His head hit the concrete curbing and he was knocked unconscious. Dr. Frank Mount found that his skull is fractured. Condon—Contract has been let for building 50,000 bushel concrete grain elevator.

M'KAY FAILS TO GET BACK FORFEITED BAIL

Circuit Judge Campbell upholds demurrer filed by District Attorney.

The suit of Stanley McKay against Clackamas county and Justice of the Peace Sievers to collect $50 forfeited bail was knocked out by the county Monday when Circuit Judge Campbell upheld a demurrer filed by District Attorney Hedges. The court held that the way to regain the bail money was through a writ of review. McKay was tried and convicted on a charge of failing to give half a road to a passing vehicle after colliding with a buggy and injuring H. L. Harvey and Miss Marie Harvey last October. He fought the case strenuously and finally did win a trial without appearing in court in person to answer the charge. "If you uphold this demurrer, it leaves us between the devil and the deep sea," declared Walter A. Dimick attorney for McKay at one point in the hearing. "No it doesn't," interrupted the court. "It leaves you in the deep sea."

Alex DeFord knows kicking powers of pure ethyl alcohol. Alex DeFord is in the Clackamas county jail, willing to testify as to the hypnotic powers of pure alcohol when used as a beverage. "Take a few drinks and you won't know a thing," observes Mr. DeFord. He faces a charge of vagrancy. DeFord went to a dance at Clackamas Heights Saturday night accompanied by a bottle of alcohol. During the course of the evening he took several drinks and early the next morning he started home. From the time he left the dance until he slowly came to in the county jail, he says he knows little or nothing, but District Attorney Hedges has conclusive evidence showing that he broke into a house at Clackamas Heights by prying open a window with an axe, that he stole a roll of butter from the pantry and laid down besides the butter on a sofa in the front room of the house and went to sleep. Sunday morning the family arose to find DeFord in their parlor. Constable Frost was called and placed DeFord under arrest. "All I know about the affair is what the officers have told me," says DeFord. "I guess it must be so. Believe me, that 'white mule' has some kick." DeFord lives in Oregon City and works in a local paper mill.

Witness arrested as he leaves stand. As C. W. Blair, an important witness for the plaintiff in the $50,000 damage suit of the Northwest Door company against the Lewis Investment company, being tried in the court of Circuit Judge Gatens in Portland stepped from the court room after testifying Monday he was placed under arrest on a warrant issue here charging him with obtaining money by false pretenses. He had been subpoenaed from Los Angeles to appear in the case, and attorneys for the plaintiff immediately went his bond. Thought it is emphatically denied by the defense, it is asserted by those interested in the plaintiff's side of the case that the arrest was merely a move to discredit the witness. The complaint against Blair is sworn to by Ben Friedman, a grocer, 305 Third street. He charges that he loaned Blair $100 on a mortgage for property at Bell station, Clackamas county, and that Blair sold his equity in the property and did not protect the mortgage. Constable Frost, of Oregon City, took the warrant to Portland, and with Deputy Sheriff Ward, of Portland, made the arrest.

Farmers' union will meet Monday night. The Farmers' Union at Beaver Creek will hold a meeting Monday night, June 5, at 8 o'clock at the Grange hall, when representatives of the Portland Union Stock Yards of Portland will talk on preparing livestock for shipment. They will invite the people who are interested in livestock to go to Portland June 12 on the excursion over the Willamette Valley Southern. Dinner will be served by the stock yards company, and the farmers will be taken through the large packing plant, so as to give them a better idea of how marketing is done in the yards.

Alex DeFord climbs up on water wagon. After levying a fine of $10 and securing a promise that in the future Alex DeFord would content himself with pure South Fork as a beverage and not touch alcohol, Justice of the Peace Sievers Wednesday allowed DeFord his liberty, giving him 30 days in which to raise the $10. DeFord went to a dance at Clackamas Heights last Saturday night and became drunk on alcohol. On his way home Sunday morning he broke into a house, stole a roll of butter and laid down beside the butter for a nap in the parlor. Constable Frost arrested him from his slumbers. DeFord claims he does not know of the affair, except what the officers told him. He concludes that alcohol makes a poor drink. He was charged with vagrancy.

Series of debates at O. C. H. S. ended. Miss Marvel Ely, Louis Kay and Eltruda Stubbs win final honors. Eltruda Stubbs won in the final squad debate at the high school Wednesday and now can claim the distinction of being the best debaters in the school. S. P. Davis, J. O. Staats and E. G. Canfield were the judges. The subject debated was, "Resolved, That the reform school as they are now conducted are doing more harm than good." The affirmative, supported by Marvel Ely, Leonard Thompson and Eltruda Stubbs, created the negative team, Audrey Tuor, Louis Kay and Margaret Clark. Burr E. Tatro and Clarence Hahn coached the affirmative and Miss A. Winchel the negative. The debate is the last of a series which began several weeks ago and has aroused much more interest in debating work at the school.
