HORSEBACK LASS PUTS RIVET IN SKYSCRAPER

News was received in this city Tuesday concerning Miss Alberta Claire, who rode horseback over the continent and made many friends in Oregon City while sojourning here. Miss Claire was accompanied by her large dog on the trip she made crossing the continent.

The following is taken from a New York exchange:

"Alberta Claire is the girl, who put the last rivet in the Woolworth building. She is a mile of a girl, five feet nothing and weighs 90 pounds, and she skipped airily up the ladders, 750 feet above Broadway, with nothing between her and the earth, with a laugh, paint and pitch. She said: 'I saw and a chuckle, hands covered with red. It takes much more nerve to go through Death Valley in Mojave desert or join a rustler's camp where they're running off horses. There you don't know when a bullet will strike you.'

During the rainy season the owners partake of their meals inside of the house. They expect to reach their home in November. PARKPLACE HOME IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

The home of Mrs. Cornelia Lillie, at Parkplace, was destroyed by fire Thursday night about 11:30 o'clock. The origin of the fire is unknown, and started in a clothes closet beneath a stairway it is thought. The Parkplace hose company turned out in full force, and tried to save the household effects, and several of the fireman received severe burns on the face and arms. Only two chairs and a stove were saved. The house was located near the Southern Pacific bridge, and had eight rooms.

"AUK" SMITH BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Oscar Smith, known as "Auk" Smith, was held to answer to the Grand Jury by Justice of the Peace Samson Saturday on a charge preferred by Dora Barnholtzer, fifteen years of age. The girl testified that the defendant virtually forced her to go with him to a hotel. She declared that she fought with him in a room and finally the proprietor came to the door and told the girl that a friend had called for her. She said that Smith then let her leave the room.

The defendant said that the girl had willingly accompanied her to the room. He testified that he had told her if she would accompany him he would provide beer, and that she went to the room with the sole intention of obtaining a drink. He denied attacking the girl. When asked how old he was Smith replied that he was nineteen.

"Didn't you recently make application to become a member of a lodge, and gave your age as twenty-one?" asked Assistant District Attorney Slipp.

The defendant answered the question in the affirmative, but said he was telling the truth at this time. After George C. Brownell, of counsel for the defendant had finished questioning the girl and Smith, he announced that the defense waived further examination. Justice of the Peace Samson in holding the man to the grand jury declared that such practices in hotels must be stopped, and also declared that mothers should be more careful with whom they allow their daughters to associate.

"We must protect our girls," said Mr. Samson. "The law must do its part and the parents must do theirs. It is a matter that cannot be given too much attention."

Gordon E. Hayes is assisting in the defense and B. N. Hicks is by courtesy of Mr. Slipp, assisting in the prosecution.

Smith is a prominent athlete and is one of the best known wrestlers in Oregon.

MAN COLLAPSES IN EFFORT TO SAVE HOME

During the absence Sunday of Frank Kellogg and family, who lived on Twelfth street near Taylor, their home was destroyed by fire, and only the clothing worn by them a piano and library stand were saved. Mrs. Kellogg and children were at church when Mr. Kellogg hearing something after his chickens in the rear yard started for them leaving an oil stove burning on a porch. He had been gone only a short time when he heard some of his neighbors call out, "Kellogg's house is on fire." Mr. Kellogg started for his home and in doing so fell over a log, being stunned for several minutes. Upon reaching his home he collapsed from exhaustion, and was unconscious for about four hours. An alarm was sounded and neighbors hurried to the scene, although the residence at that time was a mass of flames. The fire department arrived too late to save the building. As the streets leading to the house are steep and the firemen were obliged to pull the hose carts, they were nearly exhausted upon their arrival.

Mr. Kellogg and family are occupying a tent. There are six little children in the family. It is thought that the stove exploded and ignited a can of coal oil causing the fire.

THE GRAND PROMOTER

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.

Major Crofoot, grand promoter and general organizer and debt striker, was a little late in reaching his office. He had mounted the stairs in his usual cautious way and decided that the coast was clear, when he got a surprise. The cobbler to whom he had been owing $2 for two or three years was not only waiting at the door, but his state of mind was such that he saluted the major with:

"By golly, but I peef you vhas run away and don't neffer come back any more!"

"Can this be my dear old friend Wasserman?" exclaimed the major as he extended his hand. "Good lands, but there have you been for the last year?"

"I haf been hunting for you" was the blunt reply. "You owe me $2 and I haf run my legs off almost to git dot money. If you vhas in your office when I knocked on der door you don't open bin. If you see me on der street you run away. I wait for you here dis morning and we shall settle oop or haf some figs!"

"Fights, fights! My dear Mr. Wasserman, don't get excited. Come right into my office and we'll talk it over. I've had a check lying on my desk for you for the last six months."

"I don't want some talk mit you!" said the cobbler as he refused a chair. "I shall take my $2 and go right away."

"I hope and trust you won't," gently replied the promoter as he backed up to the rusty coal stove to get cold. "In the old days when I was hard up and had few friends you did some work for me, and you did not demand the ready cash. In fact, you trusted to my honor, reposed confidence in my financial integrity. It is one of the things I love to remember."

"You said you would pay me in two days," protested the cobbler as his bristles continued to stand up.

"If I did the fact has slipped my mind. It is only a trifling detail, however. Mr. Wasserman, I presume you have heard of the great change in my financial condition? You have not congratulated me, but you will as soon as your excitement is past."

"I told you I don't want some talk!" replied the cobbler as he began to doubt himself. "If you vhas a check man now you can pay your old debts."

"'Tis true, my dear friend. 'Tis true. I can pay $1,000 for every cent I owe, and the feeling is a placid one. You come up here this morning to collect an old account of $2," mused the major, "and you had no suspicion of the good luck awaiting you. My old friend, don't have a fit or faint away when I announce the fact that you have been appointed treasurer of the Universal Goat Raising company, which has just been incorporated with a capital of $5,000,000."

"Will you pay me dot $2?" interrupted the cobbler, as he reached for the major's coat collar.

"I will," stately replied the major. "There is $2 coming to you for repairing my shoes. As treasurer of the U. G. R. C. you should file a bond of at least $5,000. It might give you some trouble to do so, and as you are an old friend of mine I propose to extend the glad hand. In other words, I will reduce the bond to the trifling sum of $2, and that squares the debt. Do you think you'll have time to hunt up a suit of office rooms this afternoon?"

You had better come in and let me go over to the bank with you anyhow. Hereafter you will pay by check, you know. It will also be well for you to get some new clothes as soon as you can. I think this is about all, I think so."

"Had there vhas my $2?" demanded the cobbler as a lump gathered in his throat.

"About all, Mr. Wasserman, except that we shall deal in goats of both sexes and all colors."

"By golly, but what a manna—that a doogee! I don't peef he gife me my money. I peef he tries to be some deadbeats."

"And if you think of it," continued the major as he stepped on the cobbler's toes to crowd him toward the door, "you might inquire around and see if you can ascertain if there are any long tailed goats to be found in the country. If there are it would be well for us to mix the long tailed and the short tailed together for scenic effect. I am afraid 3,000,000 bottled goats pasturing in one great bunch would lack variety. Will you make inquiries at once and report?"

"What I make inquiries about vhas my $2?" was shouted.

"And I have been told, Mr. Wasserman, that violet colored goats were bad tempered and their milk had been known to give children fits. You needn't lose no time over them."

"By golly, by golly!" gasped the cobbler as he leaned against the door cash.

"You might see the janitor as you go down. I believe he was taken on here because he knew all about goats. He hasn't a grouch on he may give you a lot of pointers. Always inquire of the janitor, Mr. Wasserman. What- going?"

"Yes; I have to go. I may be robbed more."

"Well, goodby."

And as the other clattered down stairs the major closed the door and then whispered:

"Poor man! What could he have done with $2?"

CONFESSES TO THEFT OF $200 FISH NET

Archie L. Meyers, arrested in St. Johns several days ago, on a charge of stealing a fish net valued at $200 from Max Telford, Jr., of this city was held over to the Grand Jury by Justice of the Peace Samson Friday afternoon. His bond was fixed at $500. Meyers admitted his guilt, and declared that he had a confederate. The police have made a futile search for the other man. The net was stolen from a skiff in the rear of Busch's store. Meyers says he and his friend intended to fish with it.

MRS. SCHOENHEINZ TO BE BURIED TODAY

Mrs. Albertina Schoenheinz, wife of Charles Schoenheinz, Sr., died at the family residence on Center street, between Sixth and Seventh streets Sunday night at 11 o'clock of Bright's disease. The funeral services will be held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. William Kraxberger, pastor of the German Lutheran church officiating. The interment will be in Mountain View cemetery.

She was married in 1885 to Mr. Schoenheinz. They came to America in 1887, settling at Chicago, and in 1899 went to Washington state, first making their home at Tacoma, and afterward going to Centralia. In 1900 they came to Oregon, settling at Willamette, where they lived for ten years.

"DUMMY" GARDEN KILLED BY TRAIN

Leroy Garden, who lived several years in Oregon City, was killed near Gold Hill Saturday. Garden was familiarly known as "Dummy" when he lived here and worked as a bootblack for sometime. He had a penchant for "flashy" suits and was regarded as one of the most up to date "dressers" in the city. Garden was killed by a train while returning home from fishing. According to the engineer he was too late to stop. Garden apparently made no effort to get off the track.

L. P. WILLIAMS BURIED IN MOUNTAIN VIEW

The funeral of L. P. Williams was conducted at the Mountain View cemetery Thursday at 9 o'clock. Rev. C. W. Robinson, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, officiating. Mr. Williams was drowned in Washington, near South Bend.

He disappeared from his home in Oregon City several weeks ago, and a few days after his wife received a note saying that when that was received he would be dead. Mr. Williams had been in poor health for the last two years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eva Williams, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, well known Oregon pioneer. Mr. Williams was a railroad engineer before coming to Oregon City.

MAKES GOOD AT LAST.

Mattick Was Tried Out by Chicago For Several Years.

Looks as if Mattick, the western league outfielder, had at last gained a big league berth—the Chicago Americans are going to try him thoroughly. How many years has Mattick been on the White Sox list and how many spring training trips has he taken with the team? Coniskey surely keeps some of them on the card a long, long time. Some of them come in each spring for the training trip, fall out again and reappear next spring, perhaps never to make the team. Others are farmed out each season, come back again and again and finally get their chance to stay. How many years did Louis Fiene and Frank Lange do the bobbing up and down act, anyhow?

Perhaps the cruelest joke in this connection was on the Old Woman when he carried Hub Hart so many years. Hub was a fine young catcher when he first joined the team. He was kept on the bench for years, waiting for the time when he should replace Billy Sullivan, and Billy stuck in the barnyard so steadily that when he was finally displaced and the time of need had come to both the club and Hart, poor Hart had grown so rusty he could hardly catch at all.

INVENTS A "CURVER."

Contrivance to Curve a Baseball Made by a Westerner.

Inventive genius was contributed a great many things to baseball, but the latest and most interesting if not vastly important is a device for automatically curving a ball. The success of the invention is yet to be proved as far as practical use is concerned, but if it does all that is claimed for it the small boy will no longer have to spend tedious hours learning to grip the ball for the various shoots and benders.

This device is a small suction cup that is strapped into the fingers by means of a rubber band and is the invention of R. W. Jones of Lincoln, Neb. The suction cup holds the ball and may be shifted to any position with respect to the fingers, thus regulating the size and kind of curves. The cup performs the office of the fingers in ordinary curve throwing, the manner in which the ball is released. The inventor claims this contrivance completely solves the mastery of curves and that any one with a good throwing arm can with it slant them over like a Mathewson or an Ames.

THRILLING AUTO RIDE HAS LUCKY ENDING

Otto Moehnk, who lives near Beaver Creek, had a narrow escape from death while coming down the steep grade between Tenth and Twelfth streets in his automobile Sunday morning, the brake of the machine refusing to work. One of the wheels of the machine had become loosened and Mr. Moehnk, who was accompanied by his brother, also of Beaver Creek, realizing the predicament he was in, sounded his whistle. Mr. Palmer, who was driving a team across Washington street, seeing the car speeding down the steep grade, escaped injury by giving his horses a lash. At the intersection of Twelfth and Washington streets the wheel came off the machine, and although the men were given a severe jolting the one was injured. The wheel of the machine had become loosened about a mile from this city while on the way to Oregon City, and the owner had it repaired.

COUNCIL PUTS BAN ON AUTO SPEEDING

ORDINANCE MAKING MAXIMUM RATE TO MILES HOUR IS PASSED

HARD SURFACING BIDS ARE ASKED

Oregon Engineering and Construction Company Called Upon To Finish Work on Twelfth Street

The city council, at a meeting Monday evening, passed an ordinance regulating the speed of automobiles in the city, maximum rate being ten miles an hour. A motion that an amendment be made to the ordinance providing that the speed might be increased to fifteen miles an hour going up hills was not acted upon.

Councilman Meyer, President of the board, occupied the chair until the arrival of Mayor Dimick. The councilmen present were Toose, Horton, Albright, Meyer, Roake and Pope.

Toose announced that the improvement of Twelfth street by the Oregon Engineering & Construction Company had not been completed. He said the unfinished portion was between Main and Water streets, and that it should have been completed before July 31, 1911. J. W. Moffatt, of the Oregon Engineering & Construction Company said the work would be finished at once. However, the council will consider it at the next meeting.

At the request of the mayor a motion in Oregon City, that a special officer be named to enforce the automobile ordinance will be acted upon at a later meeting. City Engineer Montgomery was instructed to prepare plans and specifications for the improvement of Seventh Street from Singer Hill to Jackson street for both hard surface and macadam pavement. The committee was instructed to investigate the cost of reels and hose for two or three other places now difficult to reach by the fire companies. THRILLING AUTO RIDE HAS LUCKY ENDING

Otto Moehnk, who lives near Beaver Creek, had a narrow escape from death while coming down the steep grade between Tenth and Twelfth streets in his automobile Sunday morning, the brake of the machine refusing to work. One of the wheels of the machine had become loosened and Mr. Moehnk, who was accompanied by his brother, also of Beaver Creek, realizing the predicament he was in, sounded his whistle. Mr. Palmer, who was driving a team across Washington street, seeing the car speeding down the steep grade, escaped injury by giving his horses a lash. At the intersection of Twelfth and Washington streets the wheel came off the machine, and although the men were given a severe jolting the one was injured. The wheel of the machine had become loosened about a mile from this city while on the way to Oregon City, and the owner had it repaired.
