No Witches Burned. It is a curious thing that people in general can never get over the delusion that people were burned for witchcraft at Salem. Every little while we see some newspaper or literary reference to the "burning of witches at Salem." Witches were hanged at Salem, but none was ever burned. By the way, a distinguished legal authority has examined the evidence used in the witchcraft cases at Salem and declares that it was irrefragable—all of the incanted and most conclusive sort. No jury would fall to convict today on such evidence as was adduced in these cases. Just the same, witchcraft was a horrible delusion.—New York Mail.

COUNTRY DECLARED FILLED WITH SPIES

SPANISH WAR VETERANS SAY THAT COUNTRY IS HONEYCOMBED WITH AGENTS

CHICAGO, May 15.—That the United States is a honeycombed with spies as any European nation, was asserted by speakers at the national convention of the Naval and Military Order of the Spanish-American war here today. The spy question was raised in the discussion of a resolution by Major Edward Schulte, of Connecticut, calling upon public men to cease "blasting" the reputation of the United States as a power. He said when weak points in the country's defense were found, the proper authorities should be notified instead of the administration's being held up to ridicule. Opponents of the resolution said the country was so filled with spies that it was of no consequence what public speakers said about the country's defense.

Modern War Methods.

Napoleon would not have broken down so soon if he had been able to use automobile, telephone and telegraph. Generals a few generations ago were young men, because they soon broke down under the hardships of campaigning. They had to live in the saddle and keep the field under eye in order to be able to direct the movements. Nowadays the general stays in his base quarters, where he follows operations on a map as reports come in by telephone and telegraph, occasionally by motorcycle, from various parts of the line. When he goes on a tour of inspection he rolls along in a motorcar at his ease.—British Medical Journal.
