WHEN THE EARTH QUAKES.

Stresses and Strains to Which Our Globe Is Subjected.

When the stairs creak and the famil ture gives our musterious crackling about, but it doesn't corur to us that what we bear is really an earthquake on a small wale. The night air has enused the wood to contract with a stup, thus accounting for the siarning sounds. This is just exactly what the earth is doing periodically. To a microbe, reported on the polished surface of the table, this disturbance is probably as rivient as an earthquake is to a human being.

An earthquake is a terrible thing. It comes without warning. It is over before one knows which way to fig. and large. its fury can be absted by no man.

Yet to the peologist earthquakes are only symptoms. They are not causes so much as results-results of great stresses and strains within the earth that cause slippings and slidings from time to time. If the rocks on the shell of the earth allo and grate against each other so much as an inch slong s fissure ten miles in length a shiver is felt. A slip of fifteen feet slong a course of 20 miles sufficed to bring Don't Wait for the Fatal Stages of quake and fire.

These strains and stresses accumulate stendily within the earth. The point at which they have once found reilef is weaker to resist the next strain. It slips again presently. By successive movements its sides become more and more displaced. Rock layers, mineral veins, coal seams that cross the line of displacement, are jogged out of their true. So are roads, fence lines and brooks that run across it on the surface. In the San Francisco quake one man's front pard was moved twenty feet to one side of his house, and in another place the slip line came so close to a man's barn that some plies of straw, thrown out from the windown, were carried away. In Jopan a cilff twelve feet high interrupted a roadway, and thousands of similar cases might be cited. These were primary ovements along the line of the disturbance that caused the earthquakes. -Brooklyn Eagle.
