Bonded Indebtedness of Oregon City Reaches Limit-Council to be Urged to Have Vote on Question

That Clackamas County is destined to be one of the best fruit growing counties in the state was the consensus of opinion at a luncheon of the Live Wires Tuesday, J. E. Hedges, who introduced the subject, exhibited two specimens of Wolf River apples grown in the Garfield section. The apples were of good color and firm and were nearly perfect. Mr. Hedges said that the best price the growers of the apples could get was forty-ave or fifty cents a box, while Hood River apples sold for $2.50 a box. He declared that the difference in price was largely due to the better packing of the Hood River apples, and that
