HOMESICKNESS.

Out in the Philippines the order to military bands, it is said, is to play "Home, Sweet Home," very sparingly. The reason?

The old tune is apt to induce homesickness in the soldiers, and homesickness leads to desertion.

General Leonard Wood, chief of staff in the army, asserts that the greater proportion of desertions in our military forces is caused by homesickness,

It is the same in other armies. In Canada some years ago the authorities found it necessary, for the same reason, to prohibit the playing of in the centers, with the initials at one "Lochaber No More" by the bagpipers corner. #### LAST MINUTE BIFT.

Charming Trifles That Are Quickly and Easily Made.

A case for milady's lingeric walsts makes a charming Christmas gift. The case illustrated is of sheer white lawn potterned with a mauve florai design. A yard of the material is sufficient to make the case. The lawn is folded so that the selvage edges meet in the center of the length of lawn. The edges are finished with an inch wide hem. The ends, top and bottom of the case are basted together, and the entire case is brier stitched around with lavender embroldery slik.

Buttons and buttonholes are placed down the center hems to close the Linen Trunk Sets.

Pretty gifts that are easily made are the linen trunk sets. They may be made of linen in any color which is a favorite of the person for whom the gift is designed. It is usually best to make them of the natural linen and let the satin ribbon binding bring out the color. They are for the bottom and top of each tray, hatbox and small trays and include the bag for rubbers, bathing outfit, soiled clothes bag and toilet case,

They are all bound with satin ribitials either in the center of each piece or at the corner. They are very handy and save taking the usual number of towels for the same purpose. Many also add the trny sachet pads if a more elaborate gift is desfred. The steamer pillows are another favorite gift this year, and they are covered with brown or yellow denim embroidered with a large heraldic design fit the steamer chairs and have soft ties of the same material.

American Consulate In Tripoli; Italian Soldiers Pitching Tents

THILE many observers have given testimony as to the cruelty of the Italian troops in punishing what the Italians term the "treachery" of the Arabs who sought to retake Tripoli by a guerrilla attack, some of the same correspondents praise highly the courage of the soldiers of the invading force. "For sheer, cold, anemotional daring," says one of them, "I have never seen anything to equal it. I saw some fine sights and steady coolness in the South African campaign, but everything has been eclipsed by what I saw in Tripoil." This tribute is from an English correspondent too. Whatever may be the truth about the situation in Tripoli, concesled in large part, as it doubtless is, by the rigid censorship enforced by the Italian military administration, there can be little doubt that the city is not now a desirable place of residence, with the terrors of cholers added to those of war. Yet the American consul, John Q. Prince Chun has been the chief figure in China since the death of Emperor Kwang Su and the Empress Dowager, in 1908. From the dark * days which followed he emerged ruler of China.

At no time was Prince Chun's re gency a smooth one. He tried to hold to middle ground, which pleased neither the Manchu reactionaries nor the native progressives. He handled the present crisis with perhaps something less than his old-time vigor, and recent reports have hinted that his mind was weakening.
