CUPID CAPTURES 5 CLACKAMAS COUPLES

Not even on the Saturday before Easter Sunday were there as many marriage licenses issued here as Saturday, June 26. Five licenses, each one for a Clackamas county couple, were granted by Clerk Mulvey or his deputies. Of all the days in the year, the day before Easter Sunday has always been considered the busiest for the marriage license clerk, but for once at least, this belief has been disproved. The happy couples are: Anna P. Duncan to Ralph W. Potter, Mikalo; Aurie Ema Draper to Ernest David Mosler, of Oregon City; Mattie Mapplethrope to Perry Pious Cahill, of Barton; Tillie Weisman to John T. Hevelly, of Canby, and Elma Sumner to Walter Murray, of Wilsonville.

TOO MUCH MUSIC SO WIFE WANTS DIVORCE

On the grounds that in January, 1914, while she was ill in Portland, her husband sat up until small hours in the morning and played "Home Sweet Home" on a French harp, Mabel C. McFarland has filed a divorce suit against her husband, V. L. McFarland. According to the complaint, the domestic life of the McFarland family must have been a lively one. On another occasion, the wife alleges, she was ill and he stood by her bed until 4 o'clock in the morning merely to talk to her, much to her annoyance. At other times he struck her and carried out various dramatic performances to frighten her, the complaint states.

They were married at Grants Valley, Ore., May 17, 1905. The general grounds for the divorce are cruel and inhuman treatment.

ELKS TAKE FIRST PICNIC OF SEASON

The first picnic this year of the Oregon City lodge of Elks was held Sunday at Wright's Springs. Lunch was furnished by the lodge and served buffet style. Everyone indulged in baseball, pitching quoits, foot races and other sports. A feature of the afternoon was the mock council meeting and the humorous discussion of various improvements which are absorbing a good deal of the attention of Oregon City at present. The following officers presided at the council meeting: Mayor Gilbert L. Hedges; councilman, Ed. Johnson, W. R. Logans, Clair Evans, J. J. Tobin and E. J. Daulton; city attorney, Ames Carey; city recorder, Lloyd Riches, and chief of police, Charles Burns.

Huggins, September 2, 1910. The amount of the note was $100 and the plaintiff asks for $50 attorney's fees. She charges that there was an error made in the mortgage which accompanied the note. Well, this is as good a month for elopements as any.

A. H. DOWLING FINED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

EX-MARSHAL OF MILWAUKIE IS CONVICTED FOR ABUSE OF PRISONER

A. H. Dowling, ex-city marshal of Milwaukie, formerly in the real estate business, now an employee of the Menefee Lumber company, and a well known man of the Milwaukie district, was convicted by a jury in the justice court late Thursday evening and was fined $50.

Dowling was charged with assaulting John A. Hann, a Seattle traveling man, while the latter was under arrest and in the custody of Marshal Reed of Milwaukie. Hann was arrested Tuesday on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and taken before Justice Kellogg. He was convicted and fined $10 but asked that he be allowed to see friends in town so that he could raise the money.

In custody of Marshal Reed, Hann made a tour of the town and at 6 o'clock in the evening went in a restaurant with Reed to secure supper. While there, Reed was called out and left Dowling to watch Hann, but while the former was gone, it was charged, Dowling pulled out a billy and struck Hann twice across the eyes. The blows knocked Hann to the floor and then, the owner of the restaurant testified, Dowling kicked Hann several times.

Hann was unable to raise the amount of his fine and was brought to the county jail to serve out his time. Wednesday the owner of the restaurant, Mrs. Maundier, swore to a complaint and Dowling was arrested.

CANBY FARMER HELD FOR PLACING POISON

H. Stevens, a farmer living several miles east of Canby, has been arrested upon the complaint of the Oregon Humane society and will be tried at Canby Monday.

'SANE FOURTH AGAIN' SAYS MAYOR JONES

The ordinance prohibiting the use of toy cannons, large firecrackers, toy pistols, torpedo canes and other noisy exponents of patriotism will be enforced this year in Oregon City the same as last year. This was the statement of Mayor Linn E. Jones Wednesday evening.

About three years ago the council passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of any kind of fireworks, excepting roman candles, small firecrackers and sky rockets. This rule has greatly lessened the number of minor injuries usually received by those who exhibit their love of country with the old-time noise-makers.

Charles Spence returned to his Clackamas county home Wednesday evening after addressing the state board of examiners at Salem Wednesday afternoon on a method of apportioning school money. The state board of examiners is gathered at Salem to correct papers in the recent teachers' examinations, but a short program is given each day on subjects pertaining to school work. Among the plans suggested at the meeting Wednesday was one of maintaining the schools direct from a state fund, raised by a general taxation on all property.

Nichols was driving his buggy toward town when his team became frightened at a dog. The horses dashed down the road and the driver was thrown to the ground within a few seconds after their start. Mr. and Mrs. Kandle were walking down the middle of the road and were knocked to the ground by the team. Mrs. Kandle will probably be well within two weeks.

FOUNDATION OF NEW BUILDING IS BEGUN

CONCRETE BUSINESS STRUCTURE WILL RISE ON MAIN SOUTH OF FOURTH STREET

The foundations for the two-story concrete business block on Main street between Fourth and Fifth street have been partly completed. A wall across the eastern side of the property, which belong to James Tracy, has been placed and within a few days the foundations on the northern side of the building will be begun.

The building will be two stories high and will extend from the Elkhorn stable building to the alley between Fourth and Fifth streets. The lower floor will be used for business purposes and the second story for apartments. Plans are being prepared and will be completed in a few days. As soon as this preliminary work is finished, a large force of men will be put to work to hurry its completion. Mr. Tracy said Saturday evening that he intended to make the building modern.

PIPE LINE PLANS FINISHED SOON

SURVEY WORK AND DRAWINGS WILL BE COMPLETED WITHIN A WEEK

DETAILS HOLDS BACK ENGINEER

Water Committee Careful in all Work and no Bidder Will Receive Specifications Until Plans Are Rechecked

The completed drawings with all the detail work of the pipe line from the south fork of the Clackamas to Oregon City will probably be completed within the next week and the committee will call for bids within a short time afterwards. This was the statement of William Andressen, chairman of the water committee Tuesday night.

Several details have held up the completion of the survey work beyond the time when it was thought that it would be finished. The committee has always been careful in its estimates and the plans will not be turned over to the bidders or pipe manufacturers until every question is settled beyond a doubt.

The drawings are now completed and Engineer Rands with his assistants are working on the tracings.

DECISION OF COURT IS AGAINST THE CITY

The city lost in a decision handed down Friday by Circuit Judge Eakin in a dispute over street assessment on Main street of property belonging to Mrs. M. Griffith and L. Harding.

The action was begun about a year ago when the court declared that the ordinance passed by the council to assess property on Main street was not legal. A second ordinance was passed and a new assessment was made but through a technical error made when the ordinance was prepared, Mrs. Griffith and L. Harding fought the case and won. The amount of the assessment on the properties was about $500.

$530 SUIT SETTLED IN FAVOR OF CITY

Circuit Judge Eakin handed down a decision Thursday in favor of the city in the suit for $530 filed by George Wilson. The plaintiff claimed that the money was due on street work performed by him during the year 1912.

The dispute arose over the classification of work on Jackson, Sixteenth and John Q. Adams streets. The city engineer estimated that in improving these streets there was a certain amount of dirt, hardpan and rock, and the amount to pay the contracts was based on this estimate. The council examined the figures and determined that the estimate was excessive and sent T. W. Sullivan as a special engineer to re-estimate. The results of Sullivan's figures, as reported to the council, showed a great decrease in the amount of rock work and the cost to the city was reduced $530.

CONDEMNATION QUESTION INVOLVED

City May Lay Claim to Small Piece of Land at Top of Bluff—Could Simplify the Elevator Problem

Six city employees, City Engineer Nobel, City Attorney C. Schuebel, Street Commissioner Habcock, Alonzo Wickham, Jack Straight and Charles W. Richardson, have been cited to appear before the state supreme court Tuesday of next week and show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court. It is charged that the employees of the city trespassed upon the property of Mrs. Sarah Chase in violation to a ruling of Judge Henry L. Benson, directing all of the employees of the city to keep off the land.

The case is a test case in which the merits of the recent condemnation proceedings will be threshed out, although those proceedings are not directly named in the affidavit. In case the court holds that the city employees were not in contempt of court, the city will practically possess the right to go ahead with the work on Elevator street, according to City Attorney Schuebel.

The city attorney will be the only representative of the city who will go to Salem. He will argue that the proceedings give the city right to enter upon the land for the purpose of constructing the elevator and that the condemnation proceedings, being completed after the decree of Judge Benson, stand above that decree. Attorneys for Mrs. Chase will probably take the stand that the decree of Judge Benson, which barred the city from going on the property, canceled the work on the condemnation proceedings which was done before the decree was given and thereby made invalid the entire proceedings.

City Attorney Schuebel said Tuesday night that the city might lay claim to a triangular piece of property on the top of the bluff, lying west of block 31. This piece, he claims, is not on the present plat and belongs to the city on the same grounds that the land at the foot of the bluff was awarded to the city by a decision of the supreme court. In case the city can acquire title to this land, there will be ample room for a walk from the elevator landing to Sixth street on city property and the can secure a small strip by condemnation proceedings from Mrs. Chase to connect the landing up with Seventh street, says Mr. Schuebel.

J. E. Hedges, who is leading the fight for Mrs. Chase, said Tuesday afternoon that in case the city won a title to the property by the condemnation proceedings, the next attack of Mrs. Chase and her attorneys would be made on the validity of the proceedings.

HUBBARD FARMERS CELEBRATE

Farmers of Hubbard, Oregon, have planned to hold an all-day picnic for rest and recreation on Saturday, June 27. Aside from the general social feature of the day provision has been made for a number of educational addresses, two of the speakers being W. L. Powers, assistant professor of agronomy, and E. B. Fitts, extension professor of dairying, at the Agricultural college. An unusual but interesting feature of the day will be a cow scoring contest in which owners of the cows scoring the most points will be given cash prizes.

Neva Belle Peters died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peters, in Gladstone, at 8:30 o'clock Sunday morning after being ill with consumption for several weeks. Miss Peters had spent all her life in Oregon. She was born in this state March 15, 1897, and moved to Gladstone several year ago with her parents. She was a student in the Gladstone school and had many friends in the town in which she lived. Her parents and several brothers and sisters survive her. The funeral will be held at the family home 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and interment will be in Mountain View cemetery.

Only Industry of Kind In United States Running At Capacity in This City

The only plant for the manufacture of oil and dried ell meat in this country is now running at full capacity here and consuming about half a ton of ella a day. The average daily product of the plant is 15 gallons of oil, used in the manufacture of leather goods, and 240 pounds of dried ell meat which is used as chicken food.

The process for the handling of the ella has been worked out by Edward Reimers and James P. Kelly, and the plant at the present time is operating under their direction. Fishermen gather the ella from the pools in the rocks around the falls with dip nets. The fish are easy to catch and each dip will bring into the boat from 15 to 20 pounds. The ella are then brought to the plant, which is a story and a half frame building on the banks of the river, where they are placed in a vat and cooked.

The vat is a large wooden affair and is supplied with heat from large steam pipes which lie in the bottom. After the ella have been cooked for a short time the oil rises to the surface and is drained off into barrels. The solid matter is pressed and then ground, more oil being derived by each operation. From the grinders the ella, now almost powdered, are placed in the vat and for two hours they are kept in a temperature of about 200 degrees. The solid matter is then sacked and finds a ready market with farmers and chicken raisers.

The cooking, drying and grinding is all done on the second floor of the building. From the vat the oil goes down a pipe into a barrel on the first floor, where it is washed through two waters before it is ready for commercial use.

Mr. Kelly, who heads the enterprise, has secured the co-operation of the government and has sent his products to chemists for analysis. The dried

BOARD OF TRADE APPOINTS A COMMITTEE TO VISIT OTHER TOWNS

In order to better study the city street market plan and to learn the experience gained at towns the size of Oregon City, the Board of Trade, at its regularly weekly meeting Monday night, appointed a committee, composed of J. J. Tobin, Henry Larsen and J. W. Bunn, which will visit other towns and study conditions there.

The meeting Monday night was the one at which all grocers were invited to attend. Several of the retailers were present but none were opposed to the market day plan on the grounds that it would hurt their business. Of the three men who were appointed on the committee, two, Mr. Larsen and Mr. Bunn, are grocers.

The hitching post committee reported that the committee was waiting for the city engineer to complete plans for the platform which will be necessary at the foot of Eleventh street.

CANBY MEN FINISH COMMISSION HOUSE

I. W. C. Mangum, C. F. Romig and W. H. Lackey of Canby have completed a warehouse building on Eleventh street at the intersection of the Southern Pacific railway track. They will open next week a grain, corn and general produce business under the firm name of Mangum & Romig. California Paper Gives Brief Account of Life of Prominent Local Man

The adventurous life of W. P. Hawley, of the Hawley Pulp & Paper company, is briefly sketched in a recent issue of the Stockton Mail. Mr. Hawley, with a party, is making an automobile trip through Oregon and California and included in his route Stockton, his former home town. The story in the California paper follows: Twenty-five years ago working in the old Stockton paper mills for $3.50 a day and today the owner of several paper mills, and the manager of the Hawley Pulp & Paper company, Mr. W. P. Hawley, a former resident of this city, who, with his family and a party of relatives, was in Stockton Saturday. Hawley was thirty, and while he was saving his money. That was before the days of labor unions, when men worked long wearisome hours. For three months Hawley had been working 18 hours a day. He fell asleep one day from sheer exhaustion and was discovered by the manager of the mill. He was severely reprimanded, and the altercation that followed ended with Hawley leaving the employ of the concern. "Some day I will own larger and better mills than these," Hawley told the man who was manager at the Stockton paper mill at that time. The latter replied that Hawley did not know the meaning of wealth and never would. The capacity of the old paper mill
