THREE ARE HELD AFTER ALLEGED ATTEMPT TO ROB

SERIOUS CHARGES MAY BE MADE AGAINST TUALATIN WOOD-CHOPPERS.

PRISONERS, SALVOMAN, UNABLE TO TELL STORY TO THE OFFICIALS

John Kamme Sounded by Teakettle of Boiling Water Alleged to Have Been Thrown by Employee.

Following a dispute concerning the payment of wages, three Salvomans, whose names have not yet been learned were arrested late Saturday afternoon by Sheriff Wilson and Deputy Frost on a charge of assaulting John Kamme and William Fredericks. The three Salvomans had worked for Kamme three weeks and Saturday afternoon the latter went to the woods to cut wood for the work. He took with him Fredericks, a farmer living near Tualatin, and the two, after a discussion of several minutes in the cabin, were attacked by one of the Salvomans, according to the story Kamme told at the courthouse Saturday night. One of the men grabbed a teakettle full of boiling water from the stove and threw it at Kamme and Fredericks, said Kamme. Fredericks then jumped through a window and escaped, but Kamme, who received the full force of the scalding water on his back, was unable to escape. He says that one of the Salvomans then picked up a butcher knife and raised it to strike him but that another of the three grabbed his partner in time to save his life, claims the wood owner. After taking all the money he had, amounting to $40.00, Kamme claims that he was able to escape and painfully found his way across the country, to the town of Tualatin where help was summoned. Sheriff Wilson and Deputy Frost left Oregon City as soon as word was received here. The Salvomans left their cabin for Tualatin, where they paid a small grocery bill and then started toward the Clackamas county line. Just this side of the boundary, the three were arrested. At the courthouse Saturday night, District Attorney Hedges, Sheriff Wilson, Deputy Frost even with the aid of several interpreters were unable to secure a connected statement from the Salvomans. From bills in possession of Kamme, it is believed that the name of the fellow who is alleged to have thrown the teakettle at Kamme is Martin Parsich. Kamme lives near Gresham and has been in Oregon for some time. Several sons are in business in Portland.

ORR DIVORCE CASE BROUGHT TO END

SUPREME COURT DISMISSES ATTEMPT TO ANNUL DECREE SIGNED IN 1911.

$68,000 ESTATE HUNG IN BALANCE

State Alleged Fraud in Action to Set Aside Separation—Charges and Counter-Charges Are Many.

With the filing of a mandate dismissing an appeal to the supreme court, the Orr divorce case, which has been in the circuit and supreme courts since 1911 was brought to an end Monday day.

Mrs. Hannah M. Orr sued for a divorce from Gus Orr, alleged blind pig proprietor, organizer for several lodges and ex-saloonkeeper, May 19, 1911, and the decree was signed June 19, 1911. The couple was married August 5, 1899, in El Paso, Texas. Six months after the decree was signed, Orr married Mrs. Mary Burke who died after a married life of 18 months. Mrs. Orr became Mrs. Byron Mills. The attention of District Attorney Gilbert Hedges was called to the case and early in 1914 a motion to set aside the decree was filed and shortly afterward an appeal to the high court, based on the general grounds of fraud.

The state alleged in the supreme court brief that Orr prompted his wife to divorce him, furnished the money for the case in order to marry Mary Burke, then an old woman and worth in the neighborhood of $68,000. Bertha Platzer, who the state alleged is a close friend of Orr, married Henry Burke, sister of Mary Burke. Henry Burke died while he and his wife were making a trip to England and was buried in London.

When Mrs. Orr, the second, died she left Orr her entire estate of $68,000. The state alleged that the divorce from Mrs. Orr, the first, and the marriage to Mary Burke was nothing but a conspiracy on the part of Orr to gain possession of her property and that Bertha Platzer, in marrying Henry Burke, was prompted by the same motives. Four briefs and reply briefs and a mass of other legal papers have been filed in the action. If the supreme court had set aside the decree, the subsequent marriages of both Mr. and Mrs. Orr would have been set aside and the estate of Mrs. Mary Orr would be taken from Orr.

NEW TRAIN MAY BE PUT ON BY THE S. P. COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., March 3.—A limited train up the valley on the Southern Pacific with Cottage Grove as the terminus, is a possibility in the near future. If the train is put on it will probably leave here in time to get residents of the valley into Portland about 10:30 a. m. The south-bound train will probably leave Portland about 6 a. m. The addition of this train will probably result in the removal of one of the other trains. It is understood that a complete change of schedule is contemplated.
