BULL MOOSE HORNS AND HOOPS

The name of the late Cornelius N. Bliss is, it appears, as serviceable to one side of the Penrose-Archbold-Roosevelt imbroglio as to the other. A few days ago it seemed that the onus of relying upon a dead man for corroboration was falling a little too much on the side of the colonel's opponents.

It is this sin, then its mark is also upon the colonel's door. William Loeb whom the colonel appointed as his private secretary after he had put George B. Cortelyou out of that office into the chair of the National Committee, was at Sagamore Hill, conferring with Cortelyou and the colonel.

JUSTICE NOT FOR SALE

(Portland Oregonian)
It probably did not occur to the authors of the 160-page spasm of Clackamas County tax figures that any man could exist, who, able to pay his just proportion of county revenues would prefer to pay it rather than shift the burden on those less able to pay.

This citation of the dead is no worse and no better than that made by Penrose and Archbold. But Mr. Loeb goes distinctly farther than either Archbold or Penrose in the advantage he takes of dead men. Speaking of the Harriman contribution of that same year, and justifying the colonel's position at every point, Loeb, who continually insists that he has a most distinct recollection of all of the events in dispute, says: "I was present at the time Harriman made his visit to the White House. I made it a point always to be present when Mr. Harriman was received by the president."

PULLING THE RECORD ON WILSON

Senator Williams of Mississippi says that the Republican National Committee have collated many of Prof. Wilson's talks against immigrants and against workers, and that these are to be printed in the Republican Campaign Textbook and spread among the voters of the country. Probably he is correct in this statement. In the days before anybody ever thought of him as a possible presidential candidate, and, therefore, making application for a position was asked for his references. He produced his Savings Pass Book, which proved him to be a systematic money saver.

A Young Man

He got the position.
The best prizes in the business world are for those with stability of character. The self restraint practiced in money saving is a strong factor in character building.

when he felt free to talk as he thought Prof. Wilson said many things which are now giving trouble to him and his campaign managers. They will keep him explaining and amending through a large part of the canvass.
But how is the Mississippi senator going to make things any easier for Prof. Wilson by quoting some of the strange expressions of Col. Roosevelt? The colonel is not a member of the Republican party. He has formally withdrawn from the party and has formed a sect of his own. Nothing which he says or does hereafter can injure the Republicans. As he is no longer in the party nothing that he ever said or did can harm it now. By attacking the colonel the Mississippi man may imagine that he is retaliating on the Republicans for calling attention to some of Prof. Wilson's reactionary talk in the past, but this is merely one of the Mississippian's many and variegated aberrations. The Republicans are no longer accountable for him, and they can not be harmed by any attacks which are made upon him.

Prof. Wilson will have some difficulty in defending himself from the assaults which some of the naturalized Americans are preparing to make upon him, and he will not be able to quote Col. Roosevelt in extenuation of what he said. Wilson will be a weaker candidate in October and November than in September. When the forces of the opposition begin to assail him he will find that politics has a long memory. Williams defends the professor by calling his accusations "early and immature expressions of opinion." When he wrote history of the American people in 1902 he was 46 years of age and could hardly be called immature. He had been writing for over a decade and a half at that time. When he intimated in that history that the Italians, Hungarians and Poles were more undesirable than the Chinese as residents of the United States, he was old enough to know what his words meant, and presumably he was aware that the strictures would be displeasing to the persons whom he assailed.

STATE ELECTION RESULTS

Republicans who are faint-hearted and who have been scared into fits by the big noise of the Roosevelt-Perkins-Harvester Trust Party may take courage over the showing manifested by the returns from Vermont, where a state election was held Tuesday. While the Republican vote was cut down, this was to have been expected with a third party in the field, and the wild claims of the Bull Moose organization that Republicans would be third in the race have been proven unfounded.

CLACKAMAS LOST THE FIRST PRIZE

Clackamas lost the first prize for the best county exhibit at the Oregon State Fair by the very narrow margin of three points, scoring 94 to 97 points for Denton county. Lack of space is said to be the sole reason for Clackamas being unable to make a showing sufficient to win first honors. However, second prize is good, and we gave Denton a good run for her money. Residents of this county who worked so earnestly and faithfully to arrange our exhibit are certainly deserving of no little credit and should be so encouraged by their showing to try a little harder for the first prize next year.

WEST LOSES FIGHT TO OUST CAMERON

PORTLAND, Aug. 31.—With District Attorney Cameron sustained in his office by the rulings of Judge McGinn, and H. M. Esterly, appointed by the Governor to supplant Cameron, recognized as a special prosecutor to handle the vice cases exclusively and independent of the District Attorney's office, Governor West started a movement against the common carriers and the liquor dealers declared that investigation had convinced him that liquor was being sold and shipped into "dry" territory, and notified them of his intention to take drastic steps against such procedure.

REFORM SCHOOL TEACHER RESIGNS

SALEM, Or., Aug. 31.—Unable to agree with new rules and regulations inaugurated by W. S. Hale, the newly elected Superintendent of the Oregon Industrial School, Roscoe Shelton, for the past three and one-half years disciplinarian at the institution, has resigned and it is declared other employees of the institution are considering taking similar steps for the same reasons. In addition to the resignation of Shelton, one other resignation has been made, that of Chester Cannon, farmer, though Superintendent Hale says Cannon had tendered his resignation before Mr. Hale assumed charge of the institution.
