The farmers put in long hours during the good weather, but there are many acres to put in yet. We had a heavy rain Tuesday.

MACKSBURG.

MACKSBURG, April 12.—(Special)—The rain beginning on the evening of April 10th, put a sudden stop to the seeding and to the gardening, but there was plenty of work for the ranchers indoors—machinery was to be overhauled and out in repair, harness to be mended and oiled and improvements to be made in the housing of the stock.

To the housewives, also, work was not wanting. Indeed, as they had been in the gardens, much of the indoor work had of necessity been put aside, and though dreading the appearance of a rain cloud as forecast of interruption, welcomed the rain when it did come, for the opportunity it afforded to restore the usual order indoors. The down-pour had a reassuring sound, drowning as it did, the restless call that is ever haunting the true gardener to have him into the open air. Full well we know the sun would soon be showing again and pushing vegetation ahead of us before we could be ready for it.

Frank Hilton came home on Saturday but returned on Monday to his mountain ranch. Mr. Hilton reports the discovery of large deposits of bituminous coal on his ranch which, if all is as he thinks must be a fortune in itself.

The Molalla Creamery has established a route that takes in our neighborhood, greatly to the convenience of the ranchers who have hitherto been obliged to drive to Canby with their cream. Dave Mochmie has added his name to the growing list of auto-owners, having bought him a new machine last week.

Well would it be for us if in our nature were combined the beautiful and the useful as strikingly as to the feathered creatures of the air. That suggestion is there in their exquisite plumage or in their silvery tone of the way in which their maintenance is secured?—digging worms and repulsive insects out of the ground and from decaying wood, they fly upward from their revolting work as full of grace and of music as if they had never been anywhere, save in the pure light of the sky.

MARQUAM.

MARQUAM, April 12.—(Special)—The Ladies' Aid society is to have an ice cream social at the hall Friday evening, April 14th.
