PALMER WILL AGAIN LEAD PARADE OF VETERANS AT G. A. R. MEETING

Commander in Chief of Grand Army Tells of 1865 Procession. Reviewed by Johnson Then, and Wilson Will View Pageant Now.

WASHINGTON—It is the second day of the grand review of the victorious armies of the Union, May 24, 1865. The day before the Army of the Potomac flowed in a seemingly endless stream of blue along Pennsylvania avenue, led by the bearded, scholarly Meade.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL DAVID J. PALMER.

His black mustache and piercing black eyes announcing his identity. The tumult that had greeted Sherman is repeated for the western general who has captured popular imagination.

And now come the foot soldiers, the fighting men of the Fifteenth corps, fresh from the march to the sea. Military men whisper that these first troops are of the First division of the corps and that the Third brigade, a brigade made up entirely of Iowa troops, is in the forefront.

But note their leader, an athletic figure of a young man. "The silver leaf of a lieutenant colonel?" marvels a diplomat, newly come to Washington. "That's nothing," said one, who knew more of the army. "We have brigadier generals quite as young."

"That is Lieutenant Colonel David J. Palmer, commanding the Twenty-fifth Iowa infantry in the absence of his colonel, who is and has been an acting brigadier general for some time past. That boy, as you call him, has led his regiment through the bitterest part of the war. He is a veteran campaigner. And yet, early in the war, he was left for dead on the field of Shiloh."

RIFLE SHOOTING BOOMED BY WAR EASTHAM UNFOLDS LAND GRANT PLAN

Government to Hold Big Match on Florida Range. CIVILIANS' SCORES ARE HIGH

Many New Clubs Formed, and Unusual Interest is Shown in Approaching Tournaments—Teams From Various Organizations and Colleges to Compete For Valuable Prizes.

Rifle shooting is now having a great boom in the country. Interest undoubtedly has been aroused in target shooting by the demand for a better state of preparation for the country's defense.

Never before has the government been so generous in its efforts to make this shooting tournament a success. The last congress appropriated $50,000 to assist the states in paying transportation charges of their teams to Florida.

The range in Florida is a new one, second only in size to the Camp Perry range of Ohio and second to the famous Sea Girt (N. J.) range in its natural beauty.

German Departed From Many Finds Children Here After France. Bordenstown, N. J.—After a reunion with his daughter, Mrs. Edrad Auer of North Arlington, whom he had not seen for twenty-two years, Albert Bookmann visited his son Harry Bookmann here the other day.

New Members Sought. The National Rifle Association of America, with offices in Washington, has begun a campaign for 100,000 members at $2 each. The receipts are to constitute a fund which will be used in an effort to put rifle shooting in this country on a plane with other sports such as base ball and football.

On His Day of Rest. On his day off William Anderson, in Los Angeles, Cal., blundered into a stable, was bit by a watchdog, kicked by four horses, assaulted by twelve Chinamen, who thought him a thief; fell from a seven foot fence trying to escape and was arrested as a plain drunk.

Thanked For Their Kindness. Two jail breakers have post carded authorities of Montclair, N. J., thanking them for favors shown and apologizing for their sudden leaving taking.
