "That Rascal Pat" follows: Pat, Frank Minter; Major Put-jacket, Ralph Caples; Charles Livingston, William Edgecombe; Laura, the Major's niece, Olive Jackson; Nancy, the maid, Ethel Ball. Following is the cast for "The Stage Struck Yankee": Curtis Chuck, the Yankee, Wallace Lewis; Douglas Double, manager, C. Gibbs; Old Squire Chuck, Lyman Derrick; Richard, the servant, L. Sutherland; Jedidah, Miss Tony Kuppenbecker; Miss Fanny Magnet, an actress, Mrs. L. Sutherland.

A MODEST MAD.

By D. W. SPRINGER. Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

My friend Mrs. Southwick wrote me to come down to her country place. She said she had an especial reason for asking me, but didn't tell me what it was. So one mid-morning morning I took a train to make the visit. On reaching the station I was not expected till an hour later—not finding a conveyance to meet me, I continued to leave my baggage at the station and walk. Never having been to Mrs. Southwick's place before, I was obliged to inquire the way and was put on to a short route, at the end of which I would enter the grounds at the rear. On arrival I climbed a fence and walked some three or four hundred yards to a clump of trees, which was so inviting that I concluded to penetrate it.

I light in the middle there was swung a hammock, and in the hammock lay a young girl asleep. Now, a young girl asleep in a hammock is a pretty sight at any time, but if pretty and in a shaded nook she is tempting. This one was very pretty. There was about her that relaxation artists love to get in their pictures and statuary. There was a slow bending of her breast. Her mouth was partly open showing a narrow line of ivory between a pair of pink coral lips.

Well, though the natural consequence of a young man seeing a girl thus defenseless before him is that he cannot resist the temptation to kiss her and get his ears boxed—not for his pains, but his pleasure—I will endeavor to describe what happened. I advanced a step at a time, and with every step forward I took ten backward in my resolution not to dishonor myself by doing what I had reached a point but a yard from the sleeper without waking her. She was slumbering so calmly that for some time I dared not proceed farther for fear of awakening her. Had she slept more soundly I might have been bolder. But while halting I was gradually filling with bravery—or recklessness. As soon as I had gathered enough courage for the purpose I advanced another step or two, halted, then bent down to see how near I could bring my face to hers without awakening her, then touched my lips lightly to hers.

Beyond a slight spasmodic movement she remained the same. Within a single moment I experienced dread and reassurance. The girl slept on, and I, having achieved my purpose, became suddenly conscious of the frightful risk I had run and was seized with a desire to escape the consequences of my offense. I withdrew as stealthily as possible and proceeded to the house.

I was received by Mrs. Southwick with a hearty welcome, and we sat down together on wicker chairs on the piazza. "And now that you are here," she said, "and while we are alone I will give you my reason for inviting you down. I have a wife picked out for you."

"A wife?" "Yes, a very lovely girl, modest, unassuming, pretty—indeed, everything that is maidenly."

"And all this is for me?" "Yes, but you must proceed with her very slowly. She is sensitive, pure. The least advance before an offer of marriage would undeniably shock her."

"For heaven's sake!" I exclaimed indignantly. "Suppose she should be the girl asleep in the hammock?" "It is this maidenly modesty," continued the go-between, "that is Edith's chief charm. I am sure that alone is enough to make you love her."

"I dare say," I replied, with proper politeness. When I was presented to Miss Edith Greer I felt the gulf of Judas Iscariot yawning up to me. I grew red and pale by turns. I stammered out a few words that didn't mean anything. I sat down before she or Mrs. Southwick had seated herself and jumped up as if I had encountered a tack on the cushion. Meanwhile Miss Greer stood with her eyes bent on the floor as if I were the first young man she had ever met. Mrs. Southwick came to the rescue by inviting us into the dining room for luncheon.
