TOLD IN FEW WORDS.

Some Famous Nominating Speeches in Presidential Campaigns.

On the third day of the 1893 convention when other business had been disposed of and nominations were in order Mr. Eratts of New York in fewer than thirty words presented William H. Seward for the nomination. Mr. Judd of Illinois was equally brief in presenting Abraham Lincoln.

The names of William L. Dayton of New Jersey, of Simon Cameron of Pennsylvania, of Salmon P. Chase of Ohio, of Edward Bates of Missouri and of John McLean of Ohio were presented, but fewer than two dozen words were used in any instance.

It is not by elaborate and eloquent nominating speeches that the choice of presidential candidates is determined. The reasons influencing delegates are of a different character. But if speeches must be made a reasonable brevity will make them all the more effective.

Two of the best remembered nominating speeches ever made in a national convention were by Robert G. Ingersoll for Blaine in 1876 and by Daniel Dougherty nominating Hancock in 1880—one a Republican, the other a Democrat—and neither speech occupied more than ten minutes in delivery. —Philadelphia Telegraph.

BURIED IN SECRET.

Two Famous Kings Whose Last Resting Places Are Unknown.

Two ancient kings were buried in secret. Attila, king of the Huns, after his siege of Rome, died in Hungary A. D. 453. His soldiers, desirous of giving their great leader a royal burial, inclosed his body first in a casket of gold, this in one of silver and this in one of lead, and transported it into a desert. There slaves were selected, and under the direction of men who were sworn to secrecy they dug the grave of the dead monarch. When this was accomplished no traces of the spot were left. The slaves were all cruelly slain.

Alarik, king of the Goths, the celebrated conqueror of Rome, died when with his army at Cosenza, south Italy. His men turned the course of a river, interred the body of their sovereign, with much treasure, in its bed and restored the stream to its channel.

No man has ever lighted on the resting place of either of these kings, who in this respect resemble Moses, of whom it is written, "No man knoweth of his sepulcher unto this day." —London Standard.

Pear Thackeray! Sir William Howard Russell's diary for April, 1852, has this amusing glimpse of Thackeray.

"The sportsman among whom I had the honor to be numbered were of the Winkle order. Thackeray, Dickens, John Beech, Jerrold, Lemon, Ibbotson, were invited, and carriages were reserved to Wafford. As we were starting a written excuse was brought from Dickens to be conveyed to Mrs. X, by Thackeray. The party drove up to the house, and after compliments Thackeray delivered the tidbit. The effect was unpleasant. Mrs. X. fled along the hall, and the guests heard her calling to the cook: 'Martin, don't roast the ortolans. Mr. Dickens isn't coming!'

"Thackeray said he never felt so small. 'This is a test of popularity for you! No ortolans for Pendeulau!'

Protection From Lightning. Sir Oliver Lodge stated that the problem of securing protection from lightning consisted in finding the best method of dissipating the enormous energy of the flash, but that it was not wise to get rid of the energy too quickly. A thin iron wire is considered the best lightning conductor from the electrical point of view, but it is almost impossible to protect a building from lightning unless it is completely enveloped in a metal cage. It is by no means true that a building is safe when provided with a conductor reaching up to the highest part of the building.

A Fairy Story. Three men stood before the good fairy. "Why do you want wealth?" demanded the good fairy of one. "I want to find somebody." "And you?" "I want to show somebody." "And you?" "I want to help somebody." Which one did the good fairy assist?—Kansas City Journal.

On the Safe Side. Hubby—My dear, it is no use for you to look at those hats, for I have only a small change in my pockets. Wife—But surely you might have known when we came out that I wanted to buy a few things! Hubby—I did. That's why I didn't bring any money out with me.

Puzzling. Here's another thing we can't understand: They tell us that one can see farther with the telescope than with the naked eye. In the next breath they remark that the telescope brings everything nearer. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Got His Lesson. Brown—How is it you let your wife have her own way so entirely? Jones—Because I once tried to stop her. —London Telegraph.

Some of the best and happiest hours possible to a man's life are held in trust for him, so to speak, by his fellow men.

Kedleston Hall. Kedleston Hall is considered to be Robert Adams' masterpiece. Its scale of magnificence may be gauged from the fact that one entire wing is taken up by the kitchen and its offices. The design of the garden front was copied from the arch of Constantine, and the drive through the park to the hall, a mile in length, is through some of the noblest forest scenery in England. It is said that when in 1761 the first Lord Scarsdale resolved on building Kedleston Hall as it now stands he removed the entire village to another spot to make room for his new mansion. —London Globe.

A Woman's Helpful Advice. Mrs. G. H. Eveland, Duncan Mills, Ill., writes: "I was stricken with lumbago, unable to turn myself in bed. A neighbor brought me Foley Kidney cathartic. Salts and castor oil cannot be taken by many because of resulting nausea. Foley Cathartic Tablets are wholesome and thoroughly cleansing, act surely but gently, without griping, pain or nausea. They relieve sick headache, biliousness, bloating, sour stomach, bad breath or other conditions caused by clogged bowels. Jones Drug Co. (Adv.)"

Then He Sulked. "Mrs. Gusehly remarked to me that it must be pleasant to be married to a clever man," said Proudley's
