Dealers reported a strong general interest in the hop market at the op- of a break is the belief of some memening Monday, buyers and sellers bers of the trade, and this, they say, is liable to come within the next week alike being disposed to do business, or two. For some time no changes it and as a consequence it is believed quotations were announced, but deal-that the trade this week will fully ers say that the prices being paid now are actually above the basis of equal that of last week, and possibly exceed it in volume.

The interesting feature of the mar- as a consequence is far from satisfact ket at this time is the demand for the ory. The leather manufacturers have medium and lower grades. Up to of course advanced quotations on their hardly be induced to consider the inferior offerings at any price but since then, with holdings of the best in the state reduced to very small propor tions, their attitude has thanged, No they are taking hops of all sorts, at prices of course in line with the quality of the product.

For the best hops available in the Valley buyers generally are paying 217 to 19 cents, and quality stock as usual is the most rapidly sold. The next best grades are said to be going at 12 to 16 cents, and for poor stock dealers are reported to be paying around 10 cents. The holders of the cheap stuff are said to be letting go in a fairly free way at the prices (fored, while growers who have quality stock still unsold are holding more firmly and as a rule getting full prices for their

The chances are that a large portlo of the Valley crop will be disposed of before the end of the month. Orders from the East are now coming much more freely than was the case earlier in the season, indicating a general de-sire on the part of the brewery trade to cover wants for the remainder of the season as soon as possible because of the growing scarcity of the good grade stock.

Shipments for the Eastern markets are being made up and dispatched as rapidly as conditions will permit in order to affect a saving in transportation charges, which are going to be advanced November 20. In many cases It is said, consignments, yet unsold, are being forwarded to save the increase in freight charges, the shippers planning to sell the goods while they are on their way East.

APPLEMARKET SHOWS BETTER QUALITY

In the apple market there is a troublesome, slightly better feeling than has pre- at $11 to $11.50. valled for some weeks past, due mainportion of the inferior stock which always figures in a large way in the offorings early in the season has been disposed of. With the rough stuff to a great extent out of the way, there is a better average in quality for the consideration of buyers, and this natusally works to the benefit of the mar-

Prices, however, as yet show little change, and the dealers say that in all probability values will hold at a relatively low level throughout the season. On fair to good grade apples the prices now quoted run from 75 cents to $1.50 a box, only exceptional offerings such as fancy Winter Bananas or other varieties of unusual quality going at better prices. The trade is still mainly in the grades that sell and for that reason the market on the at 75 cents to $1.

While the prices now obtainable for apples are materially under the average of recent years, the result of the ing in a rather free way, taking qual unusually heavy yield in nearly all ity stock wherever it is obtainable and parts of the country this year, the where it is not taking the less desiracrop nevertheless is said to be re-turning a fair measure of profit to the tive trade now under way in the coast growers, especially those operating on markets it is believed that holdings a commercial scale and putting out a in first hands will be reduced to rathgood grade product. The owners of ne- er small proportions by the end of the glected orchards in the Northwest this | year, money out of their apples.

POTATOE MARKET QUIET: PRICES REMAIN LOW

The week closes with no improvement in the potate market, and with the outlook for the future not very encouraging. Dealers say there will in all probability be some demand for American Wonders, Garnets Early Rose for shipment south and for purposes between now and the end of the year and as a matter of fact a few cars have already been dis-patched, but to date the Southern buyers have shown no disposition to take stock in more than a very modthey continue bearish in the extreme As for Hurbanks, no movement in consequence is expected until after the turn of the year, and even then, view of the abundance of river stock in the California markets, the outlook is for rather restricted trade

In the jobbing trade Burbanks are going in a small way at 55 to 65 cents hundred, and with supplies easily obtainable dealers say there is small prospect for any material improve ent in prices in the near future Buyers for shipments in the distant markets say that at this time it is impossible to pay better than 50 to 60 cents at shipping points, and even at those figures they are not in a position to buy in anything like a free way, on account of the slack demand south.

Some of the dealers incline to the belief that if the growers who have stock, not damaged by blight, will dig their potatoes as soon weather conditions permit and hold them until toward the end of the win ter season they will do better than by attempting to unload them now on market that is little better than n market at all. in his connection the dealers so ad vising the farmers to take into con sideration the fact that a considerable portion of the Oregon crop this year was destroyed by blight and the fact also that cars now, even for the limited movement under way, are hard

At the low prices quoted the last two weeks apples are still going in a steady way, the movement of course being heavier than usual at this time of the year on account of the low cost of the fruit, and dealers report little er no change in general market conditions from day to day. The demand is mainly for the medium to good grades which sell at 75 cents to $1, the distinctly inferior and fancy grades are more or less neglected. With the poor stock, which has been more or less a burden for two months largely out of the way, na it will be not far hence, there will be some improvement in the market but the outlook nevertheless is for relatively low pric ed apples throughout the winter

In other fruit lines there were no developments of interest today. Tokay grapes of good quality were firmly held at $1 to $1.10, but the dealers reported off-grade stock more or les Cranberries were firm

The best of the crop in all quarters has in a large measure passed out of the hands o fthe growers, and the products are showing me anxiety regarding the sale of the less desirable offerings and the pressing that sort of stock on the n ket at a rate that naurally gives the
