MELVIN J. BALLARD HEADS CEMENT MILL

VICE-PRESIDENT AND DIRECTOR WILL MANAGE BIG OSWEGO PLANT.

director of the Oregon Portland Cement company, has been appointed the company's acting vice-president and hereafter the management of the company will be under his jurisdiction.

Oswego, but the officers in charge of the company's affairs have likewise been transferred to Portland. The following are the company's active officers: Melvin J. Ballard, vice-president; George Macdonald, secretary; Clark M. Moore, general sales manager; L. C. Newlands, general superintendent and director in charge of operations,

OSWEGO PEOPLE TALK ABOUT TRANSPORTATION

OSWEGO, June 23.—(Special)— The question of bettering transportation facilities between Oswego and Oregon City has been a long agitated one and at the present time the patience of the Citizens of Oswego has reached the breaking point. Under the present arrangement, one is forced to go to Portland and there take an other car for the county seat, whereas arrangement should have been made long before this, whereby the direct distance, which is only about six miles, could have been connected up with the railroad. Proper transportation facilities would not only facilitate travel but would open up new fields of trading and prosperity for both localities.

COUNCIL TO ACCEPT CEMENT MILL'S OFFER

advertise for bids for the contract for the paving and it is expected that after a definite understanding is arrived at with the cement company, work will be rushed to an early completion.

heartfelt sympathy in their sad and hour of bereavement.

death the community in which she resided loses a faithful and conscientious

E. J. JONES AND V. F. COOPER MAKE PLEA TO OREGON CITY COUNCIL TO TAKE AWAY FROM OSWEGO MERCHANTS

Making the unusual plea that the people of the city of Oswego wanted to trade in Oregon City and thereby placing themselves on record as sponsors for the fact that the people of Oswego were not satisfied to trade with their home merchants, E. J. Jones, V. F. Cooper, accompanied by other Oswego citizens appeared before the council in behalf of a jitney from Oregon City to Oswego and Portland. Mr. Jones, who edited the Oswego Times, said he believed the time had come for progress in western Clackamas county, and for more neighborly relations between Oswego and the county seat. He said Oswego people wanted to trade in Oregon City and would do so if the transportation means were available.
He denied that a west side jitney line would compete with the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, because the railroad charged but 20 cents to Portland, while the jitneys would charge 25 cents.

Mr. Templeton replied to Mr. Jones citing his usual arguments against jitneys and adding that Mr. Jones was not really seeking to better conditions in the western part of the county, but was trying to widen the advertising field of his paper, the Oswego Times which, the councilman said, "was nearly bankrupt and on its last legs."

Mr. Cooper replied to Mr. Templeton and made an urgent plea for the jitneys. City Attorney Schuebel said that the thing for the Oswego people to do was to submit a franchise to the council, and after Mr. Templeton tried to get the matter indefinitely postponed, Councilman Roake moved that a committee be named to investigate Oswego's plea. This motion carried and Mayor Hackett appointed Councilman Templeton, Metzner and Roake both Templeton and Metzner expressed themselves as being opposed to the Oswego jitney, and Roake said he thought it ought to pay a license of $50 a quarter and file a bond of $5000 so the report of the committee may be pretty well guessed in advance.

The council took cognizance of Chief of Police Blanchard's response to the president's call for the militia and voted to hold his job open for him till he came back. In the meantime the matter of providing an active chief was left with the mayor, who named F. C. Burk.

An ordinance declaring the assessment of Tenth street, between John Adams and Jackson, at $1003.75, was passed on final reading. The council also passed an ordinance authorizing the issue of $4700.77 worth of improvement bonds for Division street work.

The plea to take the trade of Oswego away from their home merchants and bring it to Oregon City occasioned no little comment and lent additional belief to the facts as stated by the councilman concerning the financial condition of the Oswego Times.

STAFFORD.
*****

STAFFORD, Ore., June 22.—(Special)— A party of four from Stafford motored in a Ford to Woodburn Saturday.
They crossed the Willamette on the free ferry at New Era.

Roads were found to be nearly good all the way and crops are looking fairly well, though grain and grass are not as good on the east side of the river as this side until we got nearly to Hubbard, when they began to improve.

There is quite an acreage of corn planted, looking well in color, but as yet, small.

The party noticed some fields of grain badly infested with French pink, beautiful to the eye, but a pest to the farmer.

The party returned home by way of Oregon City, having traveled 88 miles in old hours.

Mr. Oldham visited friends at Red-land Sunday. They were met and brought back to Oregon City by the friends, and got home at 11 from having spent a pleasant day.

Betty Nemeck spent four days taking lessons on a Ford car which her mother bought.

Joe Nemeck came home again last week.

Henry Probase had a near accident on Sunday coming down the hill on the east side into Oregon City, having run into the bank to avoid a collision with another machine. His machine was damaged some, but no one was hurt.

The annual school meeting passed off quietly, August Delkar being re-elected clerk, and Fred Moser director.

OAK GROVE DEPARTMENT OAK GROVE RE-ELECTS MRS. JOHN WALDRON

OAK GROVE, Ore., June 22.—(Special)— The annual school election Monday produced a spirited campaign by the supporters of the different candidates.
The school building where the election was held was filled to overflowing.
Rev. C. A. Lewis who was advanced as a candidate by his friends declined the nomination as did in fact all the prospective candidates. Mrs. John Waldron, the chairman of the board was unanimously re-elected. In the contest for school clerkship, Miss H. Williams also declined to run again but several of her friends insisted upon her being a candidate. On the first vote the result was a tie between Harold Jahn and herself. The second vote, however, elected Mr. Jahn.
