

Chest Pains and Sprains

Sloan's Liniment is an excellent remedy for chest and throat affections. It quickly relieves congestion and inflammation. A few drops in water used as a gargle is antiseptic and healing.

Here's Proof I have used Sloan's Liniment for years and can testify to its wonderful efficiency. I have used it for sore throat, cough, lumbago and rheumatism and in every case it gave instant relief.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is excellent for sprains and bruises. It stops the pain at once and reduces swelling very quickly.

Sold by all dealers. Price, 25c., 50c., $1.00

CORVALLIS, Or., Jan. 17.—Fruit growers' associations and individual fruitmen are sending requests for information to the Oregon Agricultural College as to the manufacture of their own lime-sulphur solutions for spraying. The college will be glad, whenever possible, to send an expert to confer with the association or individual as to the construction of a manufacturing plant or erection of a small home plant.

FRUITGROWERS SEEK RECIPE FOR SPRAY

CORVALLIS, Or., Jan. 17.—A $4,000 giant tractor engine of the caterpillar type, 60 horse-power, has just been obtained for the new farm mechanics building at the Oregon Agricultural College by Prof. H. D. Scudder for the use of the classes in farm engineering. Four carloads of new machinery have been secured to add to the equipment of the laboratory moved from its old quarters, including a number of different traction engines. Specimens of nearly every one of the best types of plows, cultivators, seeders, harvesters, plumping outfits, engines, and other machinery made by the John Deere Plow Co., the Parlin & Orendoff Northwest Plow Co. and the Oliver Plow Co. have been supplied to the college, being loaned free for instructional purposes. Over $15,000 worth of machinery has been promised, including besides three traction engines and threshing machines, a fine exhibit of 15 or more gasoline engines, adapted to farm use. When this new equipment is all installed, O. A. C. will have the most modern and complete farm mechanics laboratory west of the Mississippi. Special effort has been devoted to this end, since the college believes it an important part of the training of every agricultural student to learn the construction, care, use and repair of the different makes of farm machines. Every type used on the farm is taken apart and set up again by the students, and the cost of operation studied and compared with that of other makes of the same type. Thus, when he reaches his home farm and has a binder break down or a gasoline engine balk, the student will not have to lay off hands and teams to go to town for expert help; he is his own expert in machinery.

O. A. C. TO HAVE BEST FARMING MACHINERY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—While the postmaster general's proposal that the government take over the telegraph lines, which was authorized by the President, has caused general surprise, leading Republican members declared that unless all telegraph tolls are materially lowered there will be a general sentiment in the House in favor of the government taking hold of the systems. Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., chairman of the Senate committee on post-offices and post roads, before which any legislation to carry out Mr. Hitchcock's proposal would go, had this to say this afternoon: "I am unable to understand the declaration alleged to have been made by Postmaster General Hitchcock in favor of government ownership of telegraph lines. When the advocates of an enlargement of our inadequate parcel post service asked for his views some time, he objected to the enactment of a law establishing such a service and asked for an appropriation of $100,000 which he could expend in experiments on a few rural routes and in a few cities. If we cannot enlarge a service we already have without spending $100,000 experimenting, we are certainly in no position to undertake an entirely new service. "Personally, I doubt if the postmaster general authorized the statement attributed to him. Last August it was stated in a Washington paper that he gave an interview saying he had collected data from foreign countries on the subject of the parcel post. I repeatedly requested him to submit the data for use of the Senate committee on post-offices and post roads, but received no response for several weeks, and then Mr. Hitchcock repudiated the interview and admitted that he had not collected the data."

CHICAGO HAS ZERO WEATHER 9 DAYS

COAL FAMINE THREATENS AND FUNDS OF CHARITY HAVE BEEN SPENT. TRAINS UNABLE TO LEAVE STATION

Suffering in Every Part Of City Intense And Every Effort Is Being Made To Aid Unfortunate.

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Chicago is suffering today from its ninth consecutive day of zero weather. Although there have been intervals at a few hours when the mercury climbed above this mark each day at some time zero has been reached and passed, establishing a record for more than twenty years.

At midnight last night the government thermometers showed zero, but an hour later one degree below was registered, and at 6 o'clock this morning this mark still stood.

Through the night a fine snow fell, driven by a bitter northwest wind. No relief was held out for the day, the prediction being that the temperature might fall to ten or twelve below.

Each day brings stories of suffering in every part of the city. The funds of charitable organizations have been practically exhausted, and the county is finding it difficult to supply the wants of the poor.

Mayor Harrison said today he would issue an appeal for funds for the aid of the city's poor. Chicago is on the verge of a coal famine. Dealers said today that if more days the surplus will be exhausted. Prices in four days have advanced on various grades from 10 cents to $1 a ton.

Railroads besides holding the fuel for their own use, have been able to deliver one-fifth as fast as Chicago is burning it. A snow storm which prevailed last night and today has seriously retarded traffic on steam railroads and street railroads.

Nearly all trains have arrived late during the last twenty-four hours and in many cases they have been unable to leave the stations in this city until hours after schedule time.

With the lowest temperatures of the season prevailing in the upper Mississippi Valley states, the plains states and the West Gulf states, zero weather extending as far south as Arkansas and Northern Texas, and the temperature below zero in California, the Weather Bureau at Washington today gave notice that a very cold wave would overspread the Northwestern states during the next thirty-six to forty-eight hours.

Snow was falling today in practically all districts east of the Rocky Mountains except in the Southeastern states, where there was rain. In the Far West there was a storm of considerable intensity over British Columbia causing rain in the Pacific states and snows in the North Rocky Mountain regions.

Mr. Wilson's letter ought to make friends for him among those who seem to be interested chiefly in digging it up. As a cryptic utterance, nothing that has been said recently in politics can more than equal this answer by Colonel Bryan.

EDITOR FRIEND OF HOME RULE IS DEAD

FLORENCE, Italy, Jan. 16.—Henry Labouchere, former editor of London Truth, and a famous diplomat, died here today. Henry Labouchere was born in London in 1831 and was educated at Eton. In 1854 he entered the British diplomatic service, being at one time a member of the British legation at Washington. In 1865 he sat in parliament, losing his seat by petition the following year. Twice afterward he was returned, representing Middlesex and Northampton. During his parliamentary career he strongly advocated home rule. At one time he was part owner of the London Daily News to which paper he contributed articles for its signature: "The Best Regarded Resident."

GHOST APPEARS TO BEAT WILSON

EX-PRINCETON HEAD SAID PARTY SHOULD BE RID OF BRYAN. COLONEL WATTERSON ENTERS FIGHT

Other Speeches Quoted Showing That Democratic Candidate Has Not Always Talked Regularly.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Confronted by the defection of important Democratic supporters, with a letter in his own hands which placed in effect in the political nuisance class, said to be hanging over him and with the denunciation of himself by Grover Cleveland rising like a ghost from the past, Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey, is having trouble with his Presidential boom. This boom, say well-informed politicians, never can survive so many backsets. They say that it is on the verge of collapse.

Not the least of the untoward circumstances that are contributing to the woes of Mr. Wilson—perhaps the most important of them all—is the letter concerning Bryan. The three prominent Democrats who have threatened to desert him if they have not already done so, are Colonel George Harvey, editor of Harpers Weekly, the Colonel Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, and James C. Hemphill, for years editor of the Charleston News and Courier.

As to the Bryan letters, it is predicted that as a result of them the Nebraska statesman, who has spoken kind words of Wilson in the past may find it highly inexpedient to continue his friendly relations or to make any further promise of support.

The letter has been kept more or less a secret. At the most, only a general idea of its contents has been made known. It was written by Governor Wilson in 1905 to Adrian H. Joline, of New York. There is a good deal of uncertainty about some parts of it, and as to other parts there is lack of agreement as to verbiage, but the following sentence occurred substantially as given:

"Cannot we devise some dignified way of getting Mr. Bryan out of the Democratic party and getting rid of him for all time?"

There was an effort recently on the part of the friends of the New Jersey Bryan letter, it was declared to be "past history." Past history or not, it is possible that Mr. Bryan does not like it even now. When Colonel Bryan was asked only the other day what he thought about the letter, he considered a while and then snapped out:

"Mr. Wilson's letter ought to make friends for him among those who seem to be interested chiefly in digging it up. As a cryptic utterance, nothing that has been said recently in politics can more than equal this answer by Colonel Bryan."

BILLIARD PLAYERS GIFTED SAYS EXPERT

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 13.—Billiards is one game that stands still. Low Shaw, the world's champion twenty-five years ago and for over twenty years a fancy billiard player, says the only new thing in the game since he started is a new name once in a while. Shaw is in Cleveland this week for the fiftieth time. He is headed across the country for the fiftieth time. He's been traveling ever since he learned to handle a cue. "Jake Schaefer was a greater billiard player than Willie Hoppe and so was Frank Ives," said Shaw. "Hoppe defeated Schaefer when the latter was an old man. Billiard players are good only a short time. They are at top form a year or two and then go back. "It would be a lot harder to find a billiard champion than a 'white hope.' Only one man in a million ever becomes a good billiard shot. A fighter can be taught. Billiard players are gifted and those who do not handle a cue naturally will not become good players no matter how much they practice."
