Heart to Heart Talks By CHARLES N. LURIE HARVEST TIME. It is the season of harvest. In the fields to the farmer and his men, working hard to bring in the grain before it becomes too ripe and before the sun or rain shall injure it. Not since the time of plowing and planting have the tillers of the soil been so busy. When the grain is in comes the time of rejoicing. Work ended and the crop safely stored, the farmer can sit back, smile contentedly at his good wife and calculate his profits. Let us hope that for all honest tillers of the soil it has been a good year, unspoiled by drought or untimely and excessive rain, and that their fields have been unvisited by the insect pests which cost so many millions of dollars every year. Harvest festival time! Throughout the land the churches and societies are celebrating the close of the growing season. They adorn their churches and their meeting places with the symbols of their crops, with fine specimens of the bounties which which Mother Nature blesses our richly endowed land. It is a goodly custom and a pleasant one—the assembling in their accustomed places of worship of our people to rejoice over the garnering of the fruits of the soil. In the life of each man or woman comes a harvest season. Whether the crops be wheat or rye, it comes to fruition in its own time, and it brings joy or sorrow to the grower according to its nature. "By their fruits ye shall know them" is a true saying. When the wagons bring to the barn of your life their load, will it be the full, fat kernels of the wheat, the rich ears of the corn, the glorious ripe fruits which blossomed in the spring in beauty and waxed big in the summer in sweetness, or will the carts unload at your doors the thistles and the burdocks and the weeds of ugliness? "As ye sow, so shall ye reap," is true in life as it is in agriculture. If you wish the harvest to bring you joy and wealth instead of regret and misery you must prepare the soil in time, you must plant therein the right sort of seeds, and you must cultivate the ground in toll and patience. You must water it with the waters of righteousness and watch lest the thieves of evil break in and rob and lest the pestiferous insects of sloth devour your substance. His Charm Gone. Phoebe—You will hardly know Freddy since he got back from Monte Carlo. He lost all his money there, and—Evelyn—Hardly know him! Why, I shan't know him at all!—Illustrated Bits. Gettin' on W? His Govd. "When can a person be said to have passed the novice stage in golf?" asks a Glasgow News correspondent. I have, says the editor, always regarded a knowledge of the rules and terminology of the game as fitting one to be classed above the beginner. But this is only my personal opinion. I heard another view expressed in the car recently. "Hoo's Mac gettin' on w? his gov' mo?" asked one passenger of another. "Oh, no," was the reply. "He's full fledge'd now—he begun countin' in his score last week." Strengthen Weak Kidneys. Don't suffer longer with weak kidneys. You can get prompt relief by taking Electric Bitters, that wonderful remedy praised by women everywhere. BOUNTIFUL CROPS OF HOPS AND PRUNES With the hop picking finished and the harvesting of the prune crop well under way, prospects are bright for one of the most prosperous years the Willamette Valley has ever seen. Reports from up and down the valley all bring out the one fact, that unequalled crops are being harvested and prices are the best they have been for years. Hops are selling in the neighborhood of 20 cents with prospects for advance still higher, while prunes bring five cents and all above.

EGGS DROP AGAIN IN MARKET PRICE Further decline is noticed in the chicken market since the high prices of a few days ago. The records of a few days ago, and the action has now fully set in. It has been for some time, and it is not likely to be reversed. The spot trade, too, is quite in the markets, a fractional reduction in price being noted. The egg supply and demand have been fluctuating with differences of opinion as to the actual condition of the trade.
