MRS. MARGARET MARTIN WINS $1000 JUDGMENT

JURY IS OUT TWO HOURS AND 25 MINUTES IN SUIT FOR PERSONAL INJURIES.

A jury in the circuit court Tuesday after two hours and 25 minutes of deliberation returned a verdict of $1000 for Mrs. Margaret Martin of Willamette and against W. B. Portow, F. E. Portow, also named as a defendant and the father of W. B. Portow, was not named in the verdict.

Mrs. Martin was hit by an automobile at the east approach of the suspension bridge February 19 by an automobile driven by W. B. Portow and she filed a suit for $5000, alleged due for personal injuries.

F. E. Portow was named a defendant in the action because the plaintiff understood that he owned the car and employed W. B. Portow at the time of the accident. The defense attempted to show that the elder Mr. Portow did not own the machine, and the court instructed the jury either to find a verdict against W. B. Portow or against both of them. Under the court's instructions, the jury could not return a verdict against F. E. Portow alone.

PORTLANDER, 24, SINKS TO DEATH IN SWIFT WATER

CLACKAMAS RIVER TWO MILES BELOW ESTACADA SCENE OF TRAGEDY.

FISHERMAN, HANDICAPPED BY HEAVY CLOTHING, CAN'T SWIM

In Enthusiasm After Catching 16-Inch Trout, Ivan Gulovson Wades Too Far Out in Deep Water of Mountain Stream.

Ivan Gulovson, aged 24 years, employed as a bookkeeper by Lipman Wolf & Company, a Portland department store, lost his life Sunday afternoon in the raging waters of the Clackamas river near River Mill, two miles below Estacada, while fishing. He lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Gulovson, 1248 Maryland avenue, Portland.

No one was present when the young fisherman met his death. It is thought that he became too enthusiastic after catching a 16-inch trout which was found in the basket strapped to his side and waded too far out into the raging water. Once caught in the middle of the stream, where the river was both swift and deep, he could not escape although he probably made a desperate effort.

Heavy clothing was too much of a handicap when the swift water ooked got its hold on him and he was sucked beneath the surface. His heavy hip boots were found near the body. In his struggle he kicked them off.

Young Gulovson and Fred Walgren, living at Montgomery and Emerson streets, Portland, left their homes early Sunday morning for a day's sport on the upper Clackamas. At Estacada they decided to separate. Gulovson was to go down the stream and Walgren was to fish up the river. At 4 o'clock, the time when they were to meet, Gulovson failed to appear and after waiting an hour Walgren started a search.

Two miles below Estacada Gulovson's sweater was found on the river bank, but Gulovson himself was nowhere to be seen. About 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon the body was found and taken ashore. In a basket strapped to Gulovson's side was the 16-inch trout.

Coroner Hempstead was notified and with Sheriff Wilson went to the scene of the tragedy Monday afternoon. After investigating the case they concluded that an inquest was not necessary.

The body was taken to Portland Monday afternoon. Besides his parents, Gulovson leaves a sister, Stella, at Coos Bay.

SEVENTY-FIVE PORTLAND MERCHANTS TALK "SHOP" AT MEETING HERE.

Seventy-five Portland grocers gathered in the Commercial club rooms Wednesday night, as guests of Oregon City grocers, talked shop and listened to a musical program. Gunther, president; Robert G. Dunbar, secretary, and D. J. Sayon, treasurer. E. B. TWO DIVORCE SUITS IN ONE FAMILY PENDING

A. F. BEMETZ SUES WIFE, RECENTLY ARRESTED, AND SHE, IN TURN, SUES HIM.

The tangled domestic troubles of Isabelle Bemetz and Anthony F. Bemetz, her husband, added another twist Tuesday when she filed a suit for divorce against him, making a general charge of cruelty. She charges that he called her names and that on July 20 he ran away with their child. They were married September 29, 1908, in Everett, Wash. She seeks the custody of the child and for $30 monthly for the support of her child and herself.

Mrs. Bemetz and Ray Lowe were arrested several months ago by the police on a statutory charge but the case was dismissed for lack of evidence. Two weeks ago he filed a suit for divorce against her, alleging that she was too intimate with other men. A new angle was added to the case by the filing of a separate suit by her, so that there are now two distinct divorce actions pending in the one family.

MANY CHANGES PLANNED FOR FRIARS' CLUB, ONE TIME NOTORIOUS RESORT

MANAGEMENT ANNOUNCES BEST DANCING PAVILION IN NORTHWEST TO BE BUILT.

The Friars' club, made famous by ex-Governor West with the aid of the militia and later the object of raids by county and federal officials, is to undergo a complete change. Julius Wilbur, steward of the club, has announced. The club's property is located on the Willamette river near the mouth of Johnson creek at Milwaukee. The club has secured the services of J. McCauley, of San Francisco, considered an expert in the amusement park business, to take charge of the club and he has already arrived in Milwaukee.

The present dance hall will be torn down as soon as the present season ends and in its place there will be erected what the club officers declare will be the largest dancing pavilion in the Pacific northwest. It will be built on piling along the river bank, extending out over the surface of the water. Under the pavilion a large swimming tank will be placed and the river bank for some distance on each side of the pavilion will be sanded so as to make an artificial beach. In addition, a large floating pavilion will be tied to the shore.

The club will add the ground to Johnson creek to its park and ample playgrounds for children will be provided. A wading pool, Shetland ponies and playground apparatus will be the attractions for the children.

A motor boat landing will be installed at the mouth of Johnson creek.

THIRD OREGON IN REVIEW DELIGHTS STATE EXECUTIVE

GOVERNOR WITHYCOMBE DECLARES STATE TROOPS ARE CREDIT TO OREGON.

VISITING THROG APPLAUDS THE SOLDIERY BEARING OF GUARDSMEN

Appearance is First Made Since Return From Mexico and Probably Last Before Passing Out of Federal Service.

Governor Withycombe did not think that ten weeks in active military service would make such a change in the boys.

But he was thoroughly convinced when he reviewed them at Clackamas field Wednesday afternoon.

All evidence of inexperience had been replaced by unmistakable signs of military training. The "civilian slouch" had entirely disappeared.

It was a gala day at Camp Withycombe. It was the first public appearance of the regiment since the return from the Mexican border and probably was its last formal review before passing out of the federal service.

A new unit in which every man seemed to take justifiable pride was the wagon train. This organization always has been a part of the regiment, but it was not completely equipped until the men went to the border.

A big crowd came out from Portland and other nearby communities to see the review.

The whole regiment was in full marching order, equipped in every detail to take the field at an instant's command.

Governor Withycombe spurned the use of an automobile that was offered him and stood under a blistering sun in the open field to watch the regiment pass by.

He intends to locate his undertaking establishment, now on Main street near the corner of Fifth, on the property. Mr. Holman said he would soon have plans ready for the improvements, but did not know whether the changes would be made this fall or next spring.
