LOCAL BRIEFS

F. W. McLaren, of Willhoit, came in to town Thursday evening and stayed over night here.

Mrs. S. M. Surfus and Radie Surfus have returned from a short visit at Clackamas station, where they visited friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Walker have returned from the Ogle Mountain mine where they have been spending their outing.

Elmer E. Amsden, of Alma, Wash., where he was principal of the public schools, was in Oregon City the first of the week. Mr. Amsden is an applicant for the position as supervisor left vacant by S. M. Lovelace.

Miss Kathryn Sinnott of the Crown-Columbia company's office force, left last evening for Klamath Falls, where she will spend her vacation on a visit with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Sinnott.

R. B. Berger and George Ingram, who own a farm on rural route number three, have registered the name of their farm "The Orchards," with the secretary of state. The certificate was received Friday.

Misses Estella Criswell and Lucy Mitts have come to Newport, where they will spend several weeks. Miss Criswell just returned from a month's visit with her sister, Mrs. Frederick Jesse, of Spokane and Miss Mitts is home from a three months' stay in Silverton.

DESERTION BASIS FOR DIVORCE SUIT

Charging that her husband deserted her with absolutely no reason, Mrs. Dolores E. Fernandez filed a suit for a divorce from Jess H. Fernandez Saturday in the circuit court here. They were married in Oakland, Cal., January 9, 1911, and came to Oregon shortly after their marriage.

The passage of this resolution shows the definite stand of the council in favor of a bitulithic improvement. An injunction from the circuit court and a remonstrance signed by resident owners representing two-thirds of the property along the street are the two only methods by which the work can be stopped outside of the council.

The city charter provides that any remonstrance must be signed and presented to the council within 15 days after the publication of the resolution. The resolution appeared in the issue of August 1, which would place the time limit on the remonstrance August 15. The signers of the remonstrance must be resident property owners along the street. The threat has been made in council and out that a remonstrance would be secured to stop the work.

The councilman Albright, while the subject was before the council, said that an injunction would be secured on the grounds that the council was not allowing true competition, as is required by the charter, as bitulithic is a patented product. H. W. Templeton, chairman of the street committee, takes the stand that although the material from which the pavement is made is patented, there is much competition in securing contracts for laying it.

A representative of the Warren Bros. company said after the council meeting that if all went smoothly work on constructing the street would begin by September 1 and would be completed by the end of the month. One side of the street would be built at a time, he said, so that traffic would not be interrupted while the work was progressing.

The street committee was instructed to look into several matters relating to the Willamette Valley Southern. The road asks for the right to build a side track to the city limits, and matters relating to a crossing of the company with a city street are to be settled.

The city engineer was instructed to establish grades on Eighth street east of Van Buren street, providing the work has not already been done. Several property owners on the street are planning to lay walks.

Henner Had a Way of Making the Louvre Officials See the Light.

It is a pity that Henner is dead. He had found an excellent means for forcing the conservators at the Louvre to bring down the pictures that he judged had been placed too high. He made use of this method in the case of "Susanne au Bain" ("Susanna at the Bath") of Tintoretto.

Twenty years ago this masterpiece was hung in the gallery four meters from the floor.

Henner was furious at this injustice. But he did not permit his anger to conquer. He contented himself with coming from time to time in the morning before the visitors were numerous in the halls and in the most courteous tone requesting the keepers to furnish him a large double ladder.

The keepers referred the matter to the conservators, saying that this ladder was asked by M. Henner, and they were impressed with the necessity of responding to the wish of the old master.

Then he placed the ladder before Susanne, mounted the steps slowly and, when at the top, remained a quarter of an hour absorbed in the contemplation of the marvelous painting.

He then descended as plumbly as usual, and with a fine smile, said in his Alsatian jargon: "Merci pour l'œuvre. Je suis très content!" ("Thanks for the ladder. I am much pleased!")

He went through this maneuver half a dozen times at intervals.

At last the conservators understood. They had "Susanne au Bain" unhooked and gave it a place of honor in the square salon, where it is now.—Cris de Paris.

Tax on Hats.

Not only have hats at various times been subject to taxation, but have even been made the subject of special laws. Thus in Henry VII's reign none was allowed to sell hats at a larger price than 20 pence or cups for more than 2s. 8d.

Some compensation, however, for this interference with free trade could be found in the fact that in 1571 on Sundays and holidays every one above seven years of age was required to wear a cap of wool of English make under penalty of 3 farthings' fine for every day's neglect.—London Chronicle.

The Rabbit's Danger Signal.

So long as it sits still the ordinary rabbit is almost indistinguishable in a field of bracken, stubble or dry grass, but as soon as it begins to run toward its burrow the white patch on its tail betrays it. This white patch, which at first seems like a failure of adaptation, has its special function—it acts as a danger signal to the young rabbits and shows them the way by which they can escape from the threatened danger.—London Mail.

Farthest North Cities.

Dawson, the Yukon capital, and Fairbanks, its near Alaskan neighbor, are, next to Hammerfest, in Norway, the farthest north cities in the world, and at the latitudes of sixty-three and sixty-five have such comfortable appearances as electric lights, daily newspapers and pipe organs.

Getting Rid of Toil.

We all know something of labor saving machinery in a vague way, but we are not likely to have any idea of the ceaseless, scientific, wide reaching improvement that goes on in these devices. Magnet cranes that will pick up and carry five tons of loose scrap iron, one man coal handling bridges that will unload 500 tons of coal in an hour so that you can see the ship rise in the water, lathes in which ten tools cut into two pieces of steel at one time and one man runs two such machines—these are only three of the new weapons we are now using to conquer the world of things. What are we going to do with it?—Collier's Weekly.

"My dear Ned, control yourself. I am only trying to appear as well dressed as the shopgirls."

COUNCIL ADOPTS BITULITHIC PLAN

RESOLUTION PASSES WITH VOTE STANDING FIVE FOR AND FOUR AGAINST

THREATS OF REMONSTRANCES MADE

Paving Representative States That Street Work Will be Completed by End of September if Nothing Delays

A resolution calling for the improvement of Main street with a bitulithic pavement passed the council Friday night. The vote of the councilman was: In favor, Templeton, Trimble, Van Aukon, Meyer and Long; against, Albright, Metzner, Hackett and Andrews.

The passage of this resolution shows the definite stand of the council in favor of a bitulithic improvement. An injunction from the circuit court and a remonstrance signed by resident owners representing two-thirds of the property along the street are the two only methods by which the work can be stopped outside of the council.

The city charter provides that any remonstrance must be signed and presented to the council within 15 days after the publication of the resolution. The resolution appeared in the issue of August 1, which would place the time limit on the remonstrance August 15. The signers of the remonstrance must be resident property owners along the street. The threat has been made in council and out that a remonstrance would be secured to stop the work.

LOST AUTOMOBILE IS FOUND AT BULL RUN

Out at Bull Run there is a 7-passenger Thomas automobile, from which license tags have been removed, indicating that the car was stolen, probably from Portland.

The machine was left on the Bull Run road near the railway station nearly a month ago, but the sheriff's office was not notified until last Saturday. Deputy Sheriff Staats went out to Bull Run Sunday to look at the car. The occupants of the machine left it stalled on a hill and it is thought they caught an electric car into Portland.

The machine is in a battered condition and is a 1904 model. Deputy Sheriff Staats said that unless word was received from the owner in a short time, it would be brought into Oregon City.

TRICK OF THE FUNNEL.

Blowing Out a Light Through It is Easy if You Know How.

To blow out a candle, using a funnel to blow through, seems a ridiculously easy thing to do. But ask any friend of yours to try it and see what happens. Ten to one he will try to blow through the cup so as to force his breath through the narrow neck of the funnel. As this is not an easy thing to do he will flatten mouth and nose in his endeavors, while trying to force his face into the small cup. Then he will reverse the funnel and blow into the neck, and when he does not succeed in extinguishing the light he will blow harder and harder and finally he will admit that he is beaten.

In blowing through the neck of the funnel he has directed the flame directly at the light, so that the flame is exactly opposite to the place where the neck of funnel joins the cup. You, on taking the funnel from him, incline the funnel so that its upper edge is on a level with the light. You blow gently. The light is extinguished at the first puff without any of the desperate effort which your friend put forth.

If you ponder a moment you will realize why you succeeded and why your friend failed. His breath on entering the cup or funnel spread in all directions, and the tiny current of air was dispersed upward and downward, so that, as he noisily leveled the center of the funnel at the flame, no current of air ever reached it.

You, on the contrary, hold the upper wall of the funnel on a level with the flame. The current of air started by your breath, on reaching the edge of the wall, streamed onward in the direction given it by the restraining wall and on reaching the flame snuffed it out.—Boston American.

WAY OF A TRAIN IN SPAIN.

Even the Expresses Creep Along as Though They Were Weary.

The train this morning is a correo (express), but everything is so new that you feel no more hurried than the train and rather enjoy its ways. It creeps into the station quietly and carefully, as if in fear that some hen might have laid one of those numerous Spanish eggs on the track and it might get broken in a too reckless approach. Sometimes—but this doesn't happen frequently—it slows up when near to one of the smallest of the multitudinous stations and sneaks by without stopping, as if ashamed or afraid.

When it does come to a standstill it listlessly slides back a bit and then slides forward a bit and then rights itself once more and then straightens up with a jerk, as if it were tired and its muscles not obedient to will. Then for a few moments every one cautious in his ways to see what further it intends.

About the time it is thoroughly stopped some one pulls at the cord attached to the tongue of the station bell and gives three signals to let the passengers—and any one else who may be interested—know that the train has officially arrived, and a station employee calls out, "San Pablo, echo minutos!" meaning that there will be eight minutes of waiting.—Grant Showertman in Atlantic.

WILLAMETTE IS AT YEAR'S LOW STAGE

CONTINUED DRY SPELL BLAMED FOR CONDITION—BOATS LINED OVER SHOALS

At the present time the Willamette river is at a lower stage than any time last year, according to Captain A. B. Graham, of the Oregon City Transportation company. At four shoals along the river, it is necessary to line the boats over which adds considerably to the length of passage and is hard on the boats. He believes that the condition of the river is due to the long dry spell.

Under ordinary conditions the channel would have been in better condition this season than last year, as a greater amount of work has been done by the government the last few months. Cuts were made through the worst sandbars by the dredges Mathison and Champeog. Dikes and revetments also have been established with the view of confining the channel and increasing its depth.

But despite all of the improvement work the river above this city has been falling gradually since early in July. It is now down to the low-water stage and on some stretches of the stream it is said to appear even at a mark lower than zero.

There has not only been less rain during the summer months last season, but the precipitation for the year is far below the average. Since September 1, the beginning of the wet season, the deficiency is 5.57 inches. Had there been the usual amount of snow in the mountains drained by the Willamette in the winter, it is said, the river would have kept up to a fairly good boating stage during the summer months.

The same condition largely exists in regard to the several navigable tributaries to the lower Columbia. At a number of points the boats have difficulty in getting over the shoals. As a consequence nearly all the river men would be more than pleased if heavy rains should set and continue a week.

BLAZE AT COALCO BURNS BRUSH AND TIMBER NEAR SOUTHERN PACIFIC TRACK

No Large Forest Fire in Clackamas County Reported so Far in Season—Woods Are Dry and Perfect for Blaze

The first western Clackamas county forest fire was reported in Oregon City Monday by burning near the right-of-way of the Southern Pacific a short distance south of this city. The fire is thought to have been started by a cigar stub thrown from a train as the blaze began to burn almost between the rails.

While the fire has not assumed serious proportions and is confined to brush and only a few trees, the railway company kept a gang of men along their right-of-way all day Monday to prevent any possible destruction of railway property. Up until last Monday night, it was reported that several acres had been burnt over and that the fire was slowly traveling to the south before a slight wind.

No houses are near the fire which so far is confined to the Whittenton estate. The only possible source of property loss is thought to be the railway in case the wind should shift the direction of the fire.

Several fires were reported early in the season in the western and northern part of the county by wardens operating out of Estacada, but each of these blazes were small. The woods are dry and it is considered that a forest fire if aided by a wind would do great damage before it could be brought under control. The heavily timbered country in the eastern part of the county is patrolled.

Word has been received that a bill appropriating $25,000 to Oregon to aid in fighting fires has passed and can be brought into use at once. The state forester intends to send out 100 special foresters who will work in all parts of the state with the foresters now employed.

EGG SURPLUS LARGE IN OREGON MARKET

What to do with the rather liberal supplies of local eggs that are coming forward from country places and to decrease the surplus of former arrivals is now a great worry to the wholesale trade in Portland.

Leading dealers report many hundreds of cases of eggs being unsold in the north Willamette valley at the present time. Some are placing stock in storage as a last resort against their inability to unload promptly.

The Oregon market is really the weakest on the entire Pacific coast, a condition said to result from the greater increase in the output than in the demand.

Strenuous efforts are being made by wholesalers and especially f. o. b. buyers to hold the present price aloft because practically all of them have a surplus on hand which they would be unable to sell below present figures, except at a direct loss to themselves.

No man has any business to get married until he can listen to a crying baby without saying things that wouldn't look well in print.

STOCK RECEIPTS AT YARDS ARE STEADY

Receipts for the week at the Portland Union Stock Yards company have been: Cattle 1815, calves 93, hogs 2885, sheep 6683.

Cattle liquidation heavier than last week, but outlet so good that beef prices gained a quarter. Top steer sales the first half of the week $7.50, cows $6.35, bulls $5.00. Seventy-four head of exceptionally fine steers sold Friday at $6. Improved demand and better trend to market.

Swine receipt assumed fairly large proportions Monday. Trade reaches $8.95 for best light stock. Tuesday and Wednesday $9.00 and closing at $9.05 Friday. This market can readily handle a few thousand more hogs than the present receipts.

Choice mutton and lamb stock steady, at unchanged prices. The bulk of arrivals for the week, of inferior quality. Receipts in excess of 6000. Prime wethers $4.50 to $4.75, prime ewes $3.85 to $4.00, medium ewes $3.25 to $3.75, spring lambs $5.50 to $6.00.

The following sales are representative:

50 steers	1261	$8.00
12 steers	1073	7.55
12 steers	1092	7.60
168 steers	1192	7.50
273 hogs	222	9.05
38 hogs	187	8.00
989 hogs	194	8.95
642 hogs	172	8.90
58 cows	1192	6.35
19 cows	1191	6.25
52 cows	1161	6.15
27 cows	1073	6.00
1 bull	1621	5.00
7 heifers	927	6.55
1 stag	1421	6.25
1 calf	251	8.25
303 lambs	55	6.00
91 lambs	106	5.75
236 wethers	106	4.75
1281 ewes	92	4.05

SANDY FARMER IS FOUND TO BE SANE

Fritz Timberman, a farmer living between Boring and Sandy, was brought into the county seat Monday, examined for his sanity and discharged. He is one of the pioneer settlers of the eastern part of the county.

Timberman was recently connected with the burning of a barn near his home by neighborhood gossip and some say that he had made threats on their property. Deputy Sheriff Mills brought Timberman in.

SUES TO COLLECT NOTE

Wilhelm Sporajsky filed a suit in the circuit court Tuesday against John T. Helvay and J. L. Smith to collect a note which the plaintiff claims was signed January 24, 1913. The amount of the suit is $298 with interest, all of which is due on the notes and $40 attorney's fees.

INCOMPLETE REPORTS SHOW GAIN IN BIRTHS

The constant and steady excess of births in Clackamas county over the deaths is well shown by the report for the months of June and July, in which 45 births were mentioned, which is about three times as many as the number of deaths. Of the 45, 22 are girls and 23 boys.

The reports for July are far from complete and the state board will continue to receive statistics from county physicians until August 10. The total number will probably be raised at 70 within the next few days when all the reports are in. The list of births follows, giving the names of the fathers, the birthplace and the date, follows:

Myrtle Larkin, Milwaukee, daughter, June 1; Jerry Walter Jones, Boring, son, June 2; William Brehm, Gladstone, daughter, June 4; Dan D. Hostetter, near Hubbard, daughter, June 5; Alfred Klemsen, Canemah, son, June 7; Carroll C. Seete, Gladstone, daughter, June 7; Miles Deakins, Oregon City, son, June 7; Royal B. SUITS IN HUGGINS FAMILY ARE ENDED

Decrees have been entered by Judge Campbell in two suits involving members of the Huggins family.

The first suit between David and Mary Huggins and Mrs. Mable Huggins to oust Mrs. Mable Huggins from the premises that she was occupying with her husband, their son, at the time of his death, and enjoining her from claiming any rights in the crops, or profits of the premises or from interfering with their absolute control of the premises.

The court held that Mrs. Mable Huggins was rightfully on the premises and could remain there until January 12, 1915, that she had the full right to use and enjoy the garden around her house and that she, as the only heir at law of her husband was the owner of the premises subject only the life estate of Mary Huggins in the same. Neither party recovered costs in this case.

The second case was a suit to foreclose a mortgage brought by Mable Huggins, as administratrix of her husband's estate against her parents in law, David Huggins and wife. This was on a separate tract of land and was a mortgage given by the parents for their son in 1910. The court refused to foreclose the mortgage and also refused to allow either party costs. Brownell and Stone were the attorneys for David Huggins and wife and Wm. Hammond was the attorney for Mable Huggins.

TEACHING STAFF OF SCHOOLS COMPLETED

The teaching staffs of the three Oregon City schools were filled out Tuesday night at a meeting of school board. Miss Carrie E. Stevens, of Portland, was engaged as assistant in English and domestic art in the high school, and Miss Elsie Yoder, Miss Grace Crooks, of this city, and Miss Schutz, also of this city, were secured as grade teachers.

The condition of the concrete wall around the high school grounds, which is giving away under the pressure of the high bank, was discussed and a call issued for bids for both its repair and for a new wall. The bids will be opened August 12.

JAMES TAMBLYN DIES AT SELLWOOD HOME

James Tamblin, for 14 years a blacksmith in the Willamette Pulp & Paper company here and a resident of this city for 32 years, died Monday afternoon at his home in Sellwood after an illness of two years. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Sellwood Baptist church and burial will be in the Sellwood cemetery.

With his family Mr. Tamblin came to Oregon City 27 years ago from Miller, S. D., and he lived here until five years ago when he moved to Portland. He is survived by two children, Lealy and Echo Tamblin, both of Sellwood; his wife, and two sisters and a brother in South Dakota. His daughter, Mrs. Bessie Stromeier died two years ago.

Mr. Tamblin was born 53 years ago in Wisconsin and moved to South Dakota with his parents when a boy.

FARMER SUES FARMER

J. D. Jones filed a suit against Frank Jackson Friday for $2400 which the plaintiff claims is due for damages and for stock which Jackson is alleged to have taken from the Jones farm. Both are prosperous farmers of the Marquam district.

Jones charges that Jackson took 23 head of stock claiming that they had been in the defendant's fields.

20 ADMITTED TO U. S. CITIZENSHIP

LARGE NUMBER RECEIVE LAST PAPERS MONDAY FROM CIRCUIT JUDGE CAMPBELL

AFTER DEBATE, S. MACDONALD PASSES

Man Alleged to Have Remarkable Flag is "An Old Rag," Becomes Citizen—War Has no Effect on Naturalization

Twenty persons were admitted to United States citizenship Monday by Circuit Judge Campbell. They are: August Woodland, Ferdinand Wehner, Henry Peckover, Peter Horning, Herman Pamperin, Niels Christensen, Bent Anton Anderson, John Seedling, Bernard Schoenburg, Otto Knorr, John Jacob Lippener, Alexander Reaton, Duncan Malcolm Shanks, Hjalmar Baugl, Frank Schmidt, Bartol Luanz, Joseph Mrak, Helstone Lay and Simon Macdonald.

The 20 who were admitted, the only admission over which there was any hesitation was S. Macdonald who it was reported, several weeks ago made the remark that the "flag was nothing but an old rag," on the corner of Eighth and Main streets.

Macdonald expained his remark that he intended his remark to be construed that the American flag was nothing but an old rag, but it represented all that is fair, honest and nationally upright. Several witnesses were introduced.

The European crisis is having no effect on the number of papers being taken out here. Judge Campbell said Monday evening that foreigners residing in this country could ignore a call to arms as long as they remained here. All those who have ignored such a call, however, would be refused citizenship in their native country in case they would return to their home, said Judge Campbell. Natives of other lands are usually well posted on their rights in this country and are aware of the fact that their home country cannot lay any legal claim to their services until they return to the country of their birth.

CLACKAMAS FARMER DIES IN PORTLAND

Barney Short, a farmer living near Clackamas station, died Thursday afternoon at St. Vincent's hospital in Portland after an illness of three years. He has no relatives in Oregon, as nearly as could be learned Thursday night, but one sister in the east survives him. The funeral arrangements have not been completed and the body is being held at the chapel of Myers & Brady.

Barney Short was born in Ireland 57 years ago but has spent the greater part of his life in this country. A number of years ago he came to Clackamas county and first settled near Clackamas station, where he owned a farm until the time of his death.

MRS. SUNDERLAND DIES ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Harriet Eliza Sunderland, the wife of W. O. Sunderland, of Sheridan, died at her home Monday evening, her fifty-ninth birthday. She was ill five days with neuralgia of the heart before her death.

The funeral services, which were largely attended were conducted at the Methodist church at Sheridan, Wednesday morning at 11:30 o'clock, a brief service being held at the family home previously to the service at the church. The floral tributes were magnificent, and the white casket was hidden by the beautiful white flowers.

Mrs. Sunderland was one of the prominent residents of Sheridan, having resided in that city for over 35 years, and was highly respected by all. She was born at Asheville, North Carolina, and was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Raphael W. Patty. She was born July 20, 1855, and later with her parents to Knoxville, Tenn., and was united in marriage to Mr. Sunderland at Chattanooga, Tenn. Mrs. Sunderland accompanied her husband and parents to the west later, the former going to Sheridan and Rev. and Mrs. Patty settling at McMinnville. Rev. Patty having taken charge of the Methodist church at that place.

With 29 members of his Sunday school class of the First Baptist church, H. E. Cross left the first of the week for Estacada where the party will spend two weeks in camp.

The camp was made several miles from Estacada and the party tramped to the site. The two weeks will be spent in fishing and in tramping over the foothills.

NEWEST DISTRICT IS TO HAVE BUILDING

Clackamas county's newest school district, West Molalla, is to build a new building in time for the opening of school in the fall.

The new structure is to be one story high and built in bungalow style. It is to be modern throughout and represent the latest designs in school buildings of its size. The district was organized at a meeting of the district boundary board in June and is the only district formed in this county this year.

A meeting of the voters in the district was held Monday night and the following board elected: S. A. Corbett, J. C. Lehan and George Daugerty directors, and A. Neuschwander clerk.
