FORMERLY TO HOLD OFFICE in a city or town government, placed an interrogation mark against your reputation.

At least, so many people believed. In a great many places there was and is reason for this feeling.

Probably the greatest difficulty in the way of efficient local government in American cities lies in the unwillingness of business and professional men to accept public office.

This may sound well as an excuse when your neighbors ask you to run for the school board or the state legislature.

Yet what satisfaction is there in going through life and doing nothing for your home town? What an inglorious old age it is, when a man sits down on his dollars, and has no record of service to his fellows!

The experience of holding office, even in a local government, or in the lower branch of a state legislature, is a valuable and rewarding one to any man, no matter how high one's position in life.

If only our best and brightest men could feel the call to this service, inefficiency and crookedness would disappear.

A CORRESPONDENT asks this newspaper to say something on the question of planting trees. Probably four-fifths of all trees set out are started in the spring.

Country Life in America, an authority on rural matters, recently printed an article in which it spoke of the excellent results that can be had by planting early in November.

Farmers realize too little how a good tree growth would beautify their land and add to its selling value.

Even looking at the thing from a money point of view, they fail to realize how much handsome trees add to the selling value of an estate.

What a dry and dusty thing a country road is without any shade! Trees can be profitably set out along the highways much more than people realize.

EVERY AGE HAS ITS "COME-OUTERS." They are people of strong individuality, who like to see positive results, but are unwilling to wait for them.

For one occasion where the "come-outer" and separatist triumphs, there are a hundred where it loses.

The separatist spirit insists on certain positive opinions as essential to salvation. Anyone who does not subscribe to these creeds is relegated to the ranks of the unsaved, is a "standpatter," and "reactionary."

If you want to get a majority in favor of any program, you have got to compromise. It becomes necessary to give up the immediate realization of your hope in many particulars.

It was once said of a certain man that he would never get married, because he would stop in the middle of the ceremony, and insist that if those vows meant this or that, he would not make them.

If the Democrats are ever to be dislodged, the Republicans and Progressives must vote together. Today the Progressive party is a mere side-show to the circus.

UNNECESSARY SACRIFICES Many men are forced to heavy and unnecessary sacrifices to obtain money for pressing business needs or for individual requirements.

Interesting to Gardeners. A French chemist attributes to carbonate of manganese, in very minute quantities, the power of rendering fertilizers more readily assimilable without undergoing any change itself. Experiments have tended to show that with the use of an ounce to about seven square yards germination was more free, growth more rapid, and yield better—that is, used with other fertilizers. By itself it is supposed to have no effect whatever.—London Express.
