

C. SCHUEBEL INVITES ARREST FOR HUNTING CHINA PHEASANTS

The State Game and Fish commission has no right or authority to chop 15 days off of the China pheasant season as it has done this year, believes Chris Schuebel, legislator and city attorney of Oregon City.

"When the state sells a hunting license it gives certain rights to the holder for hunting," he said Monday. "That license is in the nature of a contract and a commission has no right to break it. I am willing to go into court to prove my contention."

9,387 VOTERS OUT OF 13,646 IN THE COUNTY REGISTER REPUBLICAN

ALMOST ALL PROGRESSIVES ARE BACK IN G. O. P.—DEMOCRATS NUMBER 3,449.

Of the 13,646 voters in Clackamas county, 9,387 are Republicans. County Clerk Iva Harrington Wednesday completed checking over the registration lists.

Registration figures are: Democrats, 3,449; Independent, 206; Progressives, 63; Prohibitionists, 245; Socialists, 373 and refused to state party affiliation, 32.

The feature of Clerk Harrington's totals is the small number of Progressive voters. It is evident that as far as Clackamas county is concerned, the Progressives have gone back into the Republican party in a body, for the registration figures compiled Wednesday show the same ratio between the Republican and Democratic parties that existed before the birth of the Progressives in 1912.

Local Republican students of affairs predict that Charles Evans Hughes will carry Clackamas county by a majority of at least 1500 votes.

AUTO RUNS INTO HOUSE.

To avoid running into a Southern Pacific train at the crossing at the foot of Singer hill, Bennie Staats, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Staats, of Clarkes, ran into the flagman's house Thursday morning while coming to town with a load of pigs in an automobile. The house was half wrecked, but the machine little damaged and Staats and his pigs escaped without an injury. Staats was coming down Singer hill so fast that he was unable to stop when he saw the train.

It costs more to conduct the affairs of the city of Portland than it costs for the state of Oregon. Yet the state has 500,000 people and the city only 250,000.

COUNCILMAN ROAKE OUT OF RACE IN DECEMBER

MEMBER FROM SECOND WARD TELLS FRIENDS NOT TO FILE PETITIONS.

James Roake, councilman from the second ward, will not run for another term, he said Wednesday. His decision leaves the field open so far to C. W. Friedrichs.

Friends of Mr. Roake have circulated petitions to place his name on the ballot in December, but he has requested that they do not file the petitions. Mr. Roake was put on the council early this year to fill a vacancy, but served a two-year term several years ago.

"I have served the city three years on the council," he said Wednesday. "I believe that it would be better to let someone else take my place."

Henry M. Templeton, from the first ward, is another councilman who is debating with himself whether he will listen to the advice of his friends and run for another term or stay out of the race.

Why Watches Lose Time.

The reason for variations in the time keeping qualities of a well regulated watch have been the subject of investigation by scientists recently. The popular theories that annual magnetism and bodily temperature are causes are denied by investigators. Rather, different rhythms of movement as well as the angle at which a watch hangs are given as real causes for irregularities.

TINKERING WITH CONSTITUTION IS MUCH DEPLORED

LIVE WIRES HEAR BOTH SIDES OF QUESTIONS ON BALLOT NOVEMBER 7

MEETING GETS SOLIDLY BEHIND PARKS AND PLAYGROUNDS PLANS

Many Will Attend The Budget Meeting Tonight to Support Appropriation—Discussion Continued to Tuesday.

Less tinkering with the constitution of the state of Oregon and fewer laws seemed to be the consensus of opinion among those who discussed measures, which will appear upon the ballot at the November election. The discussion was held Wednesday night in the Commercial club parlors, following a dinner given by the Live Wires.

A number of members of the organization who had been assigned the affirmative side of a measure, took the negative because, as O. D. Eby expressed himself, "That's what I think."

Bill Has No Champion.

Although no one present would speak in favor of the passage of the land and loan measure, John W. Loder who had been assigned the negative, found almost all present ready to assist him in his argument.

Mr. Loder pointed out what he termed "only a few of the vicious clauses" in the bill. He declared that the authors of the measure had defined land to be dirt, soil and even water, and had separated improvements from the land, although such authorities as Blackstone and Webster have held that improvements such as fences and ditches were a part of the land. The bill was bitterly assailed by at least a dozen other men in the audience.

O. D. Eby could find no reason for including the validation of sites of state institutions in the bill establishing the Pendleton Normal, unless it was for "catching votes." Mr. Eby was to present the affirmative side of this measure but became interested in presenting his argument against "tinkering with the state constitution" and forgot the affirmative.

Rev. J. R. Landborough held that Pendleton was not a center of population and the existence of building at Weston which could be put in use for a normal school, made the spending of $125,000 for a school at Pendleton a waste. J. E. Hedges took the affirmative and said that Pendleton was on the main line of a railway and though not geographically a center of population was an ideal place for the second state normal, which he said the state needs.

Grant B. Dimick spoke in favor of the single item veto bill and explained that many times it becomes necessary for the governor to veto the entire appropriation bill to weed out a number of items containing appropriations which are unnecessary. O. W. Eastman held that the passage of this bill would place too great a power in the hands of the governor.

Ship Tax is Debated.

The ship tax exemption was upheld by Lyle Stipp and Colonel C. H. Dye spoke against the passage of the bill.

Other bills discussed were the anti-vaccination bill upheld by Dr. J. A. Van Brakle and opposed by Dr. Hugh Mount, the repeal of the Sunday closing law, opposed by F. J. Toozie; and the Brewer's amendment upheld by R. L. Shepherd and opposed by Chris Schuebel.

A number of men took subjects assigned to them to which they were personally opposed, so that the measures might be presented to the voters.

City Park is Favored.

Just before adjournment, the need of a city park and playground was discussed. It did not require much argument to convince those at the meeting that Oregon City needed adequate parks and playgrounds, and they pledged themselves to turn out to the budget meeting tonight to use their influence to secure an appropriation in the 1917 budget for the development of the 13-acre track, now owned by the water department.

The Live Wires did not complete a discussion of all the initiative measures. The debate on the bills and amendments will be continued at the weekly luncheon next Tuesday and from the stand taken by those at the meeting Wednesday night that the Live Wires will stand solidly behind the development of city parks and playgrounds.

A. C. Howland, main trunk of the Live Wires, was chairman of the meeting which was attended by about a hundred.

Neighbors Think Risley Would Make Splendid Official

PROMINENT PORTLAND ATTORNEY LIVING IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY SAYS DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE IS JUST THE MAN NEEDED.

When one's neighbors vouch for his honesty, integrity and business sagacity and ability, the public generally makes no mistake in placing confidence in that person, for no one knows you better than your neighbors.

The neighbors of C. W. Risley, Democratic candidate for county commissioner, regardless of party affiliation, creed or what not, unite as in one voice in declaring that they know of no man in the whole of Clackamas county better fitted to serve the taxpayers in the position of county commissioner. Among this number, and one who believes it a duty he owes to his co-taxpayers to let them know what he thinks of Mr. Risley's candidacy, is Earl C. Bronaugh, living at Boardman station, but who is one of the prominent attorneys, of Portland, having offices in the Northwestern Bank building. Mr. Bronaugh says himself and Charley Risley were boys together in school in Portland, but he lost track of the latter in later years, and only a few years ago renewed that acquaintance when he removed to his present home on the River road, when he found that Mr. Risley was one of his neighbors.

C. W. Risley

Mr. Bronaugh declares that, being a large property owner and taxpayer himself, Mr. Risley naturally would have the interest of the taxpayers at heart; that he is a good level-headed man, who having proved that he is capable of successfully looking after his own affairs, can be depended upon to give the county the benefit of his experience, which would be of incalculable aid in the weighty problems that confront the commissioners and county court from time to time.

Speaking of Mr. Risley's work as road supervisor of road district No. 47, Attorney Bronaugh says he has watched the work and notes with much satisfaction that the roads in this district are not only the best laid, but seem to be giving the best satisfaction of any in the county, especially as pertains to macadam. Mr. Bronaugh further declares that Mr. Risley has built more macadam road this year for the money than during any former years. He urges the election of Mr. Risley because he believes the man is eminently fitted for the position of county commissioner because of his knowledge of the needs of the people, his large business experience, his being a thorough advocate of good roads, as well as his ability to construct good roads at the lowest possible cost.

Mr. Risley is not an office seeker in any sense of the word. His candidacy was thrust upon him by the people, who know him and believed the county had no better qualified man for the position, and has consented to make the race at the earnest solicitation of hundreds of friends who feel that the county needs a man who really knows good roads and how to build them, as well as possessing the highest business qualifications.—Adv.

USE OF THE TOOTHBRUSH.

It Was Unknown in England in Lord Chesterfield's Time.

When did the English first adopt the toothbrush habit, which in recent times has been denounced by certain medical authorities? In "Esmond" Thackeray makes Lord Castlewood spend "a tenth part of his day in the brushing of his teeth and the oiling of his hair," and in doing so the novelist counts a double anachronism.

During the first half of the eighteenth century all fine gentlemen wore wigs and had no use for oil on their hair, while the toothbrush was so late as 1754 unknown to Lord Chesterfield. Writing to his son, Chesterfield says: "I hope you take great care of your mouth and teeth and that you sponge them well every morning with a clean and tepid water, with a few drops of arnegasade water dropped into it. I do insist upon your never using those sticks or any hard substance whatever, which always rub away the gums and destroy the varnish of the teeth."—London Saturday Review

BIG AND UNUSUAL YIELDS ATTEST TO SOIL'S RICHNESS

The fertility of Clackamas county soil is shown by several unusual yields which have been reported in Oregon City.

Nelson McKillican, of the Redland district, will harvest 2000 sacks of potatoes from a 14-acre field. Men he employed to dig the crop say that the ground was "undermined" with potatoes. As the prices are good, Mr. McKillican figures that his small field will net him a tidy sum.

Then there is A. J. Mills of the Estacada district who exhibits three bundles of alfalfa, each one two feet high and each one cut from the same stool, or plant. The cuttings are dated June 5, July 23 and September 16, and there is now over a foot remaining on the plant.

Nelson W. Bowland, principal of an Oregon City grade school, also has a testimonial to the richness of the soil and the advantage of the climate. From his garden at 1501 Twelfth street still is picking strawberries. Sunday he gathered a full gallon and the indications are that the vines will be bearing for several weeks. The recent frosts did not injure his plants. Mr. Bowland has given his neighbors strawberries, a rare treat this time of year, so heavy is the yield.

VELOCITY OF 114 MILES AN HOUR IS ATTAINED BY WIND

BUILDINGS DESTROYED IN MOBILE AND SHIPS IN HARBOR ARE SUNK.

SHOCKS SWAY OFFICE BUILDINGS WHICH QUICKLY ARE VACATED

Everywhere High Wind is Accompanied by Downpour—in Burwood, La. Rain in One Day is 11 Inches.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 18.—The south was racked by earthquake and swept by storm at the same time today. While a tropical hurricane was flaying the Gulf Coast, earth tremors overturned chimneys and frightened away many people from their homes in Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee.

The earthquake did little damage, but a wind that reached a velocity of 114 miles an hour lifted roofs from houses at Pensacola, Fla., and sank several vessels in the harbor. One life was lost.

Mobile reported that it had been touched more lightly, although the wind blew 110 miles an hour. Two small buildings were destroyed and a negro woman was killed by a live wire. Two river steamers were sunk, a schooner and a steamer were driven ashore and small boats were lost.

The earth shocks were felt shortly after 4 o'clock and were severest in Montgomery and Birmingham, Ala., where swaying office buildings were emptied within a few minutes. In these towns chimneys were destroyed and articles were hurled from shelves in residences and shops. Elsewhere no damage was reported.

Mobile was struck early in the day and wire communication went down in a short time. New Orleans escaped the storm.

Everywhere the high wind was accompanied by a torrential downpour of water. At Burwood, La., there was a fall of nearly 11 inches during the day.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Typhoid Fever.

The question, Who should be vaccinated against typhoid fever? has recently been answered by a noted physician of this country. He says all who come under the following heads should be vaccinated against typhoid, as their positions largely increase their chances for contracting it: Drummers and railroad men; all vacationists, especially campers; people who travel much; practicing physicians and nurses; all people who live in towns and small cities; people who live in the country; people who live in a town or community where typhoid is epidemic; people who eat at various hotels and restaurants; people who have no means of knowing whether their food has been free from flies and dirt, and finally all people who have not big bank accounts or who have loved ones dependent on them. The doctor does not say as much, but he evidently means to include the whole world, for fear somebody will willfully be left out.

Another doctor who does not want to be responsible for any person's remaining unvaccinated and contracting typhoid fever and perhaps dying says that there are only two classes of people whom he does not advise to take the treatment—the dead and those who have already been vaccinated.

Things to Worry About.

An ostrich does not yield feathers after it is fifty years old.

Our Daily Special.

It is an odd man who doesn't try to get even.

Luke McLuke Says:

Every man knows that, while the manager may be drawing the pay, her husband is doing all the work.

It often happens that a man will avoid temptation only to hook up with something just as good.

It is a mighty lucky thing for the girls that their faces do not look anything like their elbows.

Many a man who has taken a chance would give a whole lot for a chance to put it back.

A princess just loves half of her acquaintances and just hates the other half.

Forgetting to mail the letter your wife gave you isn't the most serious mistake in life. Forgetting to burn the letter some other woman sent you is the most serious mistake.

When a man starts to tell you how honest and upright he is keep both hands on your money and both eyes on the other man's hands.

A man likes to give a party because he can invite his friends and make them happy. A woman likes to give a party so she can make her enemies unhappy by not inviting them.

Every now and then you see where some man is suing some other man because his wife's affection has been alienated. A wife's affection is worth $100,000,000,000 if it can't be alienated by another man, but if it can be alienated by another man it isn't worth a Mexican penny.

Most men would be more polite to their wives only they know that if they were their wives would become suspicious.

It is all right to have an aim in life, but a lot of the bright young men spend so much time in aiming that the game always gets away.

THUNDER OF BIG GUNS HEARD IN PARIS, SIXTY MILES FROM THE BATTLE LINE

BIG FRENCH GUN PREPARES WAY FOR ATTACK ON SOMME

This picture shows the firing of one of the pieces of the French heavy artillery mounted upon and fired from specially laid tracks. "It is perhaps," says a French account, "one of these pieces which were heard thundering even in Paris during the fighting on arouses apprehension of a catastrophe. "The hearer thinks it portends the end of the world," says one who approached the gun as it was fired. The "pollus" love its tremendous voice. When they hear it behind them, suppose the Somme, its formidable roaring porting their attacks with the hur-ing of tons of explosives, their bayonets burn in their hands. They throw themselves against the foe. The nearest trench to Paris about 80 miles from the French capital, so its tremendous volume of sound heard when one of these guns is fired may be estimated.
