TEXAS CATTLE IS SHIPPED TO PORTLAND. PORTLAND, July 13.—Two cars of cattle arrived in the yards in North Portland this morning from Sweetwater, Texas, shipped by A. B. Vreenmaier. They are feeders. The run was light, however, the other shippers for the day being C. E. Luckey, Condon, one car hogs and sheep, and W. E. Edron, Carabana, Or., two cars cattle. The markets were reported steady but sales was confined to a few bunches of cows. Some weakness has been shown in the lamb and sheep markets during the week and some predict a slump in the near future, but there is nothing to indicate this with much of a certainty. The demand for feeder steers is good. South Omaha reported hogs lower this morning.

The guest looked surprised. "American," he said emphatically. "Born and raised up here in Platte county. I don't look like no foreigner, do I?"

Josh and Samantha See the Elk Parade

Well, Josh an I got home all right, Tho' the trip seemed rather long; I 'spose some couldn't stand it, But we're both pretty strong, We drove to Oregon City From our farm out Beaver Creek way, Took the covered cars to Portland, An got back home in a day! But law! it was worth the trouble To see that big parade— The floats, an the thousands marchin' A fine appearance they made! Josh clean forgot he had growned up, An 'tho' that he was a boy A sittin' out on the gate post, An hollerin' for pure joy. When marchin' Elks grew thirsty Some folks passed bottles of beer Wuz water, so scare in Portland— Good water, cold and clear? But Josh an I had cause to be proud Of our Oregon City boys; They marched right along like soldiers— No breaking ranks, no noise! They must have been tired an thirsty On their five mile march that day, But not one 'em drank a glass of beer Or smoked anything on the way! An' in their nice new uniforms You're right they all looked fine!— But here comes Josh with the milk to strain! I'll tell you more next time.
