Current Happenings of Interest in and About Oregon City

PRETTY but simple home wedding was solemnized Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Tschirg, when their daughter, Miss Liana Tschirg, was united in marriage to Phil Thomas Ashford, of Canyon City, Ore., with Rev. A. Hillebrand, pastor of St. John's Catholic church, officiating. The ceremony was performed beneath an archway of white roses and smilax. The color scheme was white and green. Masses of roses and smilax were used with artistic taste, while the dining room color scheme was pink and green, Caroline Testout roses and ferns being used in profusion. The bride, who was one of the most attractive young women of Oregon City, was becomingly attired in a traveling suit of midnight blue, and wore a large yellow picture hat. Her corsage bouquet was of dainty Opheila roses and maidenhair ferns. Miss Mildred Tschirg, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and she wore a pretty gown of brown taffeta. Ralph Parker attended the bridegroom. A reception was held following the marriage ceremony, and Mr. and Mrs. Ashford left for Portland. They will leave that city this evening for their future home at Canyon City. The bride came to Oregon with her parents from Duluth, Minn., and attended the Oregon City high school, graduating from that institution, and later taking a two years' course at the Oregon Agricultural college at Corvallis. Mr. Ashford has resided at Canyon City for some time, and is a well known attorney of that city. He also owns a large stock ranch. On Monday evening the home of Mrs. Ida Hutchinson, of Thirteenth and Center streets, was the scene of a pretty wedding, when her daughter, Miss Edith Marie Hutchison, was united in marriage to Mr. La Verne Roake, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Roake, of this city. The impressive ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Howard N. Smith, pastor of the Jennings Lodge Congregational church, in the presence of about sixty friends and relatives of the contracting parties. At 9 o'clock the Mendelssohn Wedding March was played by Mrs. Jean Howe, of Eugene, and former schoolmate of the bride, and the bridal party entered the parlor from the stairway, the ring bearer, little Betty Crawford, carrying a large white rose and the ring hidden within, and the two little flower girls, Mary Roake and Marion Crawford, scattering rose petals. The bride, Miss Edith Marie Hutchison, preceded the bride, who was accompanied by her brother, Earl Hutchinson. At the bower of pink roses the bride and groom were met by the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Colby Hutchinson, where the marriage ceremony was performed. The bride was handsome in her gown of white crepe de chine, the bodice formed of white silk and the sleeves of Georgette crepe, and the skirt was made of the hoop fashion, with ruffles of crepe de chine. Her long tulle veil was held in place by a spray of dainty white blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Harris, was becomingly gowned in pink satin, and the skirt was also made on the same design of the bride's gown. Her shower bouquet was of pink roses. The flower girls wore white frocks with pink sashes, and the little ring bearer in white and wearing a Nile green sash. Following the marriage ceremony a reception was held, and refreshments were served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Roake left for their home at 903 Eleventh street, and this morning will leave for their honeymoon trip to be spent at Newport. They will be at home to their friends after August the 25th. The home of Mrs. Hutchinson was a bower of beauty. The color scheme of the reception hall, parlors and dining room was pink, white and green, roses being used with artistic taste and in profusion. Baskets filled with these blossoms were suspended from the archway between the parlor and living room, and huge bunches were arranged throughout the room, while the west side of the living room was formed into a bower of roses where the ceremony took place. The bride is a very attractive young woman. She came to this city about two years ago from Ladysmith, Wisconsin, and during her residence in this city has made a large circle of friends. The bridegroom spent his boyhood days in this city and after completing his studies in the Oregon City high school in 1912, he went to Corvallis, where he took a course at the Oregon Agricultural College, and later returned to his home in this city, where he has since been associated with his brother, Bert Roake, in the Oregon City Foundry. Friends Remind Pastor and Wife of Anniversary. Rev. and Mrs. William Kraxberger were taken completely by surprise at their home on Eighth and Jefferson streets Thursday afternoon when about 50 members of the German Lutheran church called in a body to remind them of the thirteenth anniversary of their marriage. In honor of this occasion a handsome rug was presented to the pastor and his wife, who have resided in this city for the last 12 years. The afternoon was devoted to both vocal and instrumental music, recitations, and a luncheon served on the lawn.

FOUR GENERATIONS AT FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Curtis, 406 Promenade avenue, Sunday, four generations being represented. Among those who were present were: Mr. Curtis' sister, Mrs. Fred Dodd, of Grand Island, Neb.; her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Blumenthal, of Provo, Utah; delegates to the Knights of Pythias convention in Portland recently, who started on their return trip home Wednesday. Mrs. Dodd and Mr. and Mrs. Blumenthal were much pleased with western Oregon. They declared that Oregon has the most beautiful roses they have ever seen.

J. E. CALAVAN URGES STANDARDIZATION PLAN

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT TELLS TEACHERS MORE SCHOOLS SHOULD MEET RULES. The number of school in Clackamas county which have met the standardization requirements of the state department of public instruction should be increased from 50 to 70 or 80, County Superintendent Calavan told the teachers at the annual training school Thursday afternoon. Superintendent Calavan explained the standardization plan and the benefits to be derived therefrom. He suggested to the teachers that they interest parents as well as members of school board in the standardization requirements. Many of the rules can be met only through the efforts of the teacher herself, he declared, and urged every teacher to make the standardization of her school the goal of the year's work.

HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE

Stopped Most Terrible Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Denison, Texas. "After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work. I was very nervous but just kept dragging on until last summer when I got where I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and dizzy spells and my head would almost burst. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's step-sister told my husband if he did not do something for me I would not last long and told him to get your medicine. So he got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me, and after taking the first three doses I began to improve. I continued its use, and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go."—Mrs. G. O. LOWERY, 419 W. Monterey Street, Denison, Texas. If you are suffering from any form of female ills, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and commence the treatment without delay.

FIGS ARE RIPE IN YARD IN CANEMAH; TREES BEAR WELL

TWO CROPS OF DELICIOUS FRUIT HARVESTED EACH YEAR OFF ACCLIMATED TREES. Figs are ripening in the yard of August Rakei at Canemah. The yield of the first crop of one of his trees, five years old, will be at least a bushel and a half, he says. The trees bear two crops a year and the second crop will be larger than the first. Mr. Rakei's trees are acclimated to Oregon and do not suffer from the frosts of the winter or the rain of the spring or summer, even when the rain is as heavy and as steady as it was a month or two ago. The fruit ripens and is as soft and mellow as figs grown in a more tropical climate. Mr. Rakei has one five-year-old tree which is bearing heavily and a number of younger trees. His trees are of the Turkish variety, while nearby at the home of Mrs. Sylvia Midlam there is a black fig tree which, too, is bearing ripe and delicious fruit. Mr. Rakei attributes much of his success to the fact that his trees are acclimated to the mild Oregon climate. He gives them no protection in the winter months and they survive snow and frosts apparently unharmed.

O. C. IS INVITED TO SEND REPRESENTATIVES

HERBERT MYRICK TO DISCUSS FARM LOAN BANK LAW IN PORTLAND AUG. 19. The Portland Chamber of Commerce has extended an invitation to local commercial organizations and banks to send representatives to that city on Saturday, August 19, to hear Herbert Myrick, of Massachusetts, discuss the new federal farm loan bank law. The chamber will welcome any citizens who attend. Mr. Myrick is the editor-in-chief of the Orange Judd Farm Weeklies and for many years has advocated a form of rural credits for the farmer. He is one of the authors of the present law, which can be made of great benefit in the development of the farms of the northwest. Mr. Myrick will thoroughly explain the operations of the new law. He is an authority on the subject. The Portland speech at the Chamber of Commerce will be the only opportunity that residents of the northwest will have to hear Mr. Myrick. His time does not permit of him speaking at other places. The meeting is to be held on the eighth floor of the Oregon building and will begin at 8 o'clock p. m. The Portland Chamber of Commerce will be especially glad to welcome farmers and representatives of the granges to hear this noted editor of farm newspapers and magazines. Herbert Myrick has been one of the foremost advocates in this country for agricultural progress. The Hatch experiment bill, enacted by congress in 1887 was the direct result of the work done by him. The act appropriated funds from the national treasury for the establishment of experimental stations in every state in the union. Mr. Myrick organized some of the first cooperative creameries, farm elevators, building and loan associations and farmers' fire insurance associations in this country. When President Wilson signed the farm loan bank bill on July 17, he presented Mr. Myrick with one of the gold pens used. Later pressure was brought to bear on Herbert Myrick to accept one of the appointments on the board of managers for the bank, which he declined. People of this section should accept the invitation extended by the Portland Chamber of Commerce. There may not be another chance to hear this matter explained by a man of this character. The meeting is free.

3 CLACKAMAS COUPLES ARE WEDDED IN DAY

Three Clackamas couples secured marriage licenses Monday, two following out the "Buy it in Oregon City" slogan while the third went to Vancouver, Wash. Eric Linn and Miss Rita Busch, both giving their address as Oregon City, went to the Washington town.

MILL MAY HAVE TO CLOSE.

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 18.—Complaints that their inability to obtain freight cars would shortly force them to close down unless relief is afforded, were received today by the Oregon public service commission from two lumber firms. All indications, it is declared, point to an increased car shortage on the Southern Pacific lines in Oregon and the enforced suspension of many mills.

RURAL CREDITS WILL BE EXPLAINED HERE

C. E. SPENCE HEADS FLYING SQUADRON WHICH LEAVES MONDAY. A meeting will be held in Oregon City either the latter part of next week or early in the week following when the rural credits bill and tax limitation amendment which will be on the ballot in November will be discussed. A flying squadron, headed by Charles E. Spence, state grange master, will start out on the campaign Monday. Mr. Spence will be accompanied by Walter M. Pierce, president of the State Taxpayers' league, Oswald West, Professor Hector McPherson of the Oregon Agricultural college and Robert E. Smith of Roseburg. The State Grange is back of the rural credits bill and Mr. Spence, as chairman of the legislative committee, that had much to do with drafting the measure, will explain its provisions to the people of the state. It is planned to hold the first meeting of the tour at Corvallis on Monday, from which place the party will go to Eugene, Albany and Salem, Ashland, Medford, Grants Pass and Roseburg will be visited, after which the party will return to Oregon City. The smaller towns on the itinerary will also be visited, and it is expected that the trip will take the greater part of two weeks. After the Oregon City meeting the squadron will hold meetings in Portland, Astoria and intervening towns and close at The Dalles after which a tour of eastern Oregon will be made.

"When our little boy, now seven years old, was a baby he was cured of cholera morbus by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. Sidney Simmons Fair Haven, N. Y. "Since then other members of my family have used this valuable medicine for colic and bowel troubles with good satisfaction and I gladly endorse it as a remedy of exceptional merit." Harry Worswick Is Back From Border For Month's Visit Harry Worswick, private in Company G, Oregon National Guard, who is on a month's leave of absence, arrived in Oregon City on Sunday evening from the company's camp at Calexico, California, coming to this city on county paving business. He will return to his company to again take up his duties about September 5. Mr. Worswick is somewhat tanned from the sun's rays of California and says that the boys of all the companies stationed there are taking on the same color and are enjoying the best of health. He says that the married men of Company G are all anxious to return to their homes in this city since there is no fighting as they do not feel that it is right to compel the relief committee or the citizens to "put up" the money for their families. The single men are willing to stay and from all indications they will be there for some time, as permanent quarters for the winter were being arranged in the way of installing a sewerage system, shower baths, kitchen with flooring, and laying of water pipe to each kitchen. The Y. M. C. A. headquarters are well patronized by the soldier boys, and here you may find reading matter and also enjoy the music. The camp of Company G is located eight miles from the beach and 14 miles from the fair. The men are given the privilege to bathe in the surf if they desire. While stationed near the fair grounds before moving to their present location, they were allowed to visit the fair grounds free of charge and also the state buildings or buildings where there were exhibits. They are enjoying the cots that were furnished by the government, and Mr. Worswick says that the boys do not find any of the tarantulas or other bugs that have been infesting the camps. One of the boys of another company found a nice, big, fat rattlesnake looking at him out of the corner of his eye when the soldier was making up his bed. The rattler was soon disturbed from its temporary slumber and put into one from which it never awoke. The boys arise at 5:45 a. m., partake of their breakfast and are drilled four hours each day, but at the present time, where headquarters are being improved this time is not devoted to drilling with their guns but "drilling" with their hands and all are pretty well fatigued when nightfall comes. They retire at 9 p. m. All have good appetites, and Worswick says that their company does not fare any better than other companies of the regiment, although there was an amount of money appropriated by the people of Oregon City and Clackamas county for comforts, and that the comforts that they have received are those extended by the government. All of the boys appreciated the gift of J. P. Lovett, and also the cakes that were sent by some of the women of Oregon City, when Mrs. W. R. Logan and Mrs. Augusta Warner offered their services and gathered and packed the cakes, which reached the boys in good condition. "Papers from Oregon are eagerly sought for by the soldier boys," says Mr. Worswick, especially papers from the home towns, and when they arrive there is a general "scrambling" for them. Few callers arrive at the camps of the soldiers. Sunday is a big day in the camp. After partaking of breakfast all attend church, when Chaplain Gilbert officiates. In the afternoon a baseball game is held when members of the various companies "play ball," and the best roster on the grounds is Chaplain Gilbert. Harry Worswick organized a baseball team, and out of the four games that have been played with the other companies, his team has lost but one game, and the Oregon City boys are much encouraged over their good work on the diamond. The team is composed of the following: Harry Worswick, manager; Oscar (Auk) Smith, captain; Rasmussen, pitcher; Keizer, pitcher; Nemie, pitcher; J. C. Spagle, third base; Eugene Lammers, second base; outfielders, Cooper, "Tex" Stovall; Sam Simms, official backstop. There are 14 baseball teams in camp. The camp where the Oregon City boys are stationed is shaded by trees, and many of the camps are being beautified by flowers, but the Oregon City boys do not spare much time in this art of decorating their camps in this manner.
