STAFFORD.

(Special Correspondence.) This community received another shock on Sunday morning, when flames were seen issuing from Dick Oldenstad's house. Neighbors rushed to the scene to offer help, but the house being old and dry, burned fiercely, and soon was a mass of coals where but an hour before had stood a happy, prosperous home. The husband was hauling a barrel of water, as the continued dry weather had run some wells dry, theirs among them. The mother was preparing ducks and other toothsome viands for dinner, as company was expected, while the oldest daughter was helping the younger sisters to comb their hair and dress for the day, when the fire was discovered issuing from a closet. It had gained such headway before discovered that even an abundance of water could not have quenched the flames. The mother and daughter grabbed what they could and fled, although they succeeded in dragging out the organ, somewhat blistered, the sewing machine and a few chairs and a couch.

The canned fruit was stored in another small building, and they succeeded in carrying that out to a distance before that building also caught fire and burned to the ground. There was but small insurance. In addition to the loss of household goods, etc., there was about $10 in gold and silver, a part of which the children have recovered from the ruins, fused together and melted, and two watches and other valuables, hard to be replaced. They were left with but the clothes they stood in, and the women who had collected hastened home and collecting what they had stored away of old and new, hastened to Mrs. Sudding's house where two machines and many busy fingers made garments for them all the rest of the day, remembering that

He went to bring his wife and daughter home from Fred Oldenstad's and as he turned to come back he ran off the corner of a fill and turned the car completely over. A thick growth of bushes prevented them going to the bottom of the ravine, a number of feet below. Mr. Thomas, who was driving after his wife, hastily hitched his horse and ran to their assistance, and by cutting and pulling away some of the bushes, they managed to crawl out, and found, aside from a few bruises, they were unhurt. The wife and daughter were not in the car, but the son, John, had accompanied his father, fearing he was not yet strong enough to run the car. Mr. Kollmeier, the cream gatherer, came along and performed the Good Samaritan act, by pulling the car out and offering to take it home for them, but the son found, beyond a wrecked top and bent radiator rods, the machine seemed to be unharmed, so he managed to run it home on its own wheels, and another narrow escape is recorded.

THE BEST TEST

Is the Test of Time

Years ago this Oregon City resident told of good results from using Doan's Kidney Pills. Now Mr. Busch confirms the former statement—says there has been no return of the trouble. Can Oregon City people ask for more convincing testimony?

F. H. Busch, Jr., hardware dealer, cor. 11th & Main Sts., Oregon City, says: "I had an acute attack of kidney and bladder trouble. I found no relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They stopped the trouble after I had used two boxes." (Statement given on March 29th, 1916.)

Permanent Benefit

More than three years later, Mr. Busch said: "I still have confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills and can endorse them as highly as ever. I have had no need of a kidney medicine since I used Doan's Kidney Pills."
