MRS. C. W. EVANS DIES SUDDENLY

PROMINENT OREGON CITY WOMAN VICTIM OF HEART DISEASE

END COMES AT SISTER'S HOME

Husband And Children Are Summoned—Deceased Member Of Leading Organizations

Mrs. Charles W. Evans, one of the most prominent women of Oregon City, died suddenly of heart disease at the home of her sister, Mrs. E. J. Hall Portland, Monday afternoon. Her daughter Lucille was with her when she was stricken. A physician was summoned, but Mrs. Evans was dead before he arrived. Her husband is chief engineer of the Steamer N. R. Lang, and her son, LeClair, is employed on another steamer operating between Portland and Oregon City.

Mrs. Evans and her daughter went to Portland Sunday morning to take care of the home of Mrs. Hall, 835 Hancock Street, Mrs. Hall and a party going on a vacation trip that day. Although she had suffered from heart trouble she was apparently as well as usual when she left her home, and did not complain until Monday. She was stricken at 5:30 o'clock and did not regain consciousness.

Fast Worthy Matron of the Order of Eastern Star, a member of St. Paul's Guild, and a member of several social organizations no woman in Oregon City had a wider circle of friends than Mrs. Evans. She was a favorite of all her friends and acquaintances, and had been foremost in charitable and other work since coming here eleven years ago with her family. Besides her husband and children, LeClair, twenty-four years of age; Lucille, eleven years of age; Mrs. Evans is survived by a son, Irwin, fifteen years of age, her sister Mrs. Hall, and a brother, Arthur B. Huston, of Wichita, Kan. Mrs. Evans before her marriage was Miss Clara D. Huston.

Mrs. Hall notified her sister the latter part of last week that she intended taking a trip with a party to Crystal Lake and asked her to take care of her home while she was away. Mrs. Evans consented and had looked forward to a fine visit among her friends in Portland.

Immediately after his wife's death Mr. Evans was notified and he and the other members of the family here hurried to Portland. A message also was sent to Mrs. Hall and her husband and they will return to Portland at once.

The funeral arrangements will be made today, and it is probable that the services and interment will be in this city.

AUTOISTS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE IN COLLISION

A collision of two automobiles, one of which was driven by Dr. C. H. Melander and the other by a Mr. Stanger of Molalla, occurred on Main street near the court house Monday about 11 o'clock. The machine owned by Stanger ran into a telephone pole, the front and other parts of the car being badly damaged. Dr. Melander's machine was slightly damaged. No one was hurt. There were three young men in the car with Mr. Stanger. The accident was witnessed by a large crowd.

MRS. SCHNEIDER MAY REGAIN SIGHT

Mrs. Anna Schneider, who was stricken with blindness about fifteen months ago, is in Portland having her eyes operated upon by Dr. Gustave E. Bruere. The specialist says that there is a chance sight will be restored in one of the eyes. Mrs. Schneider was induced to have the operation performed by several friends, who insisted upon paying all the expenses. For this she is grateful, and is confident that the operation will be a success.

WOMAN ASKS DEPUTY CLERK FOR DIVORCE

"I want a divorce and I want it at once," said a well-dressed woman, who called at the County Clerk's office Saturday afternoon to Miss Iva Harrington, Deputy Clerk.

"I want to be freed of my marital bonds, I am tired of married life, and I understand this is the place to get a divorce," continued the visitor.

Miss Harrington, upon recovering her composure, explained that suits for divorce were filed in the office, but that applicants must be represented by attorneys. The woman said she had been informed that all she had to do was to call at the county clerk's office, and a divorce would be handed to her.

Miss Harrington was asked to recommend a lawyer that could get the applicant a decree as "soon as possible," but declined on the ground that she was a public official, and could not favor any particular lawyer.

"Well, I'll go out and get one," declared the woman, "and I want the divorce granted at once."

NOTED TEACHER IS NAMED SUPERVISOR

The Clackamas County Education Board has selected Miss Vinetta Hewitt a school supervisor, to succeed Mrs. Emily Shaw, who resigned to become principal of the Wichita school. She will be assigned the territory, which Mrs. Shaw had. With the appointment of Miss Hewitt the list of supervisors is complete. Her term will expire January 1, when Mrs. Elizabeth Curren will be named. Miss Hewitt was county superintendent of Lincoln county four years, going from there to Cheney where she had charge of the rural work. Later she became deputy state superintendent in Washington, having charge of rural work, with headquarters in Olympia.

Miss Hewitt is a specialist in primary work having many methods which primary teachers need use to Portland Sunday morning to take care of the home of Mrs. Hall, 835 Hancock Street, Mrs. Hall and a party going on a vacation trip that day. Although she had suffered from heart trouble she was apparently as well as usual when she left her home, and did not complain until Monday. She was stricken at 5:30 o'clock and did not regain consciousness.

MAN FINED $10 FOR ATTACKING CONDUCTOR

L. Glass, of Portland, was fined $10 by Recorder Stipp Monday for attacking J. C. Lewis, a conductor employed by the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. Glass boarded a car in Portland Saturday night and paid ten cents to ride to Lakewood. He refused to get off there, or pay additional fare, and was ejected. He, however, got back on the car paying ten cents. Before the train reached this city the passenger, according to witnesses, declared that he would give Lewis a beating. When he got off the car at Sixth and Main streets in this city he invited the conductor to fight him. Lewis jumped from the car and knocked Glass down. Glass testified that the conductor struck him with an iron rod. Policemen Green and Frost separated the men, and placed them under arrest. Recorder Stipp dismissed the charge against Lewis.

CHICKEN THIEVES LIKE BAKER FOWLS

Chicken thieves have again made their appearance at Gladstone. Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Baker were the victims. About two months ago chickens were stolen from the same coop. Mrs. Baker heard a disturbance among the chickens Thursday morning but paid no attention to it. She found, however, upon arising that fifteen Rhode Island Reds and one game rooster, which she raised $5 for a few days ago had been stolen. Mrs. Baker feels her loss keenly, as she had gone to much expense in raising the fowls, which she prized very highly. A padlock was broken from the door by the thieves. It is the intention of the Baker family to set a trap for the thieves.

Inquiry was made at one of the meat markets, and the proprietor informed Mrs. Baker that this was the fifth complaint that had come to him Thursday from persons robbed of chickens during the previous night.

CAPTAIN ARRESTED WELL KNOWN HERE

Captain Harry T. Williams, of one of the companies of the Third Oregon Regiment in the Second Battalion, who refused to march back five miles after "war" was declared over Sunday, and as a result may be court-martialed, is manager of the Gladstone Lumber Company and well-known in Oregon City. He was one of the division commanders in the recent parade of the Elks in Portland, and has been regarded as one of the most capable men in the national guard in this state.

All during the military movements the Oregon troops had worked hard, and it was not until the "war" was over that the disagreement arose. The Oregonians were attached to the victorious Red Army, and they claim that during the maneuvers, they covered approximately 60 miles, while another report says it is only 30 miles, whereas the Blue Army moved about 20 miles. Saturday morning the Oregonians were up at 3:30 leaving Oakville to march to Gate. The battalion now in trouble had to ford Black river three times in water up to the waist, carrying equipment. They had to climb mountains and go through heavy timber and thick underbrush. Before the troops reached Gate the movement ceased, and the Oregonians were ordered to retreat to Oakville. Sunday morning another early start was made the battalion again being headed for Gate, and they went beyond the place, driving the Blue Army before them. Then the Summer tactics closed.

EDMONDS MAKES NEW BERRY RECORD

J. C. Edmonds, of Willamette, who is making a specialty of growing berries brought to market Thursday berries of the mammoth variety which measured from one to two and one-half inches in length. Mr. Edmonds said that he had about twenty-five crates. The crop would have been much larger had it not been for the rain, which spoiled many of the berries that were commencing to ripen. Many of the bushes are still in bloom, so the crop will be on for several weeks. The berries are bringing $1.50 crate.

Although Mr. Edmonds has only one and one-eighth acres he has fourteen varieties. The Logan berries are now ripe, besides the big phenomenal berries. There will be more than 50 crates of these. Mr. Edmonds has also the Logan-raspberry, which is a cross between the Logan and black-camp-berry, and is delicious of flavor. The berry is one of Burbank's productions, and the bushes although young and only nine in number have produced already 20 gallons of delicious fruit.

The cases of these bushes are much larger than those of either the Logan or of the blackberry. Mr. Edmonds was an employee of the paper mills of the West Side until he purchased his place at Willamette, and has for several years devoted most of his time to berry culture, which has proved profitable.

BROTHER COMES LONG WAY TO SEE SISTER

Mrs. Fred Rakel, one of the well known residents of Canemah, was taken by surprise at her home Wednesday evening, when her youngest brother, William Miller, who lives near Hanover, Germany, called. This is the first time Mrs. Rakel has seen her brother since she left her home in Germany, forty years ago, and the meeting was a most enjoyable one. Mr. Miller, so far is much impressed with America, and may locate in Clackamas county.

COMPANY L BACK; MEN ARE ELATED

Oregon City Boys Aid in Saving Red Army By Arriving With Plenty Ammunition

Company L Oregon National Guard, after having done valiant work as a part of the victorious invading army in the maneuvers in Washington, returned to Oregon City Monday afternoon. The men were sunburned and somewhat footsore, but every man declared that he could immediately participate in another campaign, and would be glad of an opportunity to do so. The Oregon City boys distinguished themselves throughout the maneuvers. Captain E. L. Blanchard and W. R. Logus complimented the members of the company highly, and declared it was remarkable that men who had been used to so little outdoor life, could stand the hardships of the campaign.

The company, composed of forty-two officers and men left this city July 29, arriving at Montezano, Wash., where it camped that night. The next day the company marched to Elma, a distance of eleven miles, and on the third day reached Oakville. The Oregon City men had previously become a part of the Red Army, which was to try to take possession of Gray's Harbor, which is not fortified, the object being to show that an enemy could land troops and by clever maneuvering probably capture Seattle and Tacoma. The enemy was located between Oakville and Gates, and troops were sent to intercept it. Colonel Kenyon was in command of the invading army which was composed of the Oregon National Guard, the Twenty-Fifth United States Infantry, two troops of cavalry and two batteries of artillery. Company L was in the detachment the first day of the battle that won a signal victory. Bridges having been blown up by the enemy, it was decided the best way to strike a telling blow would be to surprise the enemy in the rear. Natives said it would be impossible for the men to cross a high range of hills thickly wooded, but the battalion made the trip in one hour and ten minutes and surprised the Blue Army while it was at breakfast. The rout was complete. In order to make the hazardous trip the men started at 3 o'clock in the morning and fell upon the foe just at daybreak.

The second day of fighting the Oregon City men crossed Black river three times, transporting their ammunition across. In each case they reached a detachment that had gone ahead just in time to furnish ammunition.

The first year of this experiment has now passed, and Mr. Hudson is very much encouraged. In a letter just received by D. O. Lively, vice-president of the Portland Union Stock Yards Company, Mr. Hudson says:

"I am glad to advise you that the hogs will prove to be a very profitable investment for the people who purchase them. I have had a report from each man, and taking the two litters of pigs from each sow I believe they will average a profit of 100 per cent a piece or more. In two or three cases I know they made as much as 200 per cent."

DRY WEATHER HURTS POTATOES IN SOUTH

Potato crop conditions in some parts of Southern California, according to reports that have come in within the past few days, are rather unsatisfactory. In the Lompoc district, and in the Salinas section as well, it is said, that unusually dry and hot weather for some weeks past has brought about a condition that promises to result in a serious curtailment of the late crop. Vine growth in many of the fields is reported to have practically come to a standstill, and in some cases the vines are said to be drying up.

It is of course possible that the conditions as reported there have been overdrawn, but in the past there have been seasons of partial crop failure in Southern California, and there should be nothing surprising in a recurrence of that situation once in a while. In the event of a seriously short yield in the southern part of that state the market for 1912 Oregon would of course be improved to that extent, and the potato market outlook just now is one of decided interest to the growers of this state.

On the whole the prospect now is for a comparatively easy market, at least at the opening of the crop-moving season. In the Stockton and other California potato-growing districts where immense crops are harvested every year and where the acreage in potatoes has been steadily increasing in recent years, conditions are understood to be generally favorable. For the State of Oregon as a whole the situation is the same, everything now indicating one of the highest potato crops ever harvested in this state.

From a number of other states come similarly favorable reports, so that the outlook in the Western States is at least for a potato output materially greater than that of 1911.

In this state there is yet time for adverse developments, for the late plantings are not yet far enough along to make a full yield a certainty, but the rains that have fallen this month have given the vines in fields west of the Cascades the best kind of a start and east of the mountains also weather conditions to date have on the whole been favorable. The early crop in this state which is now being gathered, is a large one and generally shows excellent quality. To the trade new potatoes now are selling at prices around $1 a hundred.

HOP PRODUCTION TO BE AHEAD OF 1911

The most liberal estimates that unprejudiced hop crop estimators fall to give the American crop for 1912 at more than 235,000 bales, compared with 211,000 bales in 1911. The increase will be practically confined to Oregon and Washington, while the crops in New York and California are estimated at about the same as a year ago.

There has been considerable activity in hop contracts during the past few days, and some business has passed in Washington and California. In the latter section, Wolf & Netter have purchased a big bunch of Sonomas at 22c and that price is said to be the best offered in the same district. A lot of about 100 bales of 1911 is reported sold to Dunivan by Cunningham at 22c. The quality is said to be very poor.

In Portland fully 2000 bales have been contracted for at 20c to 21c a pound since Monday. Within 48 hours 500 bales were taken around 20 1/2 @ 21c a pound.

In Washington a small amount of business has passed during the past 48 hours at 21c for contracts.

While lice are still bothering growers in England, continental crop advice is generally favorable.

It is noted that the principal activity in the trade along the coast recently has been for the account of short sellers, who are seemingly afraid of their own shadow.

SPUDS ARE LOWEST FOR MANY YEARS

The potato market is the lowest for many years at this period. With a record breaking crop in sight and with initial offerings unusually heavy, receivers are finding much difficulty in getting from under the avalanche of offerings that are at present available.

With nearby producers peddling their offerings direct to the retail trade, there is not much left for the commission men. On top of this there is an inclination on every side for farmers to let go of their supplies at whatever price is available. There is no holding tendency at all.

Sales of new potatoes were reported in a very limited way along Front street in Portland Saturday at 56c to 75c per hundred pounds. The latter price is asked for extra good quality and sorting and still there is only a very small demand.

Some extra good quality old potatoes are still offering in the front street trade, but demand for these seems to have died out altogether. Holders are asking as high as $1 per sack, but are unable to effect a movement.

FAIR CROP YIELD IS EXPECTED HERE

The crop conditions in Clackamas County this year are more encouraging than for several years, and the yield will be above the average. The potato crop is the largest for years, and the growers are anticipating an average price. They say the hot weather will cause a short crop in California, and that the general supply will not be larger than usual. There is only a fair wheat yield the spuds having done a great deal of damage.

The hay crop will be large although rain did considerable damage. The oat prospect is fine. The fruit crop in general is fair, although there will be a small prune yield. However, growers of prunes are now much more encouraged than they were two weeks ago, and many of the orchards are expected to produce almost as much fruit as last year. Plums and peaches will be short, due to damage done by a late frost.

While the apple crop is fair, there is great disappointment over the prospect. It was thought early that there would be an unusually large yield.

This was the first time the young man had enjoyed clam digging, and he set to work with the rest of the party digging until he came across a clam which opened the shell, and the young man "beat it" to some where else where clams were scarce. He did not like the looks of the clam and could not be persuaded to return. The others continued with their task of gathering clams for the evening meal, and when they were set before Robert he decided they looked better to him dead than alive, and decided they are not so bad after all.

For several hours Mr. Samson was unable to move or speak, and his recovery is regarded as remarkable. He walks almost as well as ever, with the exception of a slight impediment his voice is the same. His complete recovery is assured. Mr. Samson was leaving his office when stricken and for a time did not know what was the matter with him. He was compelled to crawl down the stairway on his hands and knees and had to be assisted to his home.
