MRS. EDNA MILLER SUES FOR DIVORCE

PROMINENT YOUNG WOMAN ALLEGES HUSBAND TREATED HER CRUELLY.

$50 MONTHLY ALIMONY IS ASKED

Defendant Charged With Threatening To Force Wife From Home—Called Her Burden, She Says.

Alleging that he has treated her cruelly for about four years, Mrs. Edna B. Miller, one of the best known young women in the city Tuesday filed suit for divorce against Ralph D. Miller, also a member of a prominent Oregon City family. The plaintiff asserts that her husband, October 2, 1911, ordered her to leave his house and threatened to throw her out.

The couple were married August 22, 1906, in Oregon City, and have one child, Marion, three years of age, whose custody the plaintiff asks. She also asks $50 a month alimony alleging that her husband earns $25 a week as manager of the clothing department of a department store and owns a house and lot in block 54, Oregon City, valued at $2,500.

Mrs. Miller avers that beginning January 1, 1907, and continuing until December 1, 1911, the defendant was unkind to her and found fault with little things. She avers that he assumed a jealous disposition and intimated that she associated with other men. The plaintiff says her husband frequently told her she was a burden to him, and charged her with extravagance. She avers that he finally refused to let her have an account at the store where he worked.

After the birth of the child, according to Mrs. Miller, her husband refused to split and carry wood into the house and build the fire. She says she was compelled to do these things in addition to caring for the baby and attending to her household duties. She asks that the alimony of $50 a month continue until the child is twenty-one years of age, and that $150 be allowed for attorneys' fees. The suit was brought by George C. Brown and William Stone.

Mrs. Miller was formerly Miss Edna B. Tabor, being a daughter of R. H. Tabor, of this city. The defendant is a son of Thomas Miller, a retired contractor.

Mrs. Jossa alleges that January 1, 1907, her husband, displaying a revolver threatened to shoot himself, for the purpose of harassing and frightening her. She avers that he elected her from their home October 1, 1910, having previously threatened to choke and strangle her. HORSE WITH MANE 5 FEET COMES TO CITY

"Pete," a horse belonging to William Daniels, one of the prominent residents of Beaver Creek, attracted much attention in this city Saturday. The horse has a mane five feet long, which almost reaches the ground. During the past few months the mane has taken on a wonderful growth, and so doubt if the hair was brushed and properly attended the owner could make a small fortune in exhibiting the animal in shows. The horse has been in the possession of Mr. Daniels ever since it was one year old. The horse is of a chestnut sorrel, and was brought to this city Saturday to have its picture taken, Mr. Calvert photographing it. The animal works in the field every day. "Pete" seems to be proud of his mane, and when many in this city stopped to look at him while he was in front of the gallery waiting to be photographed by Mr. Calvert he seemed to enjoy the excitement he was causing.

TOOZE FAMILY MEETS AFTER FORTY YEARS

Probably one of the most unique celebrations of Thanksgiving Day in Oregon was the reunion of the Tooze family at the home of Superintendent of City Schools Fred J. Tooze, the youngest member of a family of twelve children, whose parents immigrated from Europe to Ohio in 1850, and to Michigan about four years later. The mother died when the youngest child was a few weeks old and the father shortly afterward, leaving ten small orphans to the care of strangers.

Of necessity these brothers and one sister were widely separated, several of them drifting to Ohio, where one half-brother still lives, two others, then stalwart young men, gave their lives to the Union cause in the Civil War. Walter L. and Charles Tooze came to Oregon more than thirty years ago with an uncle, who had come to America recently. Frank Tooze came two years later and was followed by two other half-brothers, John and William Butson and by the sister. Three others, Henry, David and Fred J. remained in Michigan until two years ago when the latter came to Oregon City. The last to arrive here is David, who bears the adopted name Styles. Six of these children for the first time in forty years met in Oregon City at the home of Fred J. Tooze Thanksgiving Day. Those present were, Sadie Kemp, of Woodburn; John Butson, Hillsdale; Frank Tooze, Sherwood; Walter L. Tooze, Falls City; D. C. Styles, Battle Creek, Mich.; the host and the wives of the brothers.

After a period of reminiscences a magnificent dinner, the result of the planning and work of the capable hostess, a short program, consisting of songs, guessing conundrums, short speeches by W. P. Tooze and others. P. M. Hart was called upon to photograph the jolly crowd.

Christian Hornschuch, one of the well known and highly respected residents of this city, died at the family home, Seventh and Monroe streets, Saturday morning at 1:30 o'clock of heart disease. Mr. Hornschuch was apparently in the best of health when he retired Friday evening. Mrs. Hornschuch, who was stricken with paralysis about one year ago, and who never recovered her health, heard her husband gasping for breath, and managed to get to the residence occupied by her daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Elliott, which adjoins that of the Hornschuchs. Since Mrs. Hornschuch's paralytic stroke, her voice has become affected and she is unable to speak loudly. After reaching the Elliott home she awoke Mr. and Mrs. Elliott who telephoned for a physician.

Mr. Hornschuch's death occurred soon after he was stricken. Mr. Hornschuch was kind and considerate to his family, and was well known throughout Clackamas county.

Mr. Hornschuch was born at Heiderbach, near Suhl, Prussia, September 5, 1847, and was sixty-four years of age. His father died when he was a boy and he came to America with his mother in 1863, and settled at Ashland, Pa. Here he married Miss Gottlobina Glatzer in 1870. The family came to Oregon in 1878, where they have lived ever since, except for a short time in Seattle. Mr. Hornschuch lived for many years near Shubel, where he owned one of the finest farms in the county, which he sold about one year ago. He moved to Seattle where he remained until last summer, when he went to Salem, later coming to Oregon City. He was arranging to have a beautiful home erected.

Mr. Hornschuch is survived by his wife and the following children: Henry Hornschuch, of Portland; Emil Hornschuch, of Seattle, Wash.; Theodore Hornschuch, of Tacoma, Wash.; Edward Hornschuch, of Bellingham, Wash.; Mrs. Rose Wenger, of Salem, Oregon; Lawrence Hornschuch, of San Francisco; Mrs. Lena Ernest, Seattle, Wash.; Albert Hornschuch, of Portland; Otto Hornschuch, of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Lydia Elliott, of Oregon City.
