

ON THE FARM AND GARDEN

'CLEAN, COLD, COVERED' DAIRYMEN'S SLOGAN

OBSERVE THREE "C'S" FOR CARE OF MILK IN HOME, SAYS GOVERNMENT SPECIALISTS.

The three "C's" for the proper care of milk in the home, according to the dairy specialists of the United States department of agriculture are:

Keep milk—clean, cold, covered.

Milk is a highly perishable food, and the length of time it will remain sweet and safe, especially for children, depends, the specialists say, almost entirely upon the constant care it receives from cow to consumer. Milk passes through three agencies—the producer, the dealer, and the consumer. If the first two have done their part, clean, safe milk will be delivered, thoroughly chilled, to the consumer. The consumer's responsibility begins the moment the milk is delivered at his doorstep.

Because milk poured from vessel on vessel on the street is very liable to contamination from dust, manure particles and germs, milk is best delivered in capped bottles. If bottled milk can not be obtained, the housewife should try to have some one in the family receive the milk in a clean, scalded utensil, cover it instantly, and put it without delay into the refrigerator, or the coldest available place, under no circumstance should an uncovered pitcher, bowl, or pan be left out on the porch to receive bulk milk, declare the department experts. The vessel, both before and after the milk is poured into it, is accessible to flies and collects particles of dust and dirt. Even in the case of bottled milk, however, the consumer must see that the bottle is not left out in the heat for a moment longer than is necessary. Milk should be delivered and kept at a temperature of 50 degrees F. or lower—the colder the better. At such temperatures bacteria develop very slowly and milk undergoes little change until consumed.

LOW GRADE APPLES NOT WANTED IN CALIFORNIA

Serious objection to the shipping of certain grades of northwest apples into California has been made by inspectors and horticulturists of that state, but no attempt is being made to shut Oregon fruits from the California market, except those of a very low, inferior grade.

That is what A. W. Tate, horticultural inspector of Watsonville, California, and a large fruit grower, told Professor C. I. Lewis recently, when he came to the Oregon Agricultural college to try to get this matter before the people in the right light. Restricted importation is aimed especially at apples that are more or less wormy and more or less severely attacked by diseases, such as scab.

Safeguard Your Child.

If your child is pale, dull, at times flushed, irritable and fretful you should attend to this condition at once as the chances are your little one is suffering from worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer is what you should get. This well known remedy in lozenge form is pleasant to take and expels the worms at once, the cause of your child's suffering. Only 25c at all druggists. An Appeal to the Business and Professional Men of the State

(By Col. W. G. L. Mercer.)

Patrick Henry once said: "In proportion to the magnitude of the subject ought to be the freedom of the debate."

In the Eugene Morning Register I am quoted as saying that: "Elevated to power on a platform of retrenchment in appropriations, and economy in government expenditure, the present Democratic administration will go down in history as the most profligate in its waste, the most extravagant in its expenditure of public funds, the most inefficient in administration, and the most oppressive in the taxes it collects from all our people than any other administration since our American Republic was founded."

I now desire to add the further statement that no previous congress has enacted so much legislation of immediate, novel, and fundamental importance in its relation to business as has the present congress. Now, with the first regular session of the sixty-fourth congress still uncompleted, it has in hand further measures of still more far-reaching importance, representing still more novel theories of governmental supervision. We find this active congress proposing additional legislation which promises to create between business and government a relationship entirely new, which must proceed along paths heretofore unexplored. Not only are the proposals in the pending legislation novel in their application to business, but there is a striking dissimilarity between these measures and any that we have heretofore had.

I have often very earnestly tried to give to my business and professional friends some hint of how important I believe it is that they should take a wider interest in political affairs. I have never the time nor the inclination to make serious criticism of congress. My criticism goes back of that to the constituency—back to a public opinion which I believe is not always well informed, which does not fully grasp the force of great economic principles that are more potent than any laws that congress can enact. Our business and professional men

A NEW FEATURE FOR THE ENTERPRISE.

Consistent with its superior service to its readers, The Enterprise in this week instituting a new feature—a department which is dedicated to the cause of better farms.

Farms and crop news, items from the reports of the United States department of agriculture, notes from the Oregon Agricultural college—all gathered with the purpose of aiding the farmer and the gardener will be published weekly.

The Enterprise would like to place in this department stories of successful Clackamas county farmers, as well as the advice of the leading experts of the nation and state. This plan, of course, can be realized only through the co-operation of Enterprise readers who are invited to send in accounts of the crops in their particular locality, the introduction of new crops or methods, the carrying out of new ideas in farming or any other item of this general nature which they believe would be of general interest.

GOOD POINTS TO OBSERVE IN CULLING POULTRY PEN

Watch for the cockerel that finds out that he is a cockerel soon and begins early to assert his individuality with great importance, and mark the pullets for the laying and breeding pens that are good growers and have good appetites, if heavy production is the point sought for in culling the flock, says C. C. Lamb, extension poultry specialist at the Oregon Agricultural college.

The birds that make steady development from the time they are hatched are those that possess good vigor and will be the profitable producers. Eliminate those that are loosely put together, with slender body, stilted legs and thigh, long neck, long narrow pale and crow-like head and beak, and dull sunken eyes. These are some of the characteristics that indicate poor constitutional vigor.

The strong vigorous bird is active with an alert carriage, a well put up body, bright plumage, prominent, full eye, bright comb and wattle, and legs well set under the body and rather wide apart.

Occasionally the bird that has been rather slow in developing but has possessed good health may develop into a very good looking bird when finally matured. Such individuals should be watched and not sold or used for breeding. It is the sturdy, quick growing, early maturing bird that makes the most profitable producer.

By determining this while the birds are still in the brooder or fryer stage, considerable money can be saved and perhaps several good fried chicken dinners may be enjoyed. By killing off these birds that give indication of not developing into desirable breeders before they become large and staggery, better prices will be received per pound and considerable feed will be saved.

O. A. C. EXTENSION WORKERS ARE BUSY

STATE SCHOOL FINDS FARMERS OF OREGON ARE GIVING SUPPORT TO ITS PROJECTS.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, July 20.—The busy bee that improves each shining hour has nothing on the Oregon Agricultural college extension field specialists in getting by with a big week's work this week. Although the members of the staff are engaged in many extension enterprises, the principal stress is being laid on organization, dairying, growing field crops, and girls' and boys' industrial club work.

W. L. Powers and R. R. Graves attended the cow testing association meeting at Fifth River, Coos county, on Monday. Professor Graves gave consideration to the lessons that have been drawn in previous work in cow testing in Oregon and also considered the relation of proper feeding to high milk production. Professor Powers discussed the subject of drainage and the production of field crops for the cows. The following day these same specialists addressed the cow testing association at Florence.

Farmers of Oregon are beginning to unite in cooperative effort in a far larger way than ever before, and G. L. Hurd is working with the rural population of the county in connection with the county agriculturalist, in various forms of organization. He will be in Union county until July 27.

The girls and boys have already learned their lesson of the benefits of organization and a number of cooperative meetings are being held in Clackamas county under the direction of the county school superintendent and J. C. Seymour, state agent of boys' and girls' industrial clubs. From three to five districts meet at central points and receive further instruction in the way of doing their club work and making satisfactory reports. On July 21 Professor Seymour goes to Wasco county. Miss Helen Cowgill, assistant state leader of boys' and girls' club work, assisted in these meetings.

Interest in pig club work is growing rapidly and L. J. Allen, state agent of pig clubs, is at work in Coos county caring not only for pig club work but for other forms of the industrial activities.

A combined meeting of granges and farmers' unions will be held at Eugene on Saturday. Miss Cowgill will give a lecture and a demonstration of doing canning work. Professor Pitts will lecture on the subject of feeding the dairy cow and in the afternoon give a demonstration of judging the dairy cow. C. C. Lamb will discuss egg production and cooperative egg marketing.

OVER-CURED HAY

The over-curing of hay by direct exposure to sunshine will result in decreased bulk, weight and value in the stored product. Have it raked into windrows soon after it begins to wilt thoroughly and let it dry out in the windrows and cocks, says J. E. Larson, field and crops extension specialist of the Oregon Agricultural college. Cured this way the product is more palatable and nutritious and more of the blades and leaves will be saved in handling.

In any one year in the history of our republic, with the record-breaking volume of $357,969,000 liabilities.

These figures are really alarming and they indicate that the time has come when we should see made the most gigantic contributions that were ever made by business and professional men to a political campaign—not contributions of money, but contributions of service; contributions of experience, of understanding, of truth; contributions in the way of an effective demand that the men whom they select as their representatives shall freely exercise their judgment, and contributions in the way of watchfulness that shall insure both honesty and intelligence in the exercise of representative obligations. These men may think that the contribution I have suggested is more difficult to give than have been other contributions that they have been more frequently asked to make, but the satisfaction of having made such contributions and the effectiveness of them will far transcend anything they have ever done before in the way of participation in politics.

The writer of these lines was in the prime of his manhood during the business depressions of 1873 and 1893 and in the light of that experience—I wish there could be a clearer comprehension of what a disheartened business community really means; what it means to the whole people; if the directive forces of business life are to lose heart, if their courage for new enterprise is to ebb, if their willingness to take risk, to test the chance of the future, to venture present possession upon prospective development, is to fall, then the psychology of the business mind becomes a matter of the gravest import.

The time has come when we should all unite with the business and professional men in the work of creating an informed and sound public opinion. Let the work of doing that be parcelled out with the genius that these men who know the value of organization, of co-operation, of the subdivision of labor, in the management of their own affairs, have proved that they possess. See that the wisest and ablest men of each community are placed in the executive positions of their respective political organizations in order that they may make of themselves such earnest and able lieutenants that the detail of organization may be complete and effective. Understand fully that this means self-sacrificing service; that it means an expenditure of time; that it means constant, co-operative effort.

Such, then, is the appeal I would make to our business and professional men for creating a constructive public opinion. The effort should include an active participation in political life that begins far back of the polls, begins at the beginning of the formation of public opinion—that that public opinion of which the result at the polls is only the final reflection. If this work is to be effectively done, they must themselves make the contribution of service. They can not delegate the work which they alone can do. They can not discharge this great public duty by writing checks. They must not shirk this great responsibility by trying the plan of hiring others to promulgate their views. Satisfactory results can only be obtained by banding themselves together to make an appeal to the common sense of the people with whom they are in daily and hourly contact.

Let them be frank and open as the day with their customers; take them into their confidence; explain to them that the ability of the business man to extend the usual courtesies of short-time credits depends wholly upon the degree of business activity and the prosperity of all our people. Such united effort can not be construed as a conspiracy. These business and professional men—men of brain and brawn—should not think only in days and weeks, but think—and think hard—in decades. Let them realize the responsibility which is theirs to turn present forces in right channels—realize that patriotism means a submergence of self-interest.

By a submergence of self-interest alone can they help to form a public opinion that will permit the creative genius of business to be recognized at its true worth, and thus give to that genius the position it should rightly have—a place where it will be above adverse criticism. Such a course of action will create a public opinion that will be constructive, and not—as now under the present Democratic administration—destructive, of the best sort of business activity.

If they will do this—if all of us will unite to create such a movement, there need be little fear for the ultimate election of Charles E. Hughes and the solution of our problems, the permanence of our prosperity and the pre-eminence of our country under his wise administration.

WILSONVILLE TAKES CHAUTAUQUA HONORS FROM CANBY'S TEAM

FIELDER ON LOSING NINE TURNS COMPLETE SOMMERSAULT IN MAKING CATCH.

Standing of Teams.
	P.	W.	P.C.
Wilsonville	4	4	500
Canby	5	3	500
Oregon City	4	2	500
Estacada	4	1	250
Clear Creek Creamery	4	1	250

GLADSTONE PARK, July 19.—(Special.)—Wilsonville won the chautauqua pennant in a sensational game at chautauqua field this afternoon before a crowd of 3,000 by a score of 7 to 4.

The game was fast, with frequent hitting on both sides. The feature of the contest was the circus-catch of Simpson, Canby's center fielder, who with a phenomenal leap, pulled down one of Baker's line drives in deep center field turned a complete somersault and lit on his feet with the ball secure. Baker pitched a steady game for the champions, while Cole, of Canby, did not show the class he has exhibited in the other games of the series, being bothered with a stiff arm. Both teams, however, put up a pretty fielding game. Baker struck out nine, and Cole six.

The score:

Wilsonville	10	23	000011—7 10 3
Canby	12	0000100—4 7 4

William Barnside was the umpire for the series and gave satisfaction.

NEAL C. JAMISON, COW TESTER, QUILTS

Neal C. Jamison, official tester of the Clackamas County Cow Testing association, has resigned his position and will go to Mount Angel to work in a creamery for a short time. From Mount Angel he will go to eastern Washington. Mr. Jamison has been with the county cow testing association for a year and a half and is largely responsible for much of the success of the organization.

His Backache Gone.

More men have kidney trouble than are aware of it. Just how serious a backache, sore muscles, aching joints, rheumatism, swollen ankles, and blurring vision may be is sometimes realized only when a man attempts to take out life insurance and is refused on account of kidney trouble. Joseph G. Wolf, 734 So. Jackson St., Green Bay, Wis., writes: "Foley Kidney Pills relieved me of a severe backache that had bothered me for several months." Any symptom of kidney trouble deserves attention. Jones Drug Co. (Adv.)

HUNTERS FOR SHARK PATROL THE ATLANTIC

NEW YORK, July 13.—Armed shark hunters in motorboats patrolled the New York and New Jersey coasts today, while others lined the beaches in a concerted effort to exterminate the man-eating sharks that have moved north from their customary haunts, apparently in large numbers. The village authorities in Mattawan, N. J., offered a reward of $100 for every shark brought in, dead or alive.

The belief that a single shark was responsible for the killing of four swimmers in New Jersey waters within the last two weeks, two of them yesterday in Mattawan Creek, a shallow inlet 16 miles from the open sea, was dispelled by persons who actually have seen a half dozen or more of the monsters.

One theory is that sharks which formerly fed on refuse thrown overboard from the many ocean steamships that plied before the war began now have become ravenous. Even those not ordinarily classed as man-eaters, it is said, probably have been driven by starvation to lurk in the waters of the Atlantic coast, warm at this season, and attack human beings.

MAN-EATING SHARKS SHUN OREGON COAST

PORTLAND, Ore., July 14.—Man-eating sharks have not come as far north as the Oregon coast, according to officials of the state game department, who say they know of no record of the presence of a man-eater on the North Pacific coast. There are about 150 species of sharks, say scientists, but only a few are dangerous.

Scientists say that there is a species of shark that often appears off southern California shores.

The absence of sharks from this part of the Pacific coast may be attributed to the fact that all species almost invariably seek tropical waters.

Do You Want Your Kidneys Experimented On?

Kidney troubles are getting more common every day. Government health bureau figures say deaths from this cause are 72 per cent more than 20 years ago.

Anybody who suffers constant backache, who feels blue, nervous and irritable; who has dizzy spells, headache and urinary disorders should suspect kidney weakness. Overworked kidneys must have a rest. Take things easier; live more carefully. Take a good kidney remedy to build the kidneys up again.

But be sure to get Doan's Kidney Pills—the oldest, the most widely used, the best recommended of all kidney pills, now in use all over the civilized world. Don't experiment with your kidneys. Thousands have already tested Doan's. You have their experience to go by. Plenty of cases right here in Oregon City. Here's one:

Mrs. M. Wormworth, 1204 Seventh St., Oregon City, says: "It has been several years since I have had to use a kidney medicine, but speaking from past experience, I can conscientiously recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Several years ago my back ached almost constantly. I had only to take a couple of boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills when I was cured of that awful backache."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Wormworth had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. (Adv.)

MACHINERY HOUSE SUES.

The A. H. Averill Machinery company, of Portland, Tuesday filed a suit in the circuit court against George Lammer to collect on a $100 note.

T. D. Phelps secured a judgment order in the circuit court Tuesday for $150 against Archibald and Bessie Howard.

COUNTY INSTALLS FOUNTAIN.

Two modern drinking fountains Thursday replaced the jars of ice water of previous summers at the court house. One fountain is located on the corridor of the first floor and the other on the second, midway between the entrance to the county and the circuit court rooms.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietor has so much faith in its curative powers that he offers One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. HENNEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by all druggists. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

H. M. Shaw Seeks Oregon City and Oswego 'Jit' Grant

Harry M. Shaw, of Eugene, was in Oregon City Tuesday to arrange for an application for a franchise to run jitneys between Oswego and Oregon City and from Main street to Mountain View at a meeting of the city council Thursday night. A delegation from Oswego will be present at the meeting of the local council to urge that a franchise for an Oregon City-Oswego jitney line be granted. Mr. Shaw formerly lived in Oregon City, and was employed by The Enterprise as a linotype operator.

Mr. Shaw intends to put two cars on the run, making trips to Mountain View and to Oswego on a schedule. At the present time there are no jitneys running between these points and Oregon City.

His franchise, if granted, will not give him the right to run cars on into Portland, a feature which has been left out of other franchises sought from the council. Because of this fact, Mr. Shaw is said to have the support of a majority of the members of the council who do not wish to bring jitneys into competition with the Portland Railway, Light & Power company.

Mr. Shaw operated jitneys between Eugene and Springfield for some time before investigating the local field. Cars which he used in Lane county will be brought here.

LOCAL ARTISANS PAY MOLALLA LODGE VISIT

The local assembly of the United Artisans journeyed to Molalla Friday night to pay the Molallans a visit.

After a lively meeting the Molalla assembly entertained with a short program which was followed by refreshments. Then everybody adjourned to the band hall where dancing was the amusement for the remainder of the evening.

The object of the trip was to interest the Molalla lodge in the big Artisan picnic at the Magone park on Sunday, July 30, to which all Portland lodges are invited, also the Clarke and Clackamas county lodges. The Molallans have promised to send a representative delegation at that time.

The trip was made in machines by the following: Mr. and Mrs. George Everhart, Mr. T. E. Carrico and Miss Lillian Gillette in the Everhart machine; Mr. and Mrs. F. Curran, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brandt, Miss Holsby, Fern Curran, Jr., in the Curran car; E. Lawler, Frank Doty, Mrs. McGahuey, Mrs. Hamilton in the Doty car, and Mr. Kellogg, Mr. McConnell, Ben Grossenbacher, Ella Turner and W. A. Bowles in the Jonier machine.

WIFE, SLIGHTED WHEN ILL, WANTS DIVORCE

Charging that he would not speak to her when she was ill and that he neglected her, Ora Z. Wilkerson Thursday filed a suit for divorce against James D. Wilkerson. They were married at Canby, December 1, 1893. George C. Brownell and Charles T. Sievers appeared as Mrs. Wilkerson's attorneys.

John L. Hoffman filed a suit Thursday against Mansfield and Inez Sonnichsen and Grace Dilworth to collect on a $500 note and foreclose on a mortgage held on property in the town of Boring.

E. M. Kellogg filed a suit against Henry Kergs, G. Cordall Kerbs and Eliza Kerbs to collect $897.90, principal, $160, interest, and $150 attorney's fees, on a note for $1,400.

An Egyptian noblemen's tomb, built 4500 years ago, and preserved in its entirety, has been placed on exhibition in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York city.

ARTISANS OF THREE COUNTIES MEET HERE

PICNIC AND EXCURSION JULY 30 SUPPORTED BY HUNDREDS OF LODGEMEN.

The aspirations of local Artisans are running high and it is now planned to charter one of the large river boats and engage the Magone park to give a big excursion and picnic, to which all the Portland lodges and Clarke and Clackamas counties orders are invited to take part.

July 20 has been the date set for the occasion, and the committee in charge is busily at work perfecting the program of the day. Sports, music, both instrumental and vocal, speeches by prominent men is part of the program already scheduled, and it is looked forward to as one of the biggest Artisan events for many a day.

The local assembly has the co-operation of the supreme order in this undertaking and they are aiding the local Artisans in every way possible, although the Oregon City lodge assumes the entire responsibility for the occasion.

KILLED SLAYER OF MATES; IS GIVEN 50 YEARS IN PEN

Sentenced to fifty years in a federal penitentiary for murder, and pardoned after serving 13 years of his time, Albert Field Rhodes, a former soldier of the regular army is in Oregon City on his way to his home in Coyote, Cal. Rhodes is working his way to his home town, where he enlisted in the United States army September 27, 1901. Since then his mother and father have died, but the ex-soldier desires to get back to the one spot on earth that he can call home, and there make a new start in life.

According to Rhodes, his career has been most extraordinary. After enlisting he was assigned to duty as a private in C company, of the Ninth United States infantry, and was sent to the Philippines. At the end of three years he had won promotion to the rank of commissary sergeant in his company, and as such was stationed at a camp on the Bandang river, Island of Samar, when his troubles began. Seated at breakfast one morning with his company mates, several hundred feet from the stacks of rifles, his company was attacked by a band of insurgents under the leadership of Arundo Shelvio.
