MACKSBURG.

MACKSBURG, May 11.—(Special)—A people whose lifetime is one long play-day welcome a legal holiday with all the fervor of those who have but one or two days sursance from toil in the entire year, so do we cling to the departing Spring with its fresh verdure and newly awakened growth as fondly as those whose winters are bleak and bare, with only leafless trees and frozen ground to meet the eye for months.

Though our lawns never lose their green save in the Summer drought, and the song of the wild bird is never entirely hushed, though the roses stay with us till the Christmas-tide and the evergreen casts a perennial shade, we long for the Springtime with all its drenching rains and rushing winds, and cherish each passing day with its lengthening light, its thrilling bustle and stir to get the season's crop planted between the rains, the glad carol of returning birds, the lovely blossoms of the early and the embryo fruit of the late Spring. The one regretful thought that May brings along is that it is the last month of Spring.

Although the rain prevents planting just now, the delay seems likely to be made up by the rapid growth of crops that were earlier in the ground. Potatoes and corn are growing, strawberries are advancing rapidly and the long rows of Summer vegetables seem higher with each returning day. We have every indication that our potatoes will be ready for us before the end of June, strawberries in their prime before the month of May has left us, as other garden products will be in a few weeks.

Outside building, as well as land clearing, is at a standstill at present, but undone work is going on. Franz Craxberger is preparing to build a fine new barn and Ed. Morris is doing the same, while scarcely a ranch in this vicinity is without a considerable addition of newly cleared ground for the crops of the present year.

Frank Hilton, who came home from his mountain ranch ill with gripe a fortnight ago, has recovered sufficiently to return to his work of preparing his ranch for his family. Mr. Hilton finds his land exceptionally fertile and well drained. Working the ranch will be his present object, leaving to the future the development of the coal mine he has discovered on his place.

Ed. Craxberger's cheese factory patrons have increased in number so greatly that he is obliged to get a large truck to carry the daily supply of milk.

The Mothers' Club will meet May 11th with Mrs. Nora Hepler.

A Symbol of Health.

The Pythagorians of Ancient Greece ate simple food, practiced temperance and purity. As a badge they used the five pointed star which they regarded as a symbol of health. A red five pointed star appears on each package of Chamberlain's Tablets, and still fulfills its ancient mission as a symbol of health. If you are troubled with indigestion, biliousness or constipation get a package of these tablets from your druggist. You will be surprised at the quick relief which they afford. Obtainable everywhere. (Adv.)
