MORNING ENTERPRISE. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1915.

SYNOPSIS.

<section-header><section-header><text><text><text><text>

official dispatch announces that the Serbians have recaptured the town of Veles on the railroad southeast of Uskup, after desperate fighting.

LONDON. Oct. 26 .- The report that Turkish troops are being concentrated at Burgas, Varna and other points on the Black sea coast of Bulgaria, is reiterated in advices received here today from Athens.

Renter's correspondent says that Turks are to oppose Russian attempts to land troops, having replaced Bulgarians because it was feared the latter could not be counted on to resist the Russians.

graph company says:

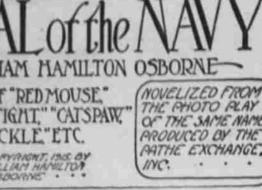

"F ive thousand German soldiers from Constantinople are replacing Bulgarians at points in the Black sea littoral. Defense of the coast has been entrusted to Germany."

PARIS, Oct. 26 .- "Quiet has prevailed along the Franco-Bulgarian front Coronado were dead or nearly so, and cried, with a note of triumph in his since yesterday," says a Saloniki dis- the decks were strewn with disabled. patch under date of Monday, October bleeding mutineers. 25, to the Havas News Agency. "The French are fortifying intensively the waved h's hand and a small squad of region they occupied east of the rail- his companions joined him. He sought road between Gievgeli and Krivolsk. and tound his mother and her fright-The Bulgarians are masters of the Krivolak-Vranya section of the line. They occupy Uskup, Kumanovo and Ristovac.

"The Germans are pressing their advance on the Danube front, but their progress is slow and difficult."

ders for a search. The search was made, but without avail, for at midnight on the night before something two companions, together with his cargo of cocaine and heroin, had slipped quietly overboard into a borrowed rowhoat and had disappeared. Neal, chagrined, went back to Annette. "The bird has flown," he said disgruntled. "Where do you go, Neal?" queried his mother.

"It's an open secret where we go," said Neal, "but why we go nobody knows. We go first to Martinique-Annette sprang to her feet. "Martinique," she cried, "that is where my father came from-where you picked me up. 1 go there, too, Neal. It's the beginning point. It is there I can find men already within the hut admitted trace of my father." Ines shrugged her shoulders. "It is fate," she said. "We will all go," said Mrs. Hardin, "we will stick to Neal. But how?" "Search me," said Neal, "but I can he said.

find that out-there must be some vessel from this port for southern waters." lnes rose and placed a hand on

Castro was looking for something other than a boat for Martinique. Finally she saw what she was looking for-a grimy hand thrust from behind

Pausing before the door of a dis-

"Sol" she said airily, pushing Joe

"Where" demanded Hernandez.

"Te Martinique," said Inez Castro,

Hernandez smiled and slapped his

He laid down the piece of tat-

"I knew your father well fifteen or

"I remember something else.

. . . .

Welcher's shoulder. "Leave it to Joey THE CAVERN OF DEATH here and me," she said. They scoured the town, but Inez

CHAPTER XXV.

SIXTH INSTALLMENT

A Secret Service Message. Neal turned to Annette. "Good," he exclaimed, "you're safe at any rate. a window shade. Where is my mother-where are the reputable-looking habitation. she rest?" "In the wireless room," returned An- glanced up and down the street, then nette. She laughed a bit hysterically. dragging Joe Welcher close behind "Even Joe Welcher is guite safe," she her she entered the low doorway and passed into the gloom beyond. A mosaid.

Neal held her for a moment, shield- ment later she faced Hernandez and A dispatch to the Exchange Tele- ing her body with his own. He looked his crew. about him.

"This mutiny is over," he said, in a Welcher into a chair, "so my flash friends, where do you think we go to tone of relief. He was quite right. The mutiny now?"

was over, but with disastrous results. Neal's commanding officer lay on the deck with a fractured skull. The captain and the mate of the fruit steamer | thigh. "So you go to Martinique," he voice. "How very fortunate. I go to Martinique myself." "Now come with me." said Neal. He The governor of Martinique glanced gravely at the pretty girl who faced him. tered parchment that he had just inened companions, Joe Welcher and the Castro girl-known to the rest as spected and took up the locket that Irene Courtier. He led them aft and she placed before him. placed a guard over them. sixteen years ago-even before that. "Now." he said warningly, "stay where you are, mother, and all the I remember him. This resembles him, rest. You, too, Annette. I've got my this picture, it does indeed." He smiled. work cut out for me for some hours." I remember also you." Annette shook her head. "Not until "You remember me," cried Annette. dress your arm," she said.

"You must have a wonderful memory, Neal nodded to one of his companions. "Mate," he said, "shoot the first sir." The governor held up his hands. person who disobeys. I've got other "One remembers everything that hapfish to fry."

one moment on the edge of the cliff nimbly he leaped over the face of the cliff, striking his heels into the edge of that perilous path some thirty feet or more below-and then in spite of his huge bulk ran like a deer down else happened. Hernandez and his to the beach,

The men above dropped their burden and watched him. "Ah," said Hernandez to his comrade Ponto. "the beast-he knows that Razor Back. He has not forgotten fitteen years ago."

There was a touch upon Hernandez' shoulder. Hernandes whirled as nandes. Come, let us ascend to the though at the fall of a trigger. A third man faced him, low-browed, cunning-eyed. Hernandez breathed a sigh of relief. Half an hour later, with his final load strapped to his back, the brute climbed for the last time over the edge of the cliff, this time bearing his comes." own burden to the hut. The three

bim. There was no window to this hut, steps ceased and there was a knock and the light within was dim. The upon the door. room was bare. "Tidy little bungalow, friend smuggler of Martinique," fortune," he returned. "At any rate it's safe. You think all the palace matches it. Come with me."

The other man smiled grimly in his "Tidy is the word, soldier of turn.

He strode to the corner of the hut and threw aside a matchbox. Leaning down he cleared away a number of short wormeaten heards, then he lift- watching. Suddenly there was a light ed up a sheetiron door. With an ex- tread upon the graveled path. A to a stanchion in another corner. The deniy disappeared. He came up in an clamation of surprise Hernandez and his companions observed that there light and looked about him. Out of geway cut was a narrow pas through the solid earth. One by one tered about the verandas of the diseach man lowered himself into this tant house Neal peered anxiously for passageway and followed his leader. Annette llington. From a perpendicular shaft the corridor shelled off into a passage almost horizontal and widened as it went. "This," said the smuggler of Martinique, "is the third story, as it were. across the intervening space and Neat, not gaudy." "Now for the bathroom, if you please."

This man, in reality a giant, looked "Oh, well, if you will," said the like a pygmy from below as he smuggler, "but one must swim under crawled hand over hand to the heights water to find the other outlet." He above. At the edge of the cliff he was folded his arms. "What do you think assisted by two other men who of my palace now?" he said.

dragged him on to terra firma and He stooped and plucked at another who relieved him of his burden. This fron ring in the floor. It disclosed a burden they carried between them to smaller hole-filled with contents of a hut. Before doing so they cut the strange appearance.

big man across the shoulders with a Hernandes seized the lantern. whip and pointed to the shore below. ""What of this"" he said. "This com-The big man nodded. He stood for modity I do not know."

"Careful," exclatmed the ether man, and gazed about him. He gauged the "If those ghouls, the authorities, ever grade of the wicked, sharp, big Razor have the temerity to discover my Hack, and nodded om # again; then cache, I shall not be here. I shall be a mile away-a mile, not less; and from that safe point of vantage I shall press a button and-pout-none will ever live to tell the tale-none, save myself."

> Hernandez eyed the other man with undisguised admiration.

"How I should like to see it work," he said.

The other nodded. "Some daywho knows-you shall, for you are a man after my own heart, friend Herskylight once again."

They did as they were bid and assisted the gentleman of Martinique to, lower his new stores to their resting place below. Suddenly the man of Martinique held up his hand. "Wait," he whispered, "someone,

Their trained ears detected the sound of stealthy footsteps creeping around and around the hut. The foot-

Outside there stood a man-a man who sprang back in alarm at the sight of the crafty countenance of this cunning-looking stranger. But Hernandes clicked his teeth.

"It's Joe Welcher," said Hernandez, "Come in, Joey boy, you're welcome." Welcher looked about him and then sidled to Hernandes.

"A note from Ines," he whispered to the latter, "about the governor's le-

CHAPTER XXVII.

Decoy. Neal leaped out of one of the small boats of the destroyer Jackson and ran nimbly up the wharf. He had good reason to, for on the veranda of a hotel not a quarter of a mile away cautiously. he saw a girl he knew. In record time he was by her side.

"Look," said Annette to Neal's bearer.

mother and Inez, "look who's here." "Always," said Inez, "do I like a uniform and," she added covly, with a leer toward Neal, "and what comes in them too."

"You got my note?" queried Annette. "I got it." returned Neal, "but no g0. "What are you talking about ?" said

Annette. "We are specially invited by the governor himself."

"I'm out of it, I tell you," repeated Neal. "But I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll come to the back gate of the gov ernor's garden and I'll flirt with you."

Many came and most were served that night. But among the first to come, though none were served, were four uninvited guests. They were a strange quartet, these four, and they came to see rather than to be seen. Each one of these four men became a shadow in himself, watching, ever jaunty figure swung into the moon- place was a rude hut. the hundred guests or so that clus- alone."

With a Mighty Roar Dropped Into the Sea.

then stepped directly to the governor Annette viewed this proceeding and handed him the note. with alarm. She struggled flercely. "This is the young lady here, Fran-Five minutes later the brute re-cols," exclaimed the governor. turned and once more under the sting-Annette took the note to a window ing lash of the whip selzed Annette where there was somewhat better and bore her below. Hernandez and light, and opened it. It was written his two companions followed them in a srawling, unaccustomed hand down, "Ah," said the smuggler to Neal and

This is what it said: Have seen scar face. Need you a Annette, "this house has all appointmoment for identification. We have ments. This is the swimming pool, run him down. Come with bearer of my friends. You can swim here for this note. Excuse scrawl-right hand one hour-or less. This is in truth N. G. Hastily, a cavern of death. I hate to do it.' NEAL. he added just before he disappeared.

P. S .- Don't drag mother into this. "but needs must when the devil Come as you are. drives." Annette beckoned to the flunky,

"Where," she said, "is the bearer of dropped into place, this note T said.

ing hat in hand-a man with cunning eyes and insinuating smile.

"Mr. Hardin sent you?" she inquired. Neal worked himself along his side of The man bowed. "Oul, mademol- the ledge and Annette along hers, selle," he returned. each gradually approaching the other "Where is he now?" she queried around the circle. Finally their heads touched.

"Where he said he would wait-by "Careful," said Neal; "close to the the postern garden gate," returned the wall. Now let me have your hands. Let me unbind you first."

Disarmed, she followed this man into the shadows.

a carriage and an instant later some across the wilderness into a ravine. thing descended over her head, smothering her cries-something bound her lifting up the cover of a metal box tom of the carriage.

sharply off into the night. CHAPTER XXVIII.

The Sponge Diver.

Annette opened wide her eyes. She uttered an exclamation of delight as she saw Neal Hardin, "Well, we're here," she said.

"I should think we were," said Neal. He looked about him. Annette was bound firmly to the only chair in the place and he was tied quite as firmly

"I see," said Neal, "that we're not Hernandez and his companions loaded In another instant she had reached their cases into a cart and drove far "Here," said the man of Martinique, arms to her side. But the smuggler set in the rock, "here is the switch of had been right. Neal was there, bound which I spoke. One turn of the wrist-

On the surface of the earth above

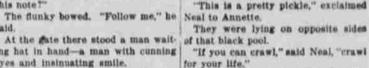

There was a click as the stone trap

Annette understood. Little by little and speechless-helpless on the bot- pouf-then oblivion." "I gave them an hour," said Hernan-An instant later the vehicle rattled des grimly, "and I keep my word. Let us drink." On the shore below the cliff at the foot of the forbidding Razor Back a sponge diver disported himself in the water beside his boat, cutting and tearing sponges from their native home of rock and coral for a living. Then suddenly he forgot the business of collecting sponges.

He rose again, empty handed this time, and dived again, peering at something strange and new. Then with downward-slanting strokes he sudinstant in almost total darkness, then bobbing on the surface he rubbed his eyes, jabbering excitedly. "Hey there," cried a voice, "and who

IN FACE OF BITTER OPPOSITION The orders were brief and to the

SCHOOL BOARD TAKES

STEP.

point:

Hke this:

dog tired."

rest, prevent. Report.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 21 .-- Despite cause he had to. the radical opposition of "anti-militarists," who declared that voluntary own lieutenant's wounds carefully and queried. military instruction in the high scientifically dressed-had all his schools is "un-American because mili- own companions well attended to-in tary" and a measure that "was not the short, in a few hours he had righted outgrowth of popular demand," the the ship completely. members of the school board adopted He signaled for further orders, for today the recommendation offered by the Coronado was now resting quietly the teachers' committee, approving the at anchor, and he got his orders: principle of military instruction in the Portland high schools.

Enrollment of the high school students in the Oregon National Guard nearest port-had docked. By midand the naval militia is the form of night he had landed all his passengers training that was unanimously agreed and had reported considerable progupon. This decision followed a can. ress to his commander on the Jackvass of the students by City Superin- son. By midnight something else happened-a secret service message tendent Alderman, filtered through space and got the

OREGON SCORES HIGH IN NATIONAL MATCH arms and ammunition at Martinique or Porto Rico for Dolores insurrec-tion. Follow at once. Investigate, ar-

PORTLAND, Ore. Oct. 22.-Adjutant into Neal. He took it to the homely General George A. White and the offi- little hotel where Annette and his cers of the National Guard who re- mother and their party had been harceived the news this morning are jubilant that the national rifle team match ending yesterday at Jacksonville, Fla., "Now the Oregon team was second among the national guard teams, and fifth in competition with teams from the state national guards and the United States service.

Only Massachusetts passed Oregon face. Oregon is higher than the teams from the United States navy, West Point and Annapolis. Only the United he cried. "Where? When? What?" States infantry, United States marines. United States cavalry and Massachusetts go ahead of the Oregon's score two companions, the big man and the other. of 3574 out of a possible 4000.

The Oregon team at the 1000 yard range, the most difficult of all, passed every team of the 44, and thereby pulled itself from ninth to fifth place. At the end of the first day at rapid He boarded the Coronado and gave orfire 200 and 300 yards, Oregon was 16, getting a bad start. At the 600 yard range Oregon pulled up to ninth place The shooting was at 200 and 300 yards rapid fire; 300, 600 and 1000 yards slow fire.

Nish may not be Serbia's fin-Nish, addition to Milwaukie; $500. after all.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Real estate transfers were filed with Laura W. Baxter, quit claim deed to Recorder Dedman Thursday as fol- tract in the David Keller tract; $10, lows:

Farmland company to W. B. Glafke, Hitchman, 11% acres in the J. G. To lots I and 4, block 45, and lots 1, block | ner donation land claim; $1. 58, First subdivision of Oak Grove: Recorder Dedman Saturday as fol-$10

pened in a year like that," he said, "a He went back to his work. He wigyear that wiped out thousands upon wagged to the Jackson for his orders. thousands of our people." "Is there any clue to my father?" queried Annette.

"You take charge of the steamer. "Little one," said the governor. We are sending help." "there was no clue to anything or any-He took charge of the steamer, not wireless operator on the destroyer.

Reduced from cipher, it read about

Next morning this news had filtered bored for the night. He dropped into

"Now," he said, "I can talk and Annette pouted; then she smiled. "I love to talk," she said. And then she added two significant words. "Scar-

Neal leaped to his feet. "Scar-face,"

"On the Coronado," said Annette.

"Tell me everything," said Neal.

listen to some talk. Gee whiz, but I'm body, or any place." only because he was ordered, but be-Annette rose, "There's nothing else that you remember of my father?" she Inside of half an hour he had his

"The governor searched his mem-"Yes," he said. "I think a mys-OFF. tery-there was a tang of adventure about him. He, too, was a rover-always restless-always on the move. But for his child one might have called him a soldier of fortune-honest, perhaps too honest, but fearless-" "Put into the nearest port."

"And true," said Annette. By midnight they had reached the "Fearless and true," repeated the governor nodding.

"What is past is past," he said. "Old Pelee is ashamed of himself. The Hernandez. Isle of Martinique grows green. We sing, we laugh, my people and myself. said the other man. Even all this week we celebrate. You must join us." He signed half a dozen cards of invitation and handed them to Joe Welcher, who sat quite as usual, sulking in the background. "The American citizen said collecting governor's levee," he went on airily, arms and ammunition at Martinique "and you are all invited." CHAPTER XXVI.

The Razor Back.

Around the corner of the coast line on the lale of Martinique-invisible both from the bridge of the destroyer Jackson and from the grounds of the governor, there jutted out into the sea a cliff, stern and forbidding. As a matter of fact, it was not all rock, this cliff-a large part of its formation was of clay. Down the face of this cliff, its sharp edges rising now and then into the air like peaks, there trailed a path, narrow and perilous. from shore to cliff edge, known to certain of the inhabitants of Martinique as the Razor Back. Along this sharp, steep edge ran

"I saw him twice-Scar-face and his a rope, and climbing the Razor Back, clinging to this rope with a huge hurden on his shoulders, upward crawled She told him. He waited impaa man. Below him, thrusting its nose tiently until she had finished, then into the beach, was a disreputabledarted down upon the wharf again.

looking post laden with heavy wooden

This time they descended a wider set of stairs and stepped out upon a kept Annette within the range of arledge that surrounded a deep and limpid pool of water. Hernandez regard- in the moonlight out beyond. ed this pool attentively.

"First it rises," he exclaimed, "and then it falls." "Ah," said the man of Martinique,

"we are at sea level. This is a cave and there is no outlet to it." "Somewhere there is," returned "Yes, in the attic-the sky parlor,"

"Somewhere else," said Hernandez,

He trilled a little whistle-his signal and Annette's-and as though that whistle were a signal for an onslaught. a huge shadow and another sprang caught Neal from behind. A coat or cloak descended over his head with all the effectiveness of a strait-jacket.

tificial light and from her appointment While she still talked to the governor, an individual with cunning eyes and insinuating leer stepped up to the flunky at the main gate that led to the governor's mansion and handed him a note.

"For a guest-Miss Hington," he said. "I am to wait for an answer."

The flunky nodded, summoned another flunky, and handed him the note. The flunky made an inquiry or two

"Obviously not," returned Annette. On the floor between them lay the brute resting but wide eyed with the are you?"

lash of a whip lying across his shoulders. Ponto, the Mexican, watched red eyed and gloating. Something happened in a corner, A portion of the floor rose from the ground and two men struggled up pool. from a passageway. One of them was Hernandez; the other was the smug-

It was the governor himself who gler of Martinique. Hernandez nodded to Neal and to Annette. He took from his pocket a tattered parchment map which he had pasted well together.

"It is the map of the lost Iale of He glanced uncertainly toward the brute. "An identifying locket," he went on, "and other things." "What do you expect to do with them?" said Annette belligerently.

"You are not Annette Ilington." Hernandez smiled-smiled a bit too grimly. "Perhaps," he said, "I can find some Annette Ilington who will do my bidding. At any rate there will hereafter be no Annette Ilington who will try to thwart me." Neel started. "What do you mean?"

he said. "I mean," returned Hernandez, with a gesture toward the smuggler of Martinique, "that in all parts of the world I am able to find people who do my bidding. This gentleman can do it well. I may as well tell you, children, that you have perhaps an hour to live, perhaps less."

The brute looked up, his eyes glassy, strange. He rubbed a red spot on his arm-the mark left by Hernandez' hypodermic needle.

"You are right, Ponto," said Hernandez, "it was the only way to drug him Lend me your whip."

He selzed the whip and struck the brute heavily across the shoulders. The brute sprang to his feet, growling in his throat, but he fell back before Hernandez.

Ponto untied a single knot-the knot that bound Neal to a stanchion. Then at another word the brute seized Neal, struggling, in his arms, and with him descended through the passageway.

The sponge diver jabbered some more. Well might he jabber. It was a strange sight that confronted him. Two young people were seated almost in darkness on the edge of a black

"How did you get here?" queried Neal.

The man for all his jabbering was polygiot. He knew pidgin English and Neal knew how to talk it, so they got along admirably together. Neal told him his story. The man climbed up upon the ledge and listened eagerly. Cinnabar," he said in suave accents. dent that he knew the reputation of Suddenly he grew excited. It was evithis place.

"You come with me-come right away." he said.

Neal set the fast-waning lantern by Annette's side. "One moment, dear," he said to Annette, "and I will be back. If what he says is true-

In another instant with his hand on the shoulder of the sponge diver, Neal was swimming down, down toward the outer opening. As he saw the light filtering in from underneath he gave a gasp that almost choked him.

In another instant he had returned for Annette, and with her at his side the two swam in the direction that the diver had taken.

The sponge diver, still gesticulating excitedly, hauled them rapidly into his small boat.

"Me row, you row-like the devil," he exclaimed.

Neal rowed like the devil, and the flat-bottomed boat skimmed over the water like mad. Suddenly Annette in the bow extended her right arm.

"Look, look, Neal," she exclaimed. "for God's sake, look."

Neal heard first, then he looked, and as he looked the -shole face of that huge cliff behind them thrust itself into the air and with a mighty roar dropped into the sea.

"It's Mount Pelee," cried Annette, covering her face with her hands. Neal shook his head. "That isn't Pelce," he returned grimly, it's dynamite-if I know anything of dynamite."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

THIS STORY IS REPRODUCED IN FILM AT THE GRAND THEATRE EVERY WEDNESDAY

Nels J. Jeral et ux. et al. to Arthur lows William Dale et ux to Eva F. Leigh-H. Zanders, lot 3, block 5, Streib's first Mary E. Shattuck to Laura W. Bax- $10. Harry H. Harriman to Leo S. Keller M.; $10. ter, deed to correct error in deed reet ux, lot 8, block 1347 Lake View Vilcorded in Book "H," page 489; $1.

Theodore Hazenberger et ux to las; $10. Walter Hitchman et ux. to Elmer donation land claim; $1.

Real estate transfers were filed with block 52; $1.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constinution, tainable everywhere.

Recorder Dedman Monday as follows: south, range 3 east, W. M.; $5500, Madge C. Montgomery et vir to ton et vir, lot 15, block 6, Estacada; Frank Johnson, 20 acres in section 36, to Robert Schmus et ux, 9,165 acres in bert et ux, 6,36 acres in the Daniel Motownship 2 south, range 7 east, W. section 22, township 2 south, range 2 ser D. L. C.; $1. east, W. M.; $10.

Melville J. Byers et ux, et al to Portland & Oregon City Rallway company, mueller, 70.07 acres in section 6, town- $900.

liott, 4.5 acres in the J. S. Howland south, range 3 east, W. M.; $600. Belle R. Funk to Louis Funk, 256 Scherzinger, 30 acres in section 32, gon City; $1. John W. Loder et ux to Walter A. acres in sections 3, 4, 9 and 10, town- township 4 south, range 3 east, W.

Dimick et ux, quitciami deed to lot 5, ship 3 south, range 3 east, W. M.; $1.

Real estate transfers were filed with ett. 135 acres in section 27, township 3 Moulton, 6.36 acres in the Daniel Mo- mann, 15 acres in sections 28, 29, 32 ridian; $10.

annoving parasites. 25c a box. (Adv.

ser D. L. C.; $1. Security Savings & Trust company Charles R. Moulton to William Hu- of Willamette meridian; $3500.

Jacob Grossmueller to Anna Gross- Williams, lot 4, block 39, Oregon City; $450.

Pred Schwok et ux to Emma T. El- 80 acres in section 13, township 2 ship 4 south, range 3 cast, W. M.; $10. Emma T. Elliott et vir to Marie Chatten, 40 acres in section 15, town-James L. McAnulty et ux to John Schwock et vir, lot 1, block 156, Ore- ship 2 south, range 3 east of Willam-

Real estate transfers were filed with Maybelle Plummer to Vida M. Gage, hip 3 south, range 3 east, W. M.; $1. L. W. Warner et ux to Nelson Hack-William Hubert et ux to Charles R. Recorder Dedman Tuesday as follows: 20 acres in section 36, township 4 Isaac T. Felts et ux to Fraz A. Schu-south, range 4 east of Williamette me-Recorder Dedman Tuesday as follows: 20 acres in section 36, township 4 and 33, township 3 south, range 1 west Frank Johnson to C. B. Duffy, 10 acres in section 36, township 2 south, Mrs. Nevedada L. Munsey to Daniel range 7 cast of Willamette meridian; Mutual Realty company to W. H. ette meridian; $10.

The Governor's Levee.