TRACK AND FIELD DAY PLANS READY

CLACKAMAS COUNTY SCHOOLS TO HOLD ANNUAL MEET AT GLADSTONE, MAY 24.

SPECIAL GAMES TO BE FEATURES

Children and grown-ups will participate in Romps, for Fun and for Prizes—Science of Play Taught

The annual track meet of the Clackamas County School leagues will be held this year at Gladstone Park, on Saturday, May 24. This date has been determined upon by the executive committee, of which Samuel Adler is secretary.

In addition to the regular track and field events, the committee has planned to make plays and games a prominent feature of the day's program. The committee is of the opinion that properly supervised play is one of the important concerns of every household every school and of every community. Play makes for health and contentment; it stirs the mind to keen activity and trains the individual to take the initiative to act promptly and energetically, and to cooperate for the good of all. To give the young and old an opportunity to participate in time-honored sports and amusements, and to learn new and inspiring games, is the purpose of this departure.

Every teacher is urged to have her children come prepared to play at least one game. Among competitive games, captain ball, prisoner's base, robber barons and volley ball are recommended. These games may be played by opposing teams of eight members or more each.

It is not desirable that all of the plays be of a competitive nature. There are many invigorating games in which the team element does not enter, and some of these are especially adapted to the younger children. Common examples are, fishes-swim, hair-in-a-patch, statues or steps, cat and the mouse, three deep, and last-pair-pass.

Some other lines of activity such as flag drills, May-pole winding, folk-dancing and the like are also recommended.

The plays and games will be open to both boys and girls, and it is hoped that all will be encouraged to take an active part. Each child should be made to feel that this day is instituted for his or her special benefit.

Some special events open only to girls are as follows: Potato race, short distance relay races, baseball throwing, indoor baseball and basketball.

A unique feature of the program will be a series of interesting events open to adults not connected with schools, as follows: Tug of war, obstacle race, sack race, 12-pound shot-put. Prizes will be awarded in most of the above events.

The events of the track and field meet will be as follows: 50-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 200-yard dash, 440-yard dash, relay race, broad and high jump, 800-yard dash, mile race and pole vault. All these events will be open to both grade and high school pupils, with the exception of the mile run and the pole vault, which will be only for high school entrants. The grade and high school contestants will not compete with each other.

MAYOR, AS JUDGE, PROVES STERN MAN

Mayor Linn E. Jones quit being chief executive of the city for awhile Thursday, and donned the figurative trappings of city police magistrate, and presided over police court. Recorder Stipp, to whom such duties usually fall, was out of town.

The mayor was rather pained at being forced to ascend the bench, for by so doing he had to take official cognizance of the breaking of the excellent record established in the month of April, when but three arrests were made for drunkenness. His honor, in short, was called upon to try, on the first day of May, two-thirds as many cases of acute inebriation as had come up in court for the whole of the preceding month.

Two regulars of the army of Uncle Sam, detailed from duty at the Clackamas ranges, became tangled with booze somewhere, and visited Oregon City to celebrate. Chief Shaw promptly corralled them, and police court was opened pronto. After hearing and viewing the evidence in the case, Magistrate Jones fined the offenders $15 each, or seven days in jail. Not caring to spend so long a period of forced desertion from duty, the soldiers said they would try to raise the money. They were remanded to jail until further notice, and the mayor stepped down from the bench to resume his duties of presiding over the city's municipal destinies.

LAND SUIT FILED

John W. Loder, through Dimick & Dimick, filed suit on Saturday to clear title to lots 3 and 4, Orchard Hill. The action is directed against C. E. Ronnell and all others claiming interest in title to the property. This is the fourth case to clear title that has been filed in the circuit court during the week; and the general movement to unravel tangled deeds of long standing is merely another indication of the activity in Clackamas county real estate that has lately been in evidence.

TOM KAY SLEUTHS

Tom Kay, erstwhile Portland detective, but now a special investigator for Governor Oswald West, was in the city Monday, seeking a warrant for two county saloonmen, whom he says kept their place open all day Sunday. Mr. Kay, who now gives himself the dignified name of "Tom" of earlier days, obtained the warrants from Justice Siever, and departed to serve them.

FIFTY DEFENDANTS NAMED IN CASE

Over fifty people have been named in a suit to clear title to lots 5 and 6, block 28, Milwaukie, filed Friday by Charles A. Lakin, through his attorneys, Dimick & Dimick and Gordon E. Hayes. Title to the property is claimed by Lakin, who sets forth that he and his predecessors have held the land by actual possession for many years. The defendants, it is asserted, allege various and involved interests in the property, and the court is asked to pass upon their claims and award title to Lakin as the facts may indicate.

Those named as defendants in the suit are: Mrs. B. A. Willis, Amy E. and Perry Magnesa, Dolla M. and George W. McCarver, Nella S. and George J. Blodgett, William K. Kerns and wife, Mary Jane Torrence, Elvira B. Shane, Queen V. Harrell, William McWilliams and wife, Julla McWilliams Singletary and Samuel Singletary, Sopronia V. Don, Many and Loren Leuelling, Dale, Duncan and Lotta Smith, Gilla Damp, Emma A. Damp Gors and husband, Zoranda Damp, Betsy J. and A. C. Middlestate, Bettie and William Lively, S. P. Damp and wife, R. E. Williams, Mary, George M. Sarah E. Joseph, Ella, William B. and Ernest F. Cross, Francis L. and B. F. Bulen, P. J. Crossy and wife, and all others interested or claiming title to the property.

ECHO OF YEAR-OLD SUIT IS HEARD

Judge Aiken Tuesday handed down two orders from the circuit court bench in the year-old case of Grant B. Dimick versus M. D. Latourette, treasurer of Oregon City, and E. L. Shaw. The case has been hanging fire in the court since the administration of Mr. Dimick as mayor, and involves the payment by the council of salary to Mr. Shaw for services as special peace officer after Mayor Dimick had refused to appoint him chief of police. Subsequent to the appointment of Mr. Shaw to special office by the council, Mr. Dimick brought suit to restrain the payment of his salary by the city treasurer.

In answering the suit the defendants, through Attorneys Wm. Stone and J. E. Hedges, replied that Mr. Shaw was acting under appointment of the council both as chief of police and as special peace officer. One order issued Tuesday sets forth that the defendants must elect with defense they will stand upon, while the other refers to a detail of their second answer. B. N. Hicks is attorney in the matter for Mr. Dimick.

BROOK TROUT NOW STIR CLACKAMAS

Excellent catches of trout are now being made in the Clackamas in the vicinity of Gladstone, and each morning sees many fishermen making their way along the banks of the stream seeking favorable appearing "riffles." The early cars bring out Portland anglers in large numbers, and some good hauls have been made with salmon eggs, though fly fishermen are also reporting success.

One of the recent catches was a specimen of Eastern Brook trout about 10 inches long. This fish was somewhat lighter in coloring than the same species in the East, but the pink spots were much more noticeable. The capture of one of these beauties leads to the belief that there are others to be had, and anglers are now eagerly seeking the beauties.

FISHING IS COSTLY FOR TWO BROTHERS

L. F. Templeton went fishing Monday at Oregon City and paid fifty dollars for the privilege. Nor did he catch any fish. His brother, R. E. Templeton, also went fishing with him, caught one salmon, was fined fifty dollars, but didn't have to pay it. The chief reason of this is that R. E. the brother, when arraigned before Justice Siewers, pleaded that he had only been rowing the boat in which L. F. was fishing, and that he was in no ways to blame for a salmon getting upon a line trailing from the craft.

The two Templetons came to grief because they were fishing beyond the "dead line" on the river, and within 200 feet of a fish ladder. It is a state offense to angle within 200 feet of the pathway followed by the fish over obstructions in a river, and inadvertently the Templetons, never before visited this locality, broke the law. The fifty dollar fine is the minimum that can be assessed. When arrested and taken before Justice Siewers, L. F. Templeton pleaded guilty, while the brother told the gentle story about "just" rowing the boat.

SCHOOL DISTRICT IS GRANTED NON-SUIT

W. L. Cooper, a Portland attorney, alleging that he had purchased various claims for material furnished the contractors who built the new Oregon City high school, appeared before Judge Aiken, in circuit court Monday with a suit to recover the amount of his claim from school district No. 62. O. D. Eby appeared for the school district, and obtained an order of non-suit from the court, principally upon the grounds that Cooper had failed to prove that he had demanded or, had demanded the contract or's bond. His case also failed to show that the claims he alleges he had purchased were for goods sold the contractors and used in the school construction. Most of the claims were for small amounts, but the aggregate was considerable.

LOCAL SCHOOLS MODEL FOR EAST

COURSE UPON BIRD LIFE HERE TO BE OUTLINED TO BOSTON EDUCATIONAL LEADERS

PROF. LORD'S LECTURE LURES MANY

Feathered Life Shown in Beautiful Pictures, and Described as Valuable Aid to Farm Development

Oregon City schools will be set before the Twentieth Century club, of Boston, Massachusetts, as models for advancement, according to the promise made to an audience at the high school Friday night by Professor William Lord, author of "Oregon Birds," who delivered a lecture upon the feathered inhabitants of the state to a crowd that packed the auditorium, gallery and hallways of the new building. Professor Lord declared that the course in nature study given the pupils of local schools was the only one in the state which embraced lessons upon the migration, habits and values of bird life; and which laid special emphasis upon the usefulness of certain birds as devourers of pests that damaged crops.

"This course should be a part of the common school education in every community," said Professor Lord. "Its teachings are admirable, and it cannot help but be of great benefit through training the young in the values of birds as assistants to farmers, and in the best methods of protecting those species that feed almost entirely upon insects and other pests that are foes to agricultural progress and development. I do not know of any other community where so comprehensive, valuable and thorough a course is carried out in the schools; and the latter part of this month, when I speak before the Twentieth Century club in Boston, I shall tell the members of that organization of the course you have in your local schools here, and shall endeavor to have them copy from you, so that useful bird life there may be protected and appreciated as you appreciate it here."

The Twentieth Century club has among its members many of the leading educators of the country, and by bringing to their notice of the Oregon City course, will not only do much to advertise this city and community there, but will place the local system upon a high plane which Eastern communities will do well to copy.

Prof. Lord's lecture was declared to be especially interesting by all who were fortunate enough to hear it. So crowded was the high school that many were unable to find places, even after chairs had been placed in the hallways leading to the auditorium. The speaker told of the habits of bird life in Oregon, pointed out the valuable aid many of the feathered songsters were to agriculturists, and closed his talk with a most beautiful display of hand-colored stereopticon slides, showing the Oregon birds in all their glory of plumage and in their natural environment.

SCHOOL FOLK MEET

The present teachers' association held a meeting in Canemah school house Friday afternoon. Among the topics discussed was the Reed institute. It was decided at this meeting to make arrangements for a picnic at the end of the school term to be held in Schnoor's park at Willamette. A committee was appointed to look into the matter of having the school grounds put in first-class shape for a play ground for the children this summer.

LOCAL JAPANESE ASK CITIZENSHIP

Following the lead of their racial brethren in California, Japanese of Clackamas county are organizing into a society which shall have for its purpose the urging of a new treaty between Japan and the United States which shall give the little brown-skinned men full rights of citizenship, the same as other aliens who establish residences here and take out their papers.

The movement has been started among the Japanese truck gardeners in the lower end of the Willamette valley, where hundreds of acres are tilled by the aliens for Portland markets, and is spreading to the Japanese in other sections of the county. The scheme is gaining strength among the Japanese, particularly since the grange and Aurora met recently and passed resolutions urging the government to ban Japanese from holding farm-lands anywhere on the coast.

Many Japanese have recently leased what is virtually marshland lying north of Oregon City, between the river and the Southern Pacific embankment, and are now busy plowing it wherever the water has receded. As a result there is quite a colony of Japs in this city, and they are taking an eager interest in the present California situation, and in the plan to have drawn a citizenship treaty.

A meeting of the special committee of the Commercial club to arrange a renewal of the lease upon the present quarters of the club, with a like committee from the Masonic lodge, was held Tuesday night in the parlors of the club. The present lease will expire in several months and the club is anxious to secure a new lease covering from three to five years upon the same property. Tuesday evening's meeting progressed satisfactorily and the committee from the Mason's will take the matter up with the lodge. The Commercial club committee is composed of T. W. Sullivan, B. T. McBain and Frank Buch, Sr. That from the Masons is composed of E. A. Chapman, Henry O'Malley and Don Meldrum.

GLADSTONE FACING PROFOUND MYSTERY

Gladstone has a mystery on its hands. Whether the mystery is in human form, or whether a weird species of animal or bird is at large, has not yet been determined, but many investigators are working upon the problem, and it is hoped that it may shortly be solved.

The mystery consists in the persistent disappearance of soap of all sorts that is left on back porches and other unguarded places by Gladstone housewives. Many women, now that the weather has turned warm and sunny, do much of their housework out of doors, and oftentimes leave partly used cakes of laundry or toilet soap about when they are through. Later they are unable to find these pieces of soap. One Gladstone housewife, who is sleeping in a ten-room house that she shall have ready checks, has during the past week, she avers, purchased no less than five cakes of castle soap because of the disappearances.

Whether boys have suddenly developed a penchant for cleanliness, or are appropriating the soap, or whether some strange soap-eating beast is at large is the mystery that is now worrying Gladstone folk.

ST. PAUL'S PARISH RE-ELECTS VESTRY

At a pleasant and very successful meeting of the St. Paul's Episcopal church Monday evening, the entire vestry of the church, which has served for the past year, was re-elected. The meeting being the regular annual parish meeting, a large number were present. A report concerning the finances of the church showed them to be in better condition than they ever have before. During the past year $1,350 was paid off upon the indebtedness. There is now no debt on the church, save a few outstanding notes.

During the past year the west foundations for the new church were completed paid for. This is considered a remarkable fact, when it is considered that the west wall was more difficult to build than will be the other three walls. It was most earnestly hoped by all of the parishoners present that the new church may be completed during the next year.

The vestry is composed of John R. Humphreys, E. A. Chapman, Carl Joehke, C. W. Evans, Dr. L. A. Morris, T. P. Randall and F. T. Barlow. The vestry will hold a meeting Friday evening at which they will elect their officers for the ensuing year. At Monday night's meeting Carl Joehke was chosen as superintendent of the Sunday school.

CONCRETE HOME FOR CITY HEADS

FOUR-STORY MUNICIPAL BUILDING PLANNED BY LIVE WIRES COMMITTEE

RENTAL SPACE HELD ON EXPENSE

Local Boosters Also Endorse New Bridge and Roadway to Gladstone to Shorten Distance on Road North

To promote the construction of a new bridge between the mouth of the Clackamas river, with a road connecting it with Oregon City is the plan of the Live Wires of the Commercial club, and Don E. Meldrum, Charles T. Parker, Charles W. Rialley, W. A. Huntley and O. D. Eby have been entrusted with the work of carrying out the plan. The appointment of this committee follows an agitation that has been carried on for more than a year, and it has been due to the fact that the people of Gladstone and points near the Willamette river between that town and Milwaukie have been compelled to go in a roundabout way to the Parkplace bridge to reach Oregon City.

Judge Grant B. Dimick was named as chairman of the committee to promote the raising of bonded stock, and he made a neat speech telling of the possibilities and advantages of raising superior cattle and hogs. B. T. McBain also talked along the same line.

John W. Loder, chairman of the city hall committee, made a brief report, urging the construction of a 4-story concrete building where the present city hall is located. Mr. Loder suggested that the present structure and the city jail be removed, and a new jail be in the basement of the building to be erected.

The ground floor could be used for stores, the second floor for offices for the city officials and others, the third floor for the council chamber and meeting rooms of the fire companies and the fourth floor for the Commercial club, which would pay a suitable rental. The plan would embrace the installation of an elevator. The report was filed and may be taken up and acted upon later.

DICKEY'S BRIDGE IS SPAN OF DEATH

James Bird Lamb, 33 years old, was drowned Saturday afternoon in the Molalla river about two miles from the town of Molalla. Lamb was returning home about 5 o'clock, and had just started down a steep hill leading to Dickey's bridge. In some way his horses became frightened and started to run away, and in their dash towards the bridge they got off of the road and went into the river. Although Mr. Lamb was a good swimmer, his body became entangled beneath the wagon, and he was unable to get free. The accident was unobserved, but the unfortunate man was seen beneath the water Sunday, and a party was at once organized to get it out. William Kallahan, after some little difficulty, managed to extricate it from the wagon bed, beneath which it was pinned.

A peculiar feature of the accident is the fact that Mr. Lamb had a brother drowned in almost the same place 28 years ago. The brother was drowned while he was crossing a foot log over the water.

William Bird Lamb leaves a wife and two small children, two brothers and a half brother, residing in Molalla, a brother in Black Rock, Oregon, and a sister, Mrs. Erickson, at Multino.

DEATH CALLS PIONEER OF CLACKAMAS COUNTY

The funeral of Mrs. C. E. Jones, who died at Hubbard, Saturday was held from the Miller church at the Miller cemetery Sunday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. Mrs. Jones, who for more than 20 years has been a resident of this county, was a victim of tuberculosis. Mrs. Jones moved to Hubbard about eight months ago from her ranch near Molalla. It was on this ranch that she spent most of her time since coming to Oregon. She was 65 on January 22. Mrs. Jones leaves many friends in the county who mourn her death. She was the mother of eight children, six of whom are now living. They are: Cyrus E. Judd, of Filer, Idaho; O. H. Judd, of Helena, Mont.; W. H. Judd, of Helena, Mont.; Mrs. H. E. Reed, of St. Johns, Ore.; L. H. Judd, of Molalla, Ore. all by a former marriage; and Elmer Jones, of Molalla.
