Curious Newspaper. The most northerly newspaper in the world is published at Hammerstein, in Russia, in a small wood cabin roofed with turf. It is a weekly journal called Nord Cap. When the subscribers receive the news it is usually a fortnight after the events have occurred. The greater part of the subscriptions are paid for with fish.

Real Rubies. "Most people are of the impression that the diamond is more valuable than any other jewel stone, but weight for weight the oriental ruby costs many times what the finest diamonds of the Kimberley field will bring," said a dealer, who has lately returned from a trip to the East Indies. "For instance, a fine 11 carat ruby sold in London a few years ago for $35,000. An 11 carat diamond in the market would not bring anything like this sum. The smaller sized diamonds and pigeon blood rubies are not so wide apart in price, but real rubies are steadily in the lead in all gem markets."—Chicago News.

Boiled to Death. Murder by poisoning in England was at one time punishable by boiling to death.

THE INSPIRATION OF LIBERTY. OUR example has aroused the world spirit of independence. The experiment of liberty if it had failed with us most surely would not have been attempted by others. Our counsels and acts operate as powerful precedents in the great family of republics. And so a wise and harmonious administration of the public affairs—a faithful, liberal and patriotic exercise of our private duties as citizens—while they secure our happiness at home will serve the cause of liberty beyond the equator and the Andes.—Edward Everett

WILSON OPPOSES CAMPAIGN TOURS

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE WILLING TO MAKE SPEECHES IF NECESSARY

DOCTOR TO MEET ADVISERS TODAY

Olive Branch Waved at Political Enemies in New Jersey—Candidate Has Not Read Platform

SEAGIRT, N. J., July 3.—Upon the visit here tomorrow of the National committee awaits the planning of the Democratic campaign. Until the committee's arrival, Governor Wilson will say no word of the form which he expects the line of battle to take. The committee which will visit the nominee in a body at his summer home is expected here at 2 P. M., and after luncheon under the trees of the Governor's lawn will meet with him in conference.

At this meeting the Governor expects to discuss with the committee three things, namely, the platform, the chairmanship of the committee and the campaign trip or trips. At 9 o'clock tonight the Governor's callers had given him no opportunity to read the platform. He said he would read it closely in the course of the evening. Until he should have digested it, he said, he would not discuss it.

Governor Wilson made it clear tonight that his "mind was open" on the chairmanship. He had made no selection, he said nor would he choose the man until after the conference. Three names were often on his callers' lips today in this connection, but when each was suggested to the Governor tonight, he had only one reply: "I have made no choice."

The men suggested were William E. McCombs, who managed the Governor's primary campaign; Robert S. Hedges, of Jersey City, twice Eastern campaign manager of the Democratic party, and Senator O'Gorman, of New York, whom the Governor regards as an ardent and capable supporter.

As to the campaign trips, the Governor has strong personal leanings to remain at home. He said tonight that he wished he would not have to sit from Seagirt. He fears his counselors tomorrow will advise a long tour, but if they could show him how it would help, he said, he would go willingly.

The Governor waved the olive branch tonight in the direction of ex-United States Senator Smith, by expressing a wish that Mr. Smith visit him here next Monday with Wilson men of New Jersey's delegation at Baltimore.

Governor Wilson included James Nugent. When informed that Mr. Nugent was reported to have given out an interview declaring he would support the nominee, Governor Wilson expressed a keen desire to see it and "get acquainted with Mr. Nugent again."

Wearied, but happy and confident of victory in the coming campaign, the delegates to the Democratic national convention dispersed to their homes today. They had nominated a ticket which it was admitted, represented both wings of the party and the party declarations of principles, adopted unanimously, was one of the most advanced ever taken by a national party.

The scenes that accompanied the closing of the convention were in decided contrast to the tumultuous sessions of the week that had preceded them. The fight was taken out of both sides. The only dramatic incident was the great "valadictory" of William Jennings Bryan, delivered shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, which brought his devoted followers to their feet in what proved to be the final demonstration of the long drawn out convention.

With Woodrow Wilson, the head of the ticket, the party chieftain wanted a man in second place who would be a strong factor in the debatable middle west. Bryan disagreed with the first and second choice of the active party leaders—Speaker Clark and Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana.

The Nebraska favored Burke, of North Dakota, as his first choice. His second choice was Senator Chamberlain of Oregon. But the practical politicians—Tammart, Murphy, Sullivan and their lieutenants—who had gone down to defeat before Bryan in every issue raised during the progress of the convention, declared that neither Burke nor Chamberlain should be the Warnock, refreshments were served by the host and hostess, and a social time was enjoyed after all business had been transacted.

Famous Old Colonial Church, St. Michael's, in Charleston, S. C., at the time of its completion in 1761 was the finest church edifice in the United States and one of the very few entirely of masonry construction, including the tower as far as the belfry. It now stands apparently as firm as the day it was dedicated. Work on it was begun in 1752. Like almost all the colonial churches, this one suffered vicissitudes during the Revolutionary war. Its rector was a Tory and was compelled to resign, leaving the church affairs in a somewhat chaotic condition. Materially it suffered through the loss of its leaden roof, which was removed to furnish bullets for the colonial rifles.—Argosy.
