Nellie Lloyd, Defendant, vs. To Nellie Lloyd, the above-named defendant: In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby summoned and required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit on or before the 15th day of October, 1914, and if you fail to so answer, for want thereof the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit: For a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between the plaintiff and defendant, and for such other relief as to the court may seem just and equitable. This summons is served upon you by publication pursuant to an order of the Honorable J. U. Campbell, Judge of the said court, made and entered on the 25th day of August, 1914. The date of the first publication of this summons is the 11th day of September, 1914, and the last day of publication will be on the 16th day of October, 1914. FRANK C. HANLEY, Attorney for Plaintiff, 914 Lewis Bldg., Portland, Oregon.

Notice of Final Settlement. In the County Court of the State of Oregon, for the County of Clackamas. In the matter of the estate of Roy T. Berry, Minor. Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Guardian of the Estate of Roy T. Berry, a minor, has filed his final report as such guardian, in the County Court of Clackamas County, Oregon, and asked for his discharge and settlement of said minor's estate, said minor having attained his majority; and the Court being fully advised has set Monday, the 15th day of October, 1914, at 10 o'clock A. M., of said day for the hearing of said final report and the settlement of said estate. Any person having any objections to such final report is hereby notified to file the same in said Court on or before said date. J. D. RITTER, Guardian as aforesaid.

CHURCH'S INFLUENCE IS NEEDED ON FARM

By Peter Radford. Lecturer National Farmers' Union. The rural pastor has greater possibilities than any other factor in our national life. The rural civilization of the Twentieth Century has opened up a new world of activities for him. There lie before him unexplored continents of usefulness, unemployed forces of civilization and tremendous responsibilities such as have never before confronted the pastorate. The need of the rural communities today is intelligent and consecrated leadership. There must be a marshaling of forces that build life, strengthen character and broaden vision. The pastor should deal with living problems. In addition to the service he now renders he should help us lift the market basket, hold out a helping hand to the farmer and develop the potential energies of the community he seeks to serve.

A More Useful Ministry. The farmer needs the personal touch of the pastor. He seldom comes in direct contact with his halting influence, except when he is baptized, married and buried. We need to further extend Christian influence in the homes, as well as to spread the gospel in China; to instruct our children in the art of living, as well as to convert the barbarian and the Hottentot, and we should devote our energy and talent to the solution of problems of our own locality, rather than consume our energies in fighting vice and ignorance beyond our borders. It is as important that we discuss from the pulpit, the building of macadam highways from the church to our homes, as that we preach of the golden streets of the New Jerusalem. It is as much a part of the duty of the pastor to exhort us to own a home while on earth as to inspire us to build a mansion in the skies and that we should construct Christian character in our own community, rather than that we fight foreign sins in other lands. We want a religion we can farm by as well as die by.

Christian Influence Needed. There is an emptiness in the life of rural communities and we want preachers who can weave into the social fiber, educational pastimes, profitable pleasures and instructive amusements. Too often we find the games of our young people a search for a suggestion in immorality and a stepping-stone to sin. The pastor should supervise the growing lives of young people, approve their amusements, create expressions of joy and pleasure that makes for Christian character and bless their lives with Christian modesty.

The farm is the nursery of civilization, and the paragon of all religious denominations. Too long has the farm furnished the cities with their great preachers, until today the rural church is the gangway to city pulpits. The current should be reversed. The power of the pulpit is most needed in the country where the fundamental forces of human life originate. The farm is the powerhouse of all progress and the birthplace of all that is noble. The Garden of Eden was in the country and the man who would get close to God must first get close to nature. Many communities are church-ridden. We frequently have three or four churches in a community with a circuit rider once a month preaching to small congregations and all fail to perform the religious functions of the community. In many instances, more harmonious effort might result in a more efficient service. The division of religious forces and breaking into fragments of moral effort are oftentimes little less than a calamity and defeat the purposes they seek to promote.

A pastor in a neighborhood, studying the economic, social, moral and educational problems of the community, presenting fresh visions of potential possibilities and native power with beauty and new meaning, interpreting the thought-life of the community and administering to their daily needs, will contribute more to the advancement of a locality than a dozen preachers who occupy the pulpits at irregular intervals, preaching on subjects foreign to the life of the community.

Church prejudice is a vice that saps much of the spiritual life of a community, and wasteful sectarianism is a religious crime against society. Denominational reciprocity should take its place. Non-support of church institutions and religious lethargy can often be traced to causes inherent with the church. There should be co-operation between churches and co-ordination of moral effort along economic lines, and there must be if the rural churches of this state are going to render a service which this age demands.

68 COURSES OFFERED BY MAIL IN U. OF O. UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Ore., Sept. 22.—Sixty-eight correspondence courses, free except for the nominal fee that covers postage but intended mainly for residents of Oregon, are offered by the state university this year to the people who cannot leave their regular work to attend a higher educational institution.

These 68 courses are in the following subjects: Architecture, bird study, botany, debating, economics, education, electricity, English, geology, German, history, home biology, journalism, literature, mathematics, philosophy, physics, psychology, sociology. Among the new courses are several of special interest to Oregon teachers: History of modern elementary education; secondary education; problems of education; advanced courses in teachers' English composition. Dr. H. D. Sheldon of the department of education, and Dr. George Rebec, professor of philosophy, will this year aid in giving correspondence instruction.

Belgiums Raid Germany. ANTWERP, Sept. 23.—Led by King Albert, the Belgians were raiding the southwest coast today. The Germans had withdrawn the bulk of their forces to aid their army in France and the Belgians were attacking their lines of communication. They were not approaching Brussels, however, fearing to bring upon the city the same fate as that which befell Louvain.

Fighting was reported at Malines and in the general direction of Liege. To Rush War Measures. WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The house voted today to suspend the operation of a rule allowing seven hours' debate on the war tax bill, without the privilege of amending and with only one motion to recommitt. It was also agreed to give the Alexander government ship purchase bill privileged status, which probably will result in its being taken up for consideration Friday.

Vienna Riots Reported. LONDON, Sept. 22.—Daily riots in Berlin and Vienna, the looting of shops in the poorer sections of both cities and the shooting of women in connection with the alleged disorders were reported in a news agency dispatch received here today from Gen. ova. The same dispatch denied that the German war loan was over-subscribed, as asserted in Berlin advices, and declared Italian and Swiss bankers had been asked to subscribe to it.

Berlin Regrets Rheims. WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The following wireless message from Berlin was received today at the German embassy here: "Rheims lies along the French battle line and we regret that they were forced to answer the fire from there. The city suffered but orders were given to spare the cathedral. The subscription to the German war loan amounts to 4,200,000,000 marks."

Germany Blame French. BERLIN, via The Hague, Sept. 22.—Replying to French denunciations of the German bombardment of the Rheims cathedral, newspapers of the fatherland, of the group casually considered government-inspired, asserted today that the French mounted guns on the building, from which they fired on the Kaiser's troops, making it necessary to shell the edifice.

Germania Blame French.
